Epistles From A Roman

Soldier Of Rome Recounts Boredom Of Duty In Hot, Restive Jerusalem

(This is the first of five Easter articles entitled "Epistles from a Roman". Each takes the form of a letter written by a Roman officer stationed in Judea who describes the historic events of a Passover season 2,000 years ago to his father in pagan Rome.)

By TOM HENSHAW

Jerusalem, Judea

Gaius my father,

I transmit to you the warmest filial greetings of a forlorn son who realizes after but a short time the dreadful error he made in asking transfer to this place. What did I do to deserve this, my new post of duty?

Judea is a wretched land, oppressed by sun and wind and barren of the smallest pleasures and comforts of glorious Rome or even provincial Gaul. East of us lies a great sea in which not a living thing can survive. The land is little better.

And the people! Strange, incomprehensible people! People so far removed from sensible thought that the son of a lowly carpenter can ride into the city on an ass—as one did—and be called king and be taken seriously by the people in the streets!

STRANGEST of the strange are the Jews who reject all the gods but one and claim to be his chosen people. Chosen people, indeed! If they are, why is it not they who rule instead of Rome?

Jerusalem is a seething hotbed of gossip and rumor, spawned in the superstitious fears and hopes of its wretched inhabitants and heightened by the approach of a festival called passover, the holy season of the Jews, who rapidly fill the city to overflowing.

The wildest of rumor has reached the ears of the Procurator for he has come all the way from Caesarea to supervise personally the maintenance of the peace.

"IF THIS GALILEAN is the royal messiah. then the Procurator has few worries for the man entered the city yesterday riding an ass instead of a kingly litter while his followers waved palm fronds instead of swords."

He is a timorous man, our Procurator Pilate, one who will go to great lengths to avoid trouble.

My friend Titus tells me the Procurator's fears go back to the time when he brought the banners of the Caesar into the city and it so aroused the Jews that Tiberius himself reprimanded Pilate and caused the banners to be removed.

This time, the Procurator's chief concern is the carpenter's son, who has come all the way from Galilee in the tetrarchy of Herod Antipas to be in Jerusalem for the passover and, some say, to become king of the Jews.

MANY JEWS believe him to be the anointed one — called by the Greeks the Christus — or the savior promised by the prophets of old who would be sent by their one god to overthrow foreign rulers and restore the ancient kingdom of Israel.

If this Galilean is the royal messiah, then the Procurator has few worries for the man entered the city yesterday riding an ass instead of a kingly litter while his followers waved palm fronds instead of swords. We who watched could scarcely contain our amusement.

Nevertheless, our timid Procurator has suspended the daily garrison routine and has ordered the soldiers to remain inconspicuous for fear of arousing the Jews. Personally, I think one legion could clear the land of these people in a single day!

My friend Titus has told me some of the many stories that circulate about the man from Galilee who, for the past two or three years, has been agitating in the vicinity of Capernaum on the shore of the great fresh water sea. He appears to be something of a sorcerer.

ONE OF the stories concerns a woman of Magdala, well-known to our troops in Galilee for her easy virtues, who was reformed by the mere touch of the Galilean's hand. Our troops still speak peevishly of this unwelcome transformation.

It is said too that a Roman centurion, of all people, became a follower of the Galilean after the sorcerer cured the centurion's servant of palsy. This I find so hard to believe that I really should wait confirmation before passing the story on to you.

Three-Point Course Set On 'Summit'

Compromise Bared As Ike, Macmillan Wind Up Meetings

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan have proposed that the Western Allies adopt a three-point approach to a summit conference with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev this summer.

It was learned today that this was the compromise formula agreed on in talks between the two Western leaders at Camp David, Md., Saturday.

Now under discussion by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and French President Charles de Gaulle, it represents a compromise between Macmillan's urgent desire to meet with Khrushchev unconditionally and Eisenhower's reluctance to meet without promise of achievement.

The three points:

1. The Big Four powers — the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union—should open a foreign ministers meeting at Geneva May 11; Khrushchev has already substantially agreed to this. The foreign ministers should reach agreements on the widest possible range of German and related problems, try to narrow Soviet-West differences and prepare proposals for a later summit conference.

2. The heads of government should hold their meeting when justified by the work of the foreign ministers.

3. The foreign ministers therefore would have the responsibility of determining the time, place, and subject matter of the summit conference.

The proposal covering these points was drafted by Macmillan and Eisenhower for inclusion in Western notes now expected to go to Moscow later this week. Khrushchev has been pressing for a summit conference for many months.

Some officials say the forging of a summit meeting was one of the Soviet leaders objectives in stirring up the Berlin crisis beginning last November.

Macmillan feels the Western heads of government must negotiate with Khrushchev even if the foreign ministers conference is a failure. Eisenhower feels every effort must be made to get basic progress toward a solution of the Berlin crisis and some start on other German problems at the foreign ministers meeting.

Eisenhower was reported to consider as "fine" the results of the discussions he began with Macmillan here Friday. A British spokesman described the prime minister as "happy and satisfied."

Macmillan arranged a morning meeting at the British Embassy with the top U.S. economic experts.

Britain protested to the State Department in January the award to an American firm of a $1,750,-

'Looking For A Maniac'

Spokane Combed For Girl's Killer

SPOKANE, (AP) — An aroused police force vowed today to find the killer of Candy Rogers, a 9-year-old Campfire girl whose ravished body was found in a clump of woods after a 16-day search.

"We'll put every available man on the case and keep them there until the thing is solved," said Police Chief Clifford Payne, father of a daughter aged 9.

"We know what we're looking for now. We're looking for a maniac."

He said it appeared the child had been picked up on a street corner, raped, strangled with a piece of her own slip, then buried under a pile of brush miles from town—all within a few hours 17 days ago.

Never before has Spokane or its 230-man police force been so stirred by a case. The pretty fourth-grader vanished March 6 while selling Campfire mints door to door near her home.

Police found six boxes of mints scattered near a bridge in the 12 hours that followed the disappearance, then ran into a blank wall despite 750 tips from substantial citizens, skid row bums and tea leaf readers. Three searchers in an Air Force helicopter were killed in a crash.

Thousands of volunteers combed the canyon below Candy's home, scoured along the banks of the canyon's Spokane River, checked garages, old cars and—with apologies beforehand—home of reputable residents.

CANDY ROGERS

Threat Sent To Wife Of City Doctor

Officers Lie In Wait To Grab Suspect As He Comes To 'Drop'

A 15-year-old boy was nabbed by police and federal agents Saturday night in a trap after he attempted to extort $500 from the wife of an East End physician.

The East End youth, who was involved in a breaking and entering in mid-January, was taken to the Mahoning County Jail in Youngstown by federal agents after his arrest and was to be arraigned before the U. S. Commissioner there today on the extortion charge.

Police Chief Americo Radeschi and Patrolman Thomas Walker, along with the federal agents from Cleveland and Youngstown, sprung the trap on the youth after he picked up a paper sack containing phony money.

The boy had mailed a note to Mrs. J. Keith Rugh, 1112 Ohio Ave., Wednesday, threatening to harm her children and her home unless she followed his instructions to drop the money in a bag in front of the Second Presbyterian Church on Virginia Ave.

Chief Radeschi said the youth admitted the plot after being questioned at police headquarters but would say only that he "needed the money."

Officers said they understood the youth had carried the note with him for several days before mailing it Wednesday. It was postmarked at 4 p. m.

Chief Radeschi said a tablet on which the youth wrote the note was recovered. Under a strong light, the impression made when he printed the note still was visible on the next sheet of paper, the chief said.

The envelope was addressed to "Mrs. Rugh, 1112 Ohio St., East Liverpool, Ohio." Postal employes evidently crossed out the street address and inserted a box number.

Printed with a ballpoint pen, the note read:

"Take $500, put it in a paper bag, put it in front of the church on Virginia Ave. If you don't, your house and children (sic) will be taken care of. Then if you don't, you will be killed. Put the money there Saturday night at eight.

House And Senate Committees Get Set For First Hearings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The big push for millions more in new taxes picks up speed in the democrat-controlled Legislature this week.

Spurred by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's plea for early action to finance his two billion dollar state operating budget, House and Senate taxation committees will step up activities.

Sen. Stephen R. Olenick (D-Mahoning) said his committee will start hearings Wednesday on a bill carrying sales tax boosts of more than 200 million dollars in two years. The measure also provides for an additional 20 millions by eliminating sales tax stamps.

Chairman A. G. Lancione (D-Belmont) of the House Taxation Committee said measures to boost cigarette, beer and corporation franchise revenues might be recommended for passage by Wednesday.

Easter Series

For a moving experience in religious reading, be sure to read "Epistles From A Roman" — a fascinating Easter series starting today on the front page of The Review.

Tom Henshaw, Associated Press religion writer, has pictured the classic scenes of the Easter story through the words of a Roman soldier stationed in Jerusalem and caught up by Christ's powerful appeal.

The letters trace the soldier's gradual change from mocking disbelief to devoted admiration. You will want to read all five articles.

Guard Taken As Hostage

4 Prisoners Flee Youngstown Jail

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Three men and a woman overpowered two guards and escaped from the Mahoning County jail early today. They took one jailer as a hostage, but released him unharmed seven miles away.

The quartet took at least two pistols and escaped in a car owned by one of the jailers. Another guard was locked in a cell after being smashed on the head. One of the escapees threatened to put a bullet through his heart.

Chief Jailer O. W. Heldman said the four were Robert Herman, 35, Joseph Orville, 23, and Donald Sweet, 24, all of Youngstown; and Mrs. Lola Gordon, of Toledo.

The two deputies overpowered were William Driskell and John Downey. Downey was locked in a cell. Driskell was jumped upon by one of the men as he alighted from an elevator, then taken outside to his car. The men stopped long enough to go up to the sixth floor to free Mrs. Gordon.

Driskell said the fugitives had difficulty starting the car and scraped the right fender as the auto left the jail garage.

Driskell was found halfway between Youngstown and Warren in a ditch at McKinley Heights. His feet were bound and he was handcuffed. He had on only his shirt and trousers in the sub-freezing weather. He said the four told him: "We hope you don't freeze to death."

Herman was being held for armed robbery and parole violation; Orville for burglary and parole violation; Sweet for breaking and entering and parole violation; and Mrs. Gordon was awaiting release after being cleared of burglary of school houses, a charge on which her husband, Thomas, was convicted.

The six-story building, opened in 1957, was believed to be escape-proof.

Columbiana Officers Alerted After Break

The Columbiana County Sheriff's office, alerted to the escape of the four prisoners at Youngstown, has two cruisers on duty today. The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon also alerted all its officers to be on the lookout for the fugitives.

Bungles Suicide Attempt

Ex-Convict In Kidnap Case Fails In Bid To Take Life

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Richard A. Payne, the youthful former convict who bungled his way through a bizarre kidnapping episode, has bungled a suicide attempt.

At breakfast call Sunday, keepers at Kanawha County jail found the 23-year-old Payne bleeding profusely from a deep razor blade cut on the inside elbow joint of his left arm.

He was treated at a hospital and returned to his cell, vowing, "I'm not going back to the penitentiary. If I can get my hands on a pistol, I know I'm not going back. I want to get rid of myself because I know I'm dangerous."

The deranged prisoner, who held three children and their 29-year-old mother captive in their family car for 20 hours Wednesday and Thursday, said he has dug out the background reason for the sensational episode.

It was jealousy over the "true and perfect love" of his former cellmate, Burton Junior Post, 31, Payne maintained.

Post is serving five consecutive five-year terms for armed robbery and other charges. His 17-year-old wife is destined to remain in a reformatory for girls until she is 21 for having aided in his crimes.

In a "last will and testament" addressed to Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, Payne said in part:

"I realize now that my hatred for Burton Junior Post was only because he had found what I couldn't have and that is a true and perfect love."

Released from the state penitentiary at Moundsville only eight days earlier, Payne abducted Mrs. Elma Baldwin, 29, of Charleston and three children aged 5, 7 and 10 Wednesday night and threatened to torture and kill them unless the governor released Post from prison.

Yorkville Man Flees In Son's Beating Death

Escapes From Home When Deputies Try To Make Arrest

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A father charged with attempting to kill his five-year-old son was sought today by Jefferson County authorities.

Howard Max Muniz avoided arrest Sunday when he fled from his home in Yorkville clad only in his underwear, deputies said. His wife, Kathryn, accused him of beating their son, Howard Franklin, with a flashlight and slamming him against a wall.

Muniz was charged with assault with intent to kill.

The boy, who suffered internal injuries and multiple bruises, was in poor condition at Martins Ferry hospital.

When Yorkville police were summoned to the home, Muniz said the boy had fallen down stairs.

Charges were filed after Mrs. Muniz told of the beating. The father fled when deputies attempted to arrest him.

Eight Reported Killed In Coal Mine Explosion

ROBBINS, Tenn. (AP) — Eight men were reported killed today in a coal mine explosion near here.

The explosion occurred in the Brimstone mine.

State Police said rescuers had not been able to reach the miners, but eight were believed to be dead. There were no immediate reports on how many miners were in the mine.

Robbins is in Scott County about 75 miles northwest of Knoxville.

Later Shopping Hours Due In City Wednesday

East Liverpool stores will skip their usual midweek half-holiday and remain open until 5 p. m. Wednesday to allow extra time for Easter shoppers.

As schools are closed in advance of the holiday, the plan will allow an additional afternoon for parents who wish to take their youngsters shopping for Easter outfits, merchants explained.

The added store hours at midweek also should help soften the last-minute rush Friday and Saturday, the businessmen said. Normally, the stores close at noon each Wednesday except in holiday weeks and December, when hours are extended for Christmas shopping.

Eisenhower To Ask More Jobless Help

Governors Attend White House Parley On State Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is expected to tell state governors today that unless they soon broaden state jobless aid laws Congress may step in and enact compulsory federal standards.

Eisenhower invited the executive committee of the Governors Conference to the White House to explore ways to improve the federal-state unemployment compensation system.

Eisenhower has repeatedly urged the states to improve the amounts and duration of benefits under their programs. They have responded, but not to the degree he has asked. Meanwhile, a number of Democrats in Congress are advocating federal legislation in view of the nearly five million presently unemployed.

Under the present system, dating back to the Democratic New Deal, the federal government levies a pay roll tax of up to 3 per cent on employers. Most of the money is returned to the states to spend on jobless benefits as insured workers are discharged or YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Three men and a woman overpowered two guards and escaped from the Mahoning County jail early today. They took one jailer as a hostage, but released him unharmed seven miles away.

The quartet took at least two pistols and escaped in a car owned by one of the jailers. Another guard was locked in a cell after being smashed on the head. One of the escapees threatened to put a bullet through his heart.

Chief Jailer O. W. Heldman said the four were Robert Herman, 35, Joseph Orville, 23, and Donald Sweet, 24, all of Youngstown; and Mrs. Lola Gordon, of Toledo.

The two deputies overpowered were William Driskell and John Downey. Downey was locked in a cell. Driskell was jumped upon by one of the men as he alighted from an elevator, then taken outside to his car. The men stopped long enough to go up to the sixth floor to free Mrs. Gordon.

Driskell said the fugitives had difficulty starting the car and scraped the right fender as the auto left the jail garage.

Driskell was found halfway between Youngstown and Warren in a ditch at McKinley Heights. His feet were bound and he was handcuffed. He had on only his shirt and trousers in the sub-freezing weather. He said the four told him: "We hope you don't freeze to death."

Herman was being held for armed robbery and parole violation; Orville for burglary and parole violation; Sweet for breaking and entering and parole violation; and Mrs. Gordon was awaiting release after being cleared of burglary of school houses, a charge on which her husband, Thomas, was convicted.

The six-story building, opened in 1957, was believed to be escape-proof.

Columbiana Officers Alerted After Break

The Columbiana County Sheriff's office, alerted to the escape of the four prisoners at Youngstown, has two cruisers on duty today. The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon also alerted all its officers to be on the lookout for the fugitives.

Yorkville Man Flees In Son's Beating Death

Escapes From Home When Deputies Try To Make Arrest

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A father charged with attempting to kill his five-year-old son was sought today by Jefferson County authorities.

Howard Max Muniz avoided arrest Sunday when he fled from his home in Yorkville clad only in his underwear, deputies said. His wife, Kathryn, accused him of beating their son, Howard Franklin, with a flashlight and slamming him against a wall.

Muniz was charged with assault with intent to kill.

The boy, who suffered internal injuries and multiple bruises, was in poor condition at Martins Ferry hospital.

When Yorkville police were summoned to the home, Muniz said the boy had fallen down stairs.

Charges were filed after Mrs. Muniz told of the beating. The father fled when deputies attempted to arrest him.

Bungles Suicide Attempt

Ex-Convict In Kidnap Case Fails In Bid To Take Life

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Richard A. Payne, the youthful former convict who bungled his way through a bizarre kidnapping episode, has bungled a suicide attempt.

At breakfast call Sunday, keepers at Kanawha County jail found the 23-year-old Payne bleeding profusely from a deep razor blade cut on the inside elbow joint of his left arm.

He was treated at a hospital and returned to his cell, vowing, "I'm not going back to the penitentiary. If I can get my hands on a pistol, I know I'm not going back. I want to get rid of myself because I know I'm dangerous."

The deranged prisoner, who held three children and their 29-year-old mother captive in their family car for 20 hours Wednesday and Thursday,said he has dug out the background reason for the sensational episode.

It was jealousy over the "true and perfect love" of his former cellmate, Burton Junior Post, 31, Payne maintained.

Post is serving five consecutive five-year terms for armed robbery and other charges. His 17-year-old wife is destined to remain in a reformatory for girls until she is 21 for having aided in his crimes.

In a "last will and testament" addressed to Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, Payne said in part:

"I realize now that my hatred for Burton Junior Post was only because he had found what I couldn't have and that is a true and perfect love."

Released from the state penitentiary at Moundsville only eight days earlier, Payne abducted Mrs. Elma Baldwin, 29, of Charleston and three children aged 5, 7 and 10 Wednesday night and threatened to torture and kill them unless the governor released Post from prison.

Later Shopping Hours Due In City Wednesday

East Liverpool stores will skip their usual midweek half-holiday and remain open until 5 p. m. Wednesday to allow extra time for Easter shoppers.

As schools are closed in advance of the holiday, the plan will allow an additional afternoon for parents who wish to take their youngsters shopping for Easter outfits, merchants explained.

The added store hours at midweek also should help soften the last-minute rush Friday and Saturday, the businessmen said. Normally, the stores close at noon each Wednesday except in holiday weeks and December, when hours are extended for Christmas shopping.

Eisenhower To Ask More Jobless Help

Governors Attend White House Parley On State Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is expected to tell state governors today that unless they soon broaden state jobless aid laws Congress may step in and enact compulsory federal standards.

Eisenhower invited the executive committee of the Governors Conference to the White House to explore ways to improve the federal-state unemployment compensation system.

Eisenhower has repeatedly urged the states to improve the amounts and duration of benefits under their programs. They have responded, but not to the degree he has asked. Meanwhile, a number of Democrats in Congress are advocating federal legislation in view of the nearly five million presently unemployed.

Under the present system, dating back to the Democratic New Deal, the federal government levies a pay roll tax of up to 3 per cent on employers. Most of the money is returned to the states to spend on jobless benefits as insured workers are discharged or

Thieves Enter City Churches

$5 In Cash Stolen In 2 Enterings

Thieves paid little attention to the start of Holy Week, breaking into two city churches on Palm Sunday night or early this morning, police reported.

The thieves made off with $5 from the Orchard Grove Community Methodist Church on Orchard Grove Ave. but overlooked an additional sum there and $11 at the First Church of the Nazarene at Walnut St. and St. Clair Ave., Patrolman William McDaniel, investigating officer, said.

The burglary at the Orchard Grove church occurred between 8:30 p. m. yesterday and 8:30 a. m. today, the officer said, adding that no sign of a forcible entry could be seen. He indicated the thief might have hidden in the church after Sunday night services, or else jerked open a fire door in the basement.

The $5 was taken from a desk in the study of the Rev. James Gardner, which was ransacked. The pulpit also was opened, the officer said.

The thief overlooked $11 in two envelopes at the Nazarene church, which was entered between 9:45 p. m. yesterday and 8 a. m. today. Doors into the office and study of the Rev. James E. Hunton were pried open and locks on desks and cabinets were forced, Officer McDaniel said

Contents of the desks and cabinets were scattered around the offices and the pulpit also was opened, he added.

The thief broke a basement window pane and then reached through and unlocked the window and entered, police said.

Meanwhile, Liverpool Township Constable Wilbert Taylor said youngsters apparently broke into the home of P. E. Baldwin on Anderson Blvd. over the weekend, stealing $30 in currency. The thief apparently discovered —or knew—the hiding place of a key and used it to enter the home, the constable said.

Threat

bad for you and your family. Put the money in the street. Do not stop the car. Do not tell the cops or anyone or you will be killed."

Chief Radeschi said Mrs. Rugh told him of the threat on Friday and federal agents were advised immediately because using the mails made it a federal charge.

An agent from the Youngstown office came here the same day and conducted a preliminary investigation and plans were made for the trap.

Chief Radeschi made an enlarged map of the East End area where the money drop was to be made and the FBI officers were briefed and some copies of regular city maps were distributed.

William Murphy, agent in charge of the Cleveland office, and Stanley Peterson, agent in charge at Youngstown, used the detailed maps to post their men.

Murphy and Chief Radeschi were posted in the vicinity of the church and the others, including Patrolman Walker, were spotted nearby. All were at their posts by 7 p. m., an hour before the scheduled drop.

In complying with the extortionist's instructions, Mrs. Rugh drove past the church promptly at 8, the chief said, and threw the bag, stuffed with phony money, to the sidewalk.

The boy was apprehended within two minutes, with Chief Radeschi confronting him with a gun. The chief said today he probably wouldn't have drawn a gun but the boy is about 6 feet tall and appeared older than his age.

Never suspecting a youth, Chief Radeschi said he and the agents were surprised when the youth appeared, apparently out of nowhere.

He later told the officers he was hidden beyond a utility pole between Mapletree and Elmtree Sts. when he saw Mrs. Rugh drive past.

Then he walked to the spot near the church and picked up the sack.

The youth was arrested in connection with a burglary at Bob's Sports Shop on Pennsylvania Ave. about the middle of January, the chief said.

With the exception of Patrolman Walker, a member of the department's Special Service Bureau, few other city officers were told of the case.

In commenting today, Safety-Service Director Joseph Ross said Murphy was "high in his praise" for the work of Chief Radeschi and took the detailed maps prepared for the trap to show as examples of good police work in local communities.

"It also points up the fact that if citizens are in trouble and will contact police they will receive full co-operation. By contacting police, there is an excellent chance to prevent a crime," he said.

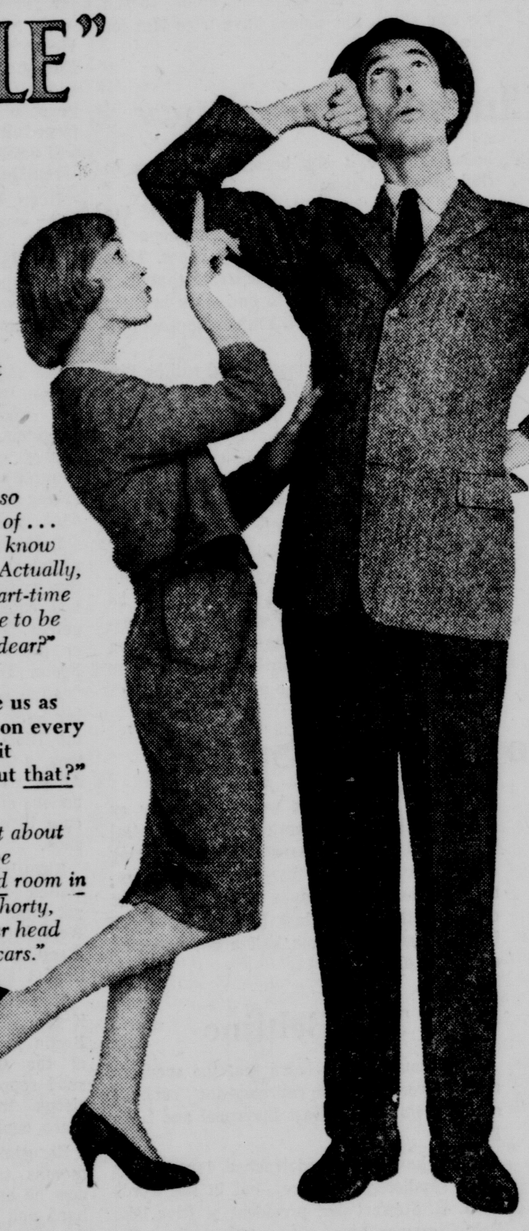
"I want a car that's BUILT FOR PEOPLE"

"Just like a woman! I want a car BUILT FOR SAVINGS"



"Dave, I've found exactly the right car for us! It'll make driving ever so much more comfortable."

"Comfort's fine, Nancy, but we've got to consider savings, too. And I've found just the car for that!"

"But the car I've found is so easy to get in and out of . . . and so comfy to sit in. You know how much I have to drive. Actually, a full-time mother is a part-time chauffeur. You do want me to be comfortable—don't you, dear?"

"Yes, but my car will save us as much as $1.00 on every tankful of gas because it uses regular. How about that?"

"Well, that's nice, but what about my frilly hats? We'll have hat room not just head room in my car. And you're no shorty, either . . . you'd bump your head in a lot of those new cars."

"Not in this one. Besides, it only needs oil changes each 4000 miles."

"And for not one penny extra, we'll get a lot of extra saving features in the car I want . . . like its muffler that's aluminized to normally last twice as long."

Thieves Enter City Churches

$5 In Cash Stolen In 2 Enterings

Thieves paid little attention to the start of Holy Week, breaking into two city churches on Palm Sunday night or early this morning, police reported.

The thieves made off with $5 from the Orchard Grove Community Methodist Church on Orchard Grove Ave. but overlooked an additional sum there and $11 at the First Church of the Nazarene at Walnut St. and St. Clair Ave., Patrolman William McDaniel, investigating officer, said.

The burglary at the Orchard Grove church occurred between 8:30 p. m. yesterday and 8:30 a. m. today, the officer said, adding that no sign of a forcible entry could be seen. He indicated the thief might have hidden in the church after Sunday night services, or else jerked open a fire door in the basement.

The $5 was taken from a desk in the study of the Rev. James Gardner, which was ransacked. The pulpit also was opened, the officer said.

The thief overlooked $11 in two envelopes at the Nazarene church, which was entered between 9:45 p. m. yesterday and 8 a. m. today. Doors into the office and study of the Rev. James E. Hunton were pried open and locks on desks and cabinets were forced, Officer McDaniel said

Contents of the desks and cabinets were scattered around the offices and the pulpit also was opened, he added.

The thief broke a basement window pane and then reached through and unlocked the window and entered, police said.

Meanwhile, Liverpool Township Constable Wilbert Taylor said youngsters apparently broke into the home of P. E. Baldwin on Anderson Blvd. over the weekend, stealing $30 in currency. The thief apparently discovered —or knew—the hiding place of a key and used it to enter the home, the constable said.

Beaver County Moves Patients To New Home

Some 150 Civil Defense workers in conjunction with the County Commissioners, made the move. About 17 ambulances were used for the bed-ridden patients and three buses were used for the ambulatory patients.

The move, termed a "success," had been planned in advance. The new home was dedicated March 13.

LISBON — Over 300 attended the first of a series of Holy Week Services Sunday night at the First Presybterian Church, sponsored by the Ministerial Association. The Rev. Robert Hughes French of Cleveland is guest speaker.

Services will continue at the church through Thursday, with Good Friday services scheduled for the First Christian Church Friday starting at 2 p. m.

Threat

bad for you and your family. Put the money in the street. Do not stop the car. Do not tell the cops or anyone or you will be killed."

Chief Radeschi said Mrs. Rugh told him of the threat on Friday and federal agents were advised immediately because using the mails made it a federal charge.

An agent from the Youngstown office came here the same day and conducted a preliminary investigation and plans were made for the trap.

Chief Radeschi made an enlarged map of the East End area where the money drop was to be made and the FBI officers were briefed and some copies of regular city maps were distributed.

William Murphy, agent in charge of the Cleveland office, and Stanley Peterson, agent in charge at Youngstown, used the detailed maps to post their men.

Murphy and Chief Radeschi were posted in the vicinity of the church and the others, including Patrolman Walker, were spotted nearby. All were at their posts by 7 p. m., an hour before the scheduled drop.

In complying with the extortionist's instructions, Mrs. Rugh drove past the church promptly at 8, the chief said, and threw the bag, stuffed with phony money, to the sidewalk.

The boy was apprehended within two minutes, with Chief Radeschi confronting him with a gun. The chief said today he probably wouldn't have drawn a gun but the boy is about 6 feet tall and appeared older than his age.

Never suspecting a youth, Chief Radeschi said he and the agents were surprised when the youth appeared, apparently out of nowhere.

He later told the officers he was hidden beyond a utility pole between Mapletree and Elmtree Sts. when he saw Mrs. Rugh drive past.

Then he walked to the spot near the church and picked up the sack.

The youth was arrested in connection with a burglary at Bob's Sports Shop on Pennsylvania Ave. about the middle of January, the chief said.

With the exception of Patrolman Walker, a member of the department's Special Service Bureau, few other city officers were told of the case.

In commenting today, Safety-Service Director Joseph Ross said Murphy was "high in his praise" for the work of Chief Radeschi and took the detailed maps prepared for the trap to show as examples of good police work in local communities.

"It also points up the fact that if citizens are in trouble and will contact police they will receive full co-operation. By contacting police, there is an excellent chance to prevent a crime," he said.

Seven car clubs from East Liverpool and Wellsville have united to sponsor a "Car Club Friendship Dance" Wednesday night at Lake Marwin.

Plans for the event were made during a meeting Sunday afternoon by representatives of the various clubs. There will be no admission charged.

Al Mercer, spokesman for the group who will act as disc jockey, said the dance is being held "to emphasize that there are no hard feelings between car clubs" as the result of last week's incident at Wellsville.

He also stressed the clubs' desire to continue to operate within the law and claimed that much false information has resulted from the police action of last week.

Clubs sponsoring Wednesday night's dance are the Pacers, Cam Busters, Drifters, Road Runners, Push Rods and Coachmen of East Liverpool and the Road Knights of Wellsville.

The dance will be from 8 to 11:30.

Union Reform Proposed In New York

There is striking similarity in a union-reform proposal made for New York state by Gov. Rockefeller and Gov. DiSalle's proposal for Ohio.

In both cases, first-term governors have declared it is their intention to differentiate between good unionists, who would have nothing to fear from a reform law, and bad ones, who could be put to rout by enforcement of the laws they propose.

In both cases, it is pointed out that responsible unionists need strong legal support for their own efforts to free themselves of the leeches that have attached themselves to the union movement.

And in both cases it is made clear that unions have attained such importance in the organization of society that they must be controlled as closely as employers. In New York, the Rockefeller proposal goes beyond the DiSalle proposal in Ohio by including new procedures for employer organizations as well as for unions. But the intent in both proposals is to regularize labor-management relations by public authority in such a manner as to bar coercion, bribe-paying and bribe-receiving by either side.

Though the DiSalle plan appears to have more punch in it, as far as dealing harshly with unionism's bad eggs, the Rockefeller bill has more impact because it hits at corruption in the vast New York City area.

Both proposals raise the question whether labor unions finally have reached a stage of development that makes it possible for their leaders to accept public help in solving their problems. In the past, the leaders have taken the attitude that all outside interest in their affairs was unfriendly—part of a hostile plot to injure them. Until they have learned to identify their interests with public interests, unions cannot be secure.

Ohio and New York are giving them a chance to admit they owe responsibility for the privileges they demand.

The question in Columbus that needs answering most at the moment is whether a Democratic governor and a Democratic majority in the General Assembly are going to be hog-tied by the labor union chiefs who helped to put them into office.

The question became important recently when Gov. DiSalle was strongly rebuked for his proposal to help clean unionists get rid of dirty unionists by enacting the framework of the AFL-CIO ethical practices code into law.

He was told by the AFL-CIO executive committee, in effect, that his ideas were not welcome and should be re-evaluated before he pressed for their acceptance by the General Assembly.

This served notice at the same time to members of the General Assembly that they should not be concerned with the problem of union reform; that reform was none of their business and in fact was not a proper subject for Ohio to legislate on because the subject was being taken care of in Congress.

Undoubtedly, unionists taking this position are confident of their strength in the General Assembly and confident of their ability to beat the governor if he wants a showdown. They would not have locked horns with him, otherwise, at a time when they are backing so many proposals for new laws and changes in existing laws. They think they have the votes in their pocket to prove they are too strong to tackle.

But not every Democratic representative and senator in the Assembly owes his election to union backing. And among those who do owe their election not every one thinks his mind and his vote belong to the unionists who backed him.

The question is whether there is any way to live politically with the unions, short of surrender to their leaders' dictation.

For Gov. DiSalle, who is beginning a four-year term, the question is far from academic. It looms as a challenge to his ability to run his own show. The unions have tried him for size.

Treatment For A Chronic Emergency

The year 1959 is going to be remembered as the time when lawmakers began to vote permanent help for the temporarily unemployed.

Barring the remote possibility of a war boom so resounding that every idle worker would be shaken off the unemployment lists into a job, there will be a continuation of the phenomenon of rising employment and rising unemployment at the same time.

The problem will plague state legislatures, administrators of unemployment compensation funds and Congress. It will heap fuel on the fires of animosity against employers by left-leaning unionists, and it will give economists something to pontificate about when they are explaining the relationship between productivity and unemployment.

The automobile industry this year is producing more cars than it produced last year with substantially fewer men. In the last 50 years, output per man-hour of labor has tripled, thanks to management's continuous investment in better tools. But as the tools have become better it has become necessary to find better workers.

This is why hundreds of thousands of the temporarily unemployed in 1959 may never be employed again, barring a war boom. They may never be able to demonstrate that they possess the skill needed to find work in their category of employment. Employment will be more selective.

The technologically unemployed will be like the college graduates of yesteryear who must admit when told about the qualifications of today's students that they could not have made the grade in their day if it had been that steep.

Perhaps they will develop new skills or find employment eventually in jobs that require no special skills. But state legislators and congressmen do not expect miracles. Unemployment compensation, which had to be stretched out in 1958 to cover a longer emergency than had been expected, now is being stretched again. For many workers, the emergency is beginning to be permanent.

Be Careful Not To Frighten Spring

There are right and wrong ways to greet spring, just as there are right and wrong ways to pick up a kitten.

This year of all years there should be no mistakes.

One false move and snow shovels still will be showing up cardiac cases a month from now. Spring is bound to be more skittish than usual after so much foul winter weather.

Walk up to spring slowly. Make no sudden motions. Repress the impulse to emit loud yelps. Do not even sigh. Just sneak up close and stand there.

Do not touch spring until it has grown accustomed to the stranger in its presence. Then, when it has quit shivering and trembling, reach out slowly and gently test the fullness of a lilac bud.

If no lilac bud is available, test the forthcoming bloom on a forsythia. Or touch the tip of a crocus leaf. Or carefully move the mulch from the blood-red spear of a peony shoot and touch that.

But remember at all times to move slowly. Do nothing to frighten spring. It could run away and hide for six weeks as easily as not; it is the personification of timidity. And there is still another reason for showing spring every consideration in 1959. This is a reverential occasion. There haven't been two decent days together since last September. There haven't been more than half a dozen decent days all told.

The Beltline

It's encouraging to learn that the sponsors still are workin' on the railroad—the "rubber" one that would link East Liverpool and Lake Erie.

Plans have been sidetracked temporarily for a smaller-type project, but in the words of H. B. Stewart Jr., president of Riverlake Belt Conveyor Lines, Inc.: "We believe the river-lake conveyor is inevitable."

While the conveyor system appears to be several years away, it remains as one of the future phases of industrial development that East Liverpool wouldn't care to lose.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

AIRWAVE FORECASTERS of the moment deserve credit for at least making it easier to get a wide selection of weather. If one fellow is predicting a foot of snow you can always tune into some station and find a forecaster who sees only a couple of inches.

Caught in a station which chills with a prophecy of a drop below zero you can fool around until you find some prophet with a more agreeable disposition who will give you nothing worse than a temperature in the 30s.

It is never necessary to be stuck with bad weather on TV. Not if the dials are all working.

The missus is less easily impressed. There is one young woman weather expert whose clothes never please her. "What was the forecast?" we ask and the wife replies, "I dunno. She's just given it but all I noticed was that she looks awful in tonight's blouse."

She favors male forecasters but not the current crop. It is her idea the job calls for Pat Boone, John Wayne or Burt Lancaster. The moppets think that if the TV screens bother with weather they should get their rain or snow from Hugh O'Brian or Hopalong Cassidy.

"They said it couldn't be done" should be applied to Abe Burrows' amazing and successful switch from the typical Broadway stuff to the high literary feat of making a musical out of a Jane Austin 150-year-old family classic. It's called "First Impressions" (for no good reason), it has taste, charm and delicacy as well as laughs.

WASHINGTON

President Eisenhower is headed toward a summit conference he didn't seek, under circumstances he didn't want, and on problems not yet agreed upon.

All this adds up to a kind of victory for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev who has wanted a summit meeting for more than a year and now has practically forced it on the West. But who will be the ultimate winner—if any—remains to be seen.

News coming out of Eisenhower's weekend of meetings with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has been understandably thin. The two men would hardly want to give the Soviets a full transcript of their conversations.

But of the several bits of information provided by their aides, this much was dominant: the President and prime minister had agreed on their approach to a summit meeting next summer, following a foreign ministers conference in May.

Back in late 1957, with the then premier Nikolai Bulganin doing the writing for him, Khrushchev had called for a summit get-together. He found both Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles chilly to the idea.

After quite a bit of letter writing back and forth, the idea blew up. Then last Nov. 27 Khrushchev took a step which disturbed the Allies no end, forced them into action, and gave him a fresh excuse to call for a summit conference.

Khrushchev demanded that the United States, Britain and France get their occupation troops out of West Berlin. He threatened to sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

This had a real hooker in it: If the Allies kept their troops in Berlin and tried—against the will of the German Communists—to send supplies to their Berlin garrisons through East Germany there could be war.

Khrushchev gave the Allies six months to get moving although now he says in effect it wasn't a hard and fast deadline but just a date he picked off the ceiling. What he wanted most was action, he said.

He kept calling for a summit conference to talk about the Allied troops in West Berlin and a peace treaty for Germany. The West's response was this: let's have a foreign ministers meeting to talk things over.

Eisenhower—ever since the 1955 summit meeting's high pronouncements ended in smoke—has insisted on no more summit meetings unless first the foreign ministers meet and show enough progress and agreement to make a summit conference look worthwhile.

Khrushchev has consistently laughed off a foreign ministers meeting as a preliminary since he regards the ministers as mere errand boys for the heavyweights like himself and Eisenhower.

With the showdown on Berlin getting closer Macmillan went to talk with Khrushchev. He reportedly came away with the idea that a summit meeting was the thing to have. He apparently sold the idea to Eisenhower.

When the Eisenhower-Macmillan aides said over the weekend their bosses had agreed to propose a summit meeting next summer, they gave the impression that results from a foreign ministers meeting first were not as necessary as before.

But while Khrushchev seems to want to limit summit discussions to West Berlin and a German peace treaty, the Western Allies appear to want much broader discussions. The two sides haven't agreed yet on what they should talk about.

In the end the whole idea of a summit conference may break down over a discussion on what the summiteers should discuss. At the moment a summit conference looks more likely than not.

Age Of Anxiety

By Truman Twill

Psychologists at Columbia University have learned that a monkey and a pigeon trained to go through certain mechanical moves to get a squirt of orange juice and a grain of corn fuzz out if given tranquillizers. They can't cut the mustard, as we say at the office.

But it doesn't bother them, because they are tranquillized.

This is the story of the Age of Anxiety.

All of us monkeys and pigeons are being given a choice between being anxious and being tranquil.

The catch is that we achieve tranquillity at the price performance. We are like the alcoholic lush who gets a glow on at the expense of his mental sharpness and physical coordination.

The lush ends up by being at peace with the world. He is happy as a clam at high tide. Yet, it never has occurred to anyone to think of a clam at high tide as the most admirable of living things.

It is impossible any more to go through a week with one's eyes and ears open without running across the statement, "This is an age of anxiety."

Anxiety has become the badge of distinction that men wear in the mid-20th century to mark them from men in other centuries. Even school children these days are supposed to be anxious. Parents insist that their offspring are "nervous," with more than a fair share of mental problems, if they wander off the beam.

Teen-agers are said to have special problems. Young adults are supposed to be under the guns in a special kind of combat with the world.

The middle-aged, of course, are living in a tizzy of frustration as they try to keep their health and sanity in the rat race they are running. And at the end of the line are the special problems of the aged.

They all have problems. They are schooled to believe that if the problems get too big for them to handle they can gulp a tranquillizer and make everything seem to be all right.

The monkey may not get any orange juice and the pigeon may get no corn, but as long as they don't worry it's all right. The big thing is to avert anxiety.

Not all tranquillizers, moreover, are in pill form. There is the public commission set up to study whatever anxiety is causing trouble. This has the effect of "numbing" the collective pain.

There is the form of blaming something beyond control, thus evading personal responsibility.

There is the form of getting expert opinion from someone else, which turns out to be a mumbo-jumbo that fuzzes out the whole matter so no one can be sure any more what was being worried about in the first place.

There is the form of democratic discussion, which turns the problem into a pro-and-con mish-mash and blanks out awareness of its realities.

These, too, are tranquillizers for the Age of Anxiety.

They fuzz out awareness of what needs to be done and insulate the human mind against anxiety.

It is an admirable technique for the care of addled souls in mental hospitals, but have not the psychologists at Columbia illustrated what is wrong with it for monkeys and pigeons that are supposed to be normal?

Liberals Soak Poor

By Raymond Moley

Hoax On 'Little Fellow' Needs Airing

The monstrous hypocrisy of the liberal groups now in control of Congress could not be better illustrated than in the omnibus housing bill before the House and the one passed by the Senate in February. These breast-beating friends of the "little fellow" propose, as they have enacted in the past, a much bigger windfall for rich investors than the alleged benefits they offer in subsidies to the people they claim to help by cheap housing.

Speeches by three members of the House, taking less than 10 minutes of the time of the House on March 3 and 9, have opened an issue which, if seized by the President, the vice president, and the Republican party, could strip the mask from their political enemies who are trying to win the 1960 election with taxpayers' dollars. They could also do exactly what they proclaim they want to do — knock the "party of the rich" label from the Republican party. It is one of the hottest but least understood social and economic issues of our time.

THE THREE congressmen who opened this lid are men who by ability and sincerity have won the respect of every right-thinking individual in their districts. One is a Democrat; the others, Republican. They are Gordon L. McDonough (R-Calif), A. Sydney Herlong, Jr., (D-Fla), and Bruce R. Alger (R-Texas).

Certain public housing bonds, issued by local housing agencies, represent local obligations only. They have back of them the full faith and credit of the United States. This federal backing gives them their gilt-edged value. The federal government gives them a very exclusive tax-exempt basis, which makes them very attractive to people with large incomes. They are really rich men's investments. They pay a little less than regular U.S. government bonds—around 3 per cent, depending upon the year they are issued.

In the omnibus housing bill passed by the House committee, about $2,600,000,000 are authorized, and over their 40-year life they will generate $1,900,000,000 in interest. But to a person of large means, who pays 50 per cent or more in income taxes, the tax advantage will be very large, indeed.

As an example of the windfall, Mr. Herlong cited an issue acquired by a large bank to be sold to its clients. While the interest rate on these would be 3.4 per cent, the people who get them, provided they have incomes of from $50,000 to $100,000 a year, will realize from 14 to 26 per cent on their investment. And it should be noted that this range of income is exceeded by a great many people in this country.

THESE BONDS go into the market in competition with regular U.S. bonds, which pay only a little more in interest and which the Treasury is having plenty of trouble in selling. The reluctance of investors compels the Treasury to pay higher and higher interest on its bonds.

This will be an item in the budget which must be paid every year for all those years. The impact, therefore, will fall on all taxpayers, including the "little fellows" that the liberals claim they love so much. Thus, the liberals behind this housing bill, just like those who have voted over and over for similar bills, are really soaking the poor to enrich the rich.

This deception has been going on for a long time, and there have been strenuous protests against it. In 1952, the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, W. McC. Martin, Jr., said:

"Not only do such issues (tax-free housing bonds) absorb some of the funds which would otherwise supply a market for government bonds or for mortgages generated by new private construction but they afford an opportunity for wealthy individuals and corporations to reduce legally their income tax payments in a period when it is essential that tax revenues be as large as possible."

Some of the mayors who are rushing to Washington to support these liberal housing bills should realize also that these tax-exempt housing bonds go into competition with their own municipal bonds and compel them to pay more and more interest to get money for their own communities.

All they can pledge for those municipals is their own faith and credit. The housing bonds have Uncle Sam's endorsement.

It is time that this hoax on the "little fellow" be thoroughly aired.

Bluff And Bluster

By Frank Tripp

A reader inquires why the United States cannot keep its nose out of other countries' affairs. The answers could fill a library, start a new political party, perhaps a revolution.

The reader very likely reflects the thoughts of many people who think that "defense" has lost its meaning and view our fidgety approach to it as "aggression." In doing this they unconciously join our enemies.

Nevertheless, the fellow, I assume it's a fellow, asks some pertinent and disturbing questions, such as: "When we are broke, as a country and a people, how can we defend ourselves?"

He's looking at our "fabulous expenditures, our devastating taxes, our softening people living it up and falling into a trap of bloodless revolution that will destroy our economy and way of life."

HE SAYS, "We are on a binge of self indulgence; craving the moon and gambling our earth against God's laws, for the glory of science. We are asserting supremacy over all mankind; the most hated nation in the world."

"Let Russia have the moon; let's keep a few bucks, a few secrets and tricks, do a little bluffing ourselves, mind our own business—and tell 'em 'come and get us'," he says.

He cites the Monroe Doctrine that said as much 136 years ago, and, although never enacted into policy by Congress, created the "era of good feeling," the country's period of greatest progress up to that time.

These thoughts are hard to laugh off with the smug conclusion that "times have changed." Because human nature hasn't changed that much. World greed, jealousy and bombast still smack of Nero and Rome; of the middle ages.

A CHAMPION must stay in condition and keep in training if he would retain his title. He must have prestige that awes weaklings; strength that commands the respect of contenders.

And hidden weakness that deceives bullies. The English language has accepted a crude word for it—bluff!

Somehow, because it's euphonious perhaps, "bluff" lost its true meaning in the phrase "bluff and bluster." Nothing will reveal a bluff more than bluster. Americans are history's worst poker players. We expose our hand at the deal of the first card.

For centuries the British Empire got away with it. Until world communication and space elimination exposed the bluff that kept the rest of the world out of the Lion's hair. Johnny Bull's own colonies "called the bluff."

The modern world began to change when peoples learned each others' weaknesses. Ours is bluster, bombast, wealth, luxury, ease and complacency which have generated the "cold war."

A Disraeli or a Bismarck could have done no better than Dulles, with all of the cards face up on the table.

COUNTLESS Americans will go along with the anonymous reader when he asks, in effect, how we will defend ourselves when we have been taxed into penury for giveaways, moon shots, government extravagance, ease, luxury and national softness that will make us a pushover for those who covet the resources we are living up and squandering in one generation.

We are expending our greatest weapon, the most potent defense of our freedom, most feared by our enemies—our national and individual solvency, our durability and capacity to stay it out; even the stamina of our people. The surest way to lose a cold war.

Exactly as communism planned it.

Letter To Editor

We are writing this letter in a case of an emergency. I'm a member of a car club in our city of East Liverpool. It seems to me that the people of our own town should get their facts straight. One thing is the rumble that we were supposedly in. A thing like this will stay in the minds of people for a long time unless it is cleared up. Just walking around town people look at you as if you were some kind of criminal.

As you know, most of our members are still in school. We have, through the supervision of an adviser, done things which we thought were helping the area. We have kept our members out of trouble by playing basketball with independent teams around here. We think that the people of East Liverpool should take pride in what we are doing and render some kind of assistance.

Our club was not organized to have "rumbles", but to help promote safe driving. I think the police departments of both East Liverpool and Wellsville should do a sufficient job of checking on the clubs. I know for a fact that some of their information was incorrect. We were not implicated in any fight as said in the newspaper, and we have proof of our actions on the date of March 18.

Union Reform Proposed In New York

There is striking similarity in a union-reform proposal made for New York state by Gov. Rockefeller and Gov. DiSalle's proposal for Ohio.

In both cases, first-term governors have declared it is their intention to differentiate between good unionists, who would have nothing to fear from a reform law, and bad ones, who could be put to rout by enforcement of the laws they propose.

In both cases, it is pointed out that responsible unionists need strong legal support for their own efforts to free themselves of the leeches that have attached themselves to the union movement.

And in both cases it is made clear that unions have attained such importance in the organization of society that they must be controlled as closely as employers. In New York, the Rockefeller proposal goes beyond the DiSalle proposal in Ohio by including new procedures for employer organizations as well as for unions. But the intent in both proposals is to regularize labor-management relations by public authority in such a manner as to bar coercion, bribe-paying and bribe-receiving by either side.

Though the DiSalle plan appears to have more punch in it, as far as dealing harshly with unionism's bad eggs, the Rockefeller bill has more impact because it hits at corruption in the vast New York City area.

Both proposals raise the question whether labor unions finally have reached a stage of development that makes it possible for their leaders to accept public help in solving their problems. In the past, the leaders have taken the attitude that all outside interest in their affairs was unfriendly—part of a hostile plot to injure them. Until they have learned to identify their interests with public interests, unions cannot be secure.

Ohio and New York are giving them a chance to admit they owe responsibility for the privileges they demand.

The question in Columbus that needs answering most at the moment is whether a Democratic governor and a Democratic majority in the General Assembly are going to be hog-tied by the labor union chiefs who helped to put them into office.

The question became important recently when Gov. DiSalle was strongly rebuked for his proposal to help clean unionists get rid of dirty unionists by enacting the framework of the AFL-CIO ethical practices code into law.

He was told by the AFL-CIO executive committee, in effect, that his ideas were not welcome and should be re-evaluated before he pressed for their acceptance by the General Assembly.

This served notice at the same time to members of the General Assembly that they should not be concerned with the problem of union reform; that reform was none of their business and in fact was not a proper subject for Ohio to legislate on because the subject was being taken care of in Congress.

Undoubtedly, unionists taking this position are confident of their strength in the General Assembly and confident of their ability to beat the governor if he wants a showdown. They would not have locked horns with him, otherwise, at a time when they are backing so many proposals for new laws and changes in existing laws. They think they have the votes in their pocket to prove they are too strong to tackle.

But not every Democratic representative and senator in the Assembly owes his election to union backing. And among those who do owe their election not every one thinks his mind and his vote belong to the unionists who backed him.

The question is whether there is any way to live politically with the unions, short of surrender to their leaders' dictation.

For Gov. DiSalle, who is beginning a four-year term, the question is far from academic. It looms as a challenge to his ability to run his own show. The unions have tried him for size.

Treatment For A Chronic Emergency

The year 1959 is going to be remembered as the time when lawmakers began to vote permanent help for the temporarily unemployed.

Barring the remote possibility of a war boom so resounding that every idle worker would be shaken off the unemployment lists into a job, there will be a continuation of the phenomenon of rising employment and rising unemployment at the same time.

The problem will plague state legislatures, administrators of unemployment compensation funds and Congress. It will heap fuel on the fires of animosity against employers by left-leaning unionists, and it will give economists something to pontificate about when they are explaining the relationship between productivity and unemployment.

The automobile industry this year is producing more cars than it produced last year with substantially fewer men. In the last 50 years, output per man-hour of labor has tripled, thanks to management's continuous investment in better tools. But as the tools have become better it has become necessary to find better workers.

This is why hundreds of thousands of the temporarily unemployed in 1959 may never be employed again, barring a war boom. They may never be able to demonstrate that they possess the skill needed to find work in their category of employment. Employment will be more selective.

The technologically unemployed will be like the college graduates of yesteryear who must admit when told about the qualifications of today's students that they could not have made the grade in their day if it had been that steep.

Perhaps they will develop new skills or find employment eventually in jobs that require no special skills. But state legislators and congressmen do not expect miracles. Unemployment compensation, which had to be stretched out in 1958 to cover a longer emergency than had been expected, now is being stretched again. For many workers, the emergency is beginning to be permanent.

Be Careful Not To Frighten Spring

There are right and wrong ways to greet spring, just as there are right and wrong ways to pick up a kitten.

This year of all years there should be no mistakes.

One false move and snow shovels still will be showing up cardiac cases a month from now. Spring is bound to be more skittish than usual after so much foul winter weather.

Walk up to spring slowly. Make no sudden motions. Repress the impulse to emit loud yelps. Do not even sigh. Just sneak up close and stand there.

Do not touch spring until it has grown accustomed to the stranger in its presence. Then, when it has quit shivering and trembling, reach out slowly and gently test the fullness of a lilac bud.

If no lilac bud is available, test the forthcoming bloom on a forsythia. Or touch the tip of a crocus leaf. Or carefully move the mulch from the blood-red spear of a peony shoot and touch that.

But remember at all times to move slowly. Do nothing to frighten spring. It could run away and hide for six weeks as easily as not; it is the personification of timidity. And there is still another reason for showing spring every consideration in 1959. This is a reverential occasion. There haven't been two decent days together since last September. There haven't been more than half a dozen decent days all told.

It's encouraging to learn that the sponsors still are workin' on the railroad—the "rubber" one that would link East Liverpool and Lake Erie.

Plans have been sidetracked temporarily for a smaller-type project, but in the words of H. B. Stewart Jr., president of Riverlake Belt Conveyor Lines, Inc.: "We believe the river-lake conveyor is inevitable."

While the conveyor system appears to be several years away, it remains as one of the future phases of industrial development that East Liverpool wouldn't care to lose.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

AIRWAVE FORECASTERS of the moment deserve credit for at least making it easier to get a wide selection of weather. If one fellow is predicting a foot of snow you can always tune into some station and find a forecaster who sees only a couple of inches.

Caught in a station which chills with a prophecy of a drop below zero you can fool around until you find some prophet with a more agreeable disposition who will give you nothing worse than a temperature in the 30s.

It is never necessary to be stuck with bad weather on TV. Not if the dials are all working.

The missus is less easily impressed. There is one young woman weather expert whose clothes never please her. "What was the forecast?" we ask and the wife replies, "I dunno. She's just given it but all I noticed was that she looks awful in tonight's blouse."

She favors male forecasters but not the current crop. It is her idea the job calls for Pat Boone, John Wayne or Burt Lancaster. The moppets think that if the TV screens bother with weather they should get their rain or snow from Hugh O'Brian or Hopalong Cassidy.

A Victory Of Sorts For Khrushchev

Liberals Soak Poor

By Raymond Moley

Hoax On 'Little Fellow' Needs Airing

The monstrous hypocrisy of the liberal groups now in control of Congress could not be better illustrated than in the omnibus housing bill before the House and the one passed by the Senate in February. These breast-beating friends of the "little fellow" propose, as they have enacted in the past, a much bigger windfall for rich investors than the alleged benefits they offer in subsidies to the people they claim to help by cheap housing.

Speeches by three members of the House, taking less than 10 minutes of the time of the House on March 3 and 9, have opened an issue which, if seized by the President, the vice president, and the Republican party, could strip the mask from their political enemies who are trying to win the 1960 election with taxpayers' dollars. They could also do exactly what they proclaim they want to do — knock the "party of the rich" label from the Republican party. It is one of the hottest but least understood social and economic issues of our time.

THE THREE congressmen who opened this lid are men who by ability and sincerity have won the respect of every right-thinking individual in their districts. One is a Democrat; the others, Republican. They are Gordon L. McDonough (R-Calif), A. Sydney Herlong, Jr., (D-Fla), and Bruce R. Alger (R-Texas).

Certain public housing bonds, issued by local housing agencies, represent local obligations only. They have back of them the full faith and credit of the United States. This federal backing gives them their gilt-edged value. The federal government gives them a very exclusive tax-exempt basis, which makes them very attractive to people with large incomes. They are really rich men's investments. They pay a little less than regular U.S. government bonds—around 3 per cent, depending upon the year they are issued.

In the omnibus housing bill passed by the House committee, about $2,600,000,000 are authorized, and over their 40-year life they will generate $1,900,000,000 in interest. But to a person of large means, who pays 50 per cent or more in income taxes, the tax advantage will be very large, indeed.

As an example of the windfall, Mr. Herlong cited an issue acquired by a large bank to be sold to its clients. While the interest rate on these would be 3.4 per cent, the people who get them, provided they have incomes of from $50,000 to $100,000 a year, will realize from 14 to 26 per cent on their investment. And it should be noted that this range of income is exceeded by a great many people in this country.

THESE BONDS go into the market in competition with regular U.S. bonds, which pay only a little more in interest and which the Treasury is having plenty of trouble in selling. The reluctance of investors compels the Treasury to pay higher and higher interest on its bonds.

This will be an item in the budget which must be paid every year for all those years. The impact, therefore, will fall on all taxpayers, including the "little fellows" that the liberals claim they love so much. Thus, the liberals behind this housing bill, just like those who have voted over and over for similar bills, are really soaking the poor to enrich the rich.

This deception has been going on for a long time, and there have been strenuous protests against it. In 1952, the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, W. McC. Martin, Jr., said:

"Not only do such issues (tax-free housing bonds) absorb some of the funds which would otherwise supply a market for government bonds or for mortgages generated by new private construction but they afford an opportunity for wealthy individuals and corporations to reduce legally their income tax payments in a period when it is essential that tax revenues be as large as possible."

Some of the mayors who are rushing to Washington to support these liberal housing bills should realize also that these tax-exempt housing bonds go into competition with their own municipal bonds and compel them to pay more and more interest to get money for their own communities.

All they can pledge for those municipals is their own faith and credit. The housing bonds have Uncle Sam's endorsement.

It is time that this hoax on the "little fellow" be thoroughly aired.

Bluff And Bluster

By Frank Tripp

A reader inquires why the United States cannot keep its nose out of other countries' affairs. The answers could fill a library, start a new political party, perhaps a revolution.

The reader very likely reflects the thoughts of many people who think that "defense" has lost its meaning and view our fidgety approach to it as "aggression." In doing this they unconciously join our enemies.

Nevertheless, the fellow, I assume it's a fellow, asks some pertinent and disturbing questions, such as: "When we are broke, as a country and a people, how can we defend ourselves?"

He's looking at our "fabulous expenditures, our devastating taxes, our softening people living it up and falling into a trap of bloodless revolution that will destroy our economy and way of life."

HE SAYS, "We are on a binge of self indulgence; craving the moon and gambling our earth against God's laws, for the glory of science. We are asserting supremacy over all mankind; the most hated nation in the world."

"Let Russia have the moon; let's keep a few bucks, a few secrets and tricks, do a little bluffing ourselves, mind our own business—and tell 'em 'come and get us'," he says.

He cites the Monroe Doctrine that said as much 136 years ago, and, although never enacted into policy by Congress, created the "era of good feeling," the country's period of greatest progress up to that time.

These thoughts are hard to laugh off with the smug conclusion that "times have changed." Because human nature hasn't changed that much. World greed, jealousy and bombast still smack of Nero and Rome; of the middle ages.

A CHAMPION must stay in condition and keep in training if he would retain his title. He must have prestige that awes weaklings; strength that commands the respect of contenders.

And hidden weakness that deceives bullies. The English language has accepted a crude word for it—bluff!

Somehow, because it's euphonious perhaps, "bluff" lost its true meaning in the phrase "bluff and bluster." Nothing will reveal a bluff more than bluster. Americans are history's worst poker players. We expose our hand at the deal of the first card.

For centuries the British Empire got away with it. Until world communication and space elimination exposed the bluff that kept the rest of the world out of the Lion's hair. Johnny Bull's own colonies "called the bluff."

The modern world began to change when peoples learned each others' weaknesses. Ours is bluster, bombast, wealth, luxury, ease and complacency which have generated the "cold war."

A Disraeli or a Bismarck could have done no better than Dulles, with all of the cards face up on the table.

COUNTLESS Americans will go along with the anonymous reader when he asks, in effect, how we will defend ourselves when we have been taxed into penury for giveaways, moon shots, government extravagance, ease, luxury and national softness that will make us a pushover for those who covet the resources we are living up and squandering in one generation.

We are expending our greatest weapon, the most potent defense of our freedom, most feared by our enemies—our national and individual solvency, our durability and capacity to stay it out; even the stamina of our people. The surest way to lose a cold war.

Exactly as communism planned it.

Letter To Editor

We are writing this letter in a case of an emergency. I'm a member of a car club in our city of East Liverpool. It seems to me that the people of our own town should get their facts straight. One thing is the rumble that we were supposedly in. A thing like this will stay in the minds of people for a long time unless it is cleared up. Just walking around town people look at you as if you were some kind of criminal.

As you know, most of our members are still in school. We have, through the supervision of an adviser, done things which we thought were helping the area. We have kept our members out of trouble by playing basketball with independent teams around here. We think that the people of East Liverpool should take pride in what we are doing and render some kind of assistance.

Our club was not organized to have "rumbles", but to help promote safe driving. I think the police departments of both East Liverpool and Wellsville should do a sufficient job of checking on the clubs. I know for a fact that some of their information was incorrect. We were not implicated in any fight as said in the newspaper, and we have proof of our actions on the date of March 18.

Nehru Says Fight Wanes

India To Stay Out Of Tibetan Revolt

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru today said fighting apparently has subsided in the Tibetan capital and the Indian government has no intention of intervening in the revolt against Chinese Communist rule.

"Apparently the situation in Lhasa has somewhat quietened down," the Indian prime minister reported.

Nehru told Parliament he had no reliable information on the fate of the Dalai Lama, Tibet's 23-year-old spiritual and political leader. He said he could only hope he was safe.

The Hong Kong correspondent of the Times of India reported the young god-king was under house arrest in Lhasa, his capital. The report said Peiping had ordered the Chinese military governor of Tibet, Gen. Chang Ching Wu, to "persuade" the Dalai Lama—considered by Tibetans to be the reincarnation of Buddha—to come to the Red Chinese capital in order to withdraw his moral support from the rebels.

Nehru in his remarks to Parliament was in effect answering several Indian newspapers who had criticized his failure to intercede with Peiping on behalf of the Tibetans and the Dalai Lama.

India has long recognized Chinese sovereignty over Tibet, though until the Communists invaded the remote mountain plateau in 1950, the Dalai Lama and his church organization governed Tibet with only occasional interference from the central Chinese government.

Nehru told Parliament the situation in Tibet remains most delicate and "we are not doing anything to make the situation worse."

"We have no intention of interfering in the internal matters of China," he declared, pointing out that India has a treaty of friendly coexistence with Peiping.

The Hong Kong dispatch to the Times of India said Tibetans were "upset over India's inability to do anything on their behalf and regret New Delhi's 'inferiority complex' in relation to China—a complex that prevents India from saving or doing anything that might not be to Peiping's liking."

Tibetan fears that the Reds were planning to kidnap the Dalai Lama were reported to have touched off the revolt. The people demonstrated in the streets of Lhasa March 10-11 when word got out that the Lama had been summoned to a Chinese military reception without his bodyguards. The ruler finally refused to go.

Informants said the demonstrators looted an arsenal and obtained large quantities of arms and ammunition. General fighting was said to have erupted when the Chinese tried to break up the demonstrations.

The only official word from the remote capital came from the Indian consul general, Maj. S. Chibber, who radioed New Delhi Sunday that fighting had ceased in the immediate vicinity of the consulate on the outskirts of Lhasa.

Governor Takes Hand In Cotton Mill Dispute

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Negotiations in the bitter Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mill strike shift to Gov. Luther Hodges' office today.

Hodges asked representatives of the company and Textile Workers Union of America to meet with him after saying that it was imperative that they settle the four-month-old strike at Henderson.

The governor said he would make no definite proposals but simply sit down and discuss matters.

The strike began Nov. 17 after the union was unable to get management to renew an arbitration clause in a new contract. Another issue is the seniority rights of employes who have been working since the mills reopened Feb. 16.

There have been numerous acts of violence.

Constable Joseph Manypenny was hospitalized after the cruiser in which they were riding left the highway and crashed into a utility pole while en route to the scene of an accident Saturday night at 9:05.

Deputy Lou Torchio Jr., 29, of Weirton, driver of the cruiser, suffered bruises and lacerations of the face. Manypenny also was cut about the face.

West Virginia State Police said Torchio was passing another auto operated by John L. Pillo Jr., 16, of Chester when the youth made a left turn into a driveway.

Torchio swerved the cruiser to avoid hitting the auto and left the highway, later crashing into the utility pole before the car came to a halt. The cruiser's red light was flashing at the time, according to state police.

Pillot was cited for failure to signal when turning left, state police reported. He is scheduled for a hearing tonight at 7:30 before Squire Eugene Allison of Chester.

The mishap occured at the Y intersection of Routes 2 and 30 near Chester. Torchio was treated for injuries at Weirton General Hospital. Manypenny was to be released from the hospital today.

Man Escapes Injury When Car Overturns

John Collins, 25, of Rogers R. D. 2 escaped injury Sunday morning at 6:30 when the brakes failed on his 1953 sedan as he was descending a hill on County Rd. 430 about two miles northeast of the city and the car rolled onto its side.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Collins lost control as the brakes failed and the car turned on its side on the roadway.

Irondale Driver Hurt In Mishap At Weirton

An Irondale motorist was injured and later arrested for hazardous driving following a weekend accident on Route 2 in Brooke County near the Market St. Bridge at Weirton.

John Joseph Brandle, 22, of Box 51, Irondale, is in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital, where he was admitted Sunday at 12:20 p. m.

Brooke County sheriff's deputies said Brandle was traveling north on Route 2 about midnight Saturday when he fell asleep at the wheel. His auto crossed the center line and rammed into a southbound auto driven by Arthur Eugene Sullivan, 40, of Wellsburg.

Both motorists were treated at the Ohio Valley Hospital in Steubenville. Brandle later was admitted to City Hospital with possible fractured ribs.

Damage was estimated at more than $1,000 to both cars. Brandle was cited to appear before Squire George Mahan. He posted $34 bond.

Hookstown Man Unhurt In Crash Near Chester

A Hookstown youth escaped injury when his auto overturned on the Route 30 hill near Chester Saturday at 7:30 p. m. Hancock County sheriff's deputies reported today.

Gene Frasier, 19, was uninjured when his auto flipped over and landed upright on its wheels after he had applied the brakes to avoid crashing into the rear of a tractor-trailer rig which had no lights on its rear section.

Deputies said damage seemed "light" to Frasier's 1955 car, which was traveling west. George Ferrari, 28, of Weirton, driver of the truck, was cited to appear before Squire Eugene Allison of Chester on a charge of failure to have lights on the rear end of his trailer rig. Neigher driver was injured, deputies said.

'Eavesdrop' Case Jurors Chosen In Hancock's Court

A $50,000 damage suit filed by Mrs. Adline Roach of Chester against William W. Harper, also of Chester, was being heard today by a panel of petit jurors in Hancock County Circuit Court at New Cumberland.

The panel today was to visit an apartment in Chester rented by Mrs. Roach from the defendant Aug. 1, 1956. Mrs. Roach claims a listening device was installed in an electric receptacle box in her quarters, with the receiver in Harper's apartment.

In a prior decision in the New Cumberland court, Judge J. H. Brennan had ruled for the defendant. The case was appealed to the West Virginia Supreme Court, which overruled Judge Brennan's decision and returned the case to Hancock County.

Mrs. Roach alleges that the intrusion of the listening device was a violation of her right as a private citizen. Another suit against Harper, filed by Ruth McKim, still is pending. She also is asking $50,000, citing similar circumstances.

25,000 Watch Birds

MEDINA, Ohio (AP)—Trying to spot the turkey vultures of Hinckley Lake can be risky business. Mrs. Mildred Kohal of Euclid was out looking for the hard-to-find buzzards Sunday when she tumbled down a ledge and broke a leg. Some 25,000 persons turned out to watch the birds, which leave the area each fall and return each spring.

About 50 attended the event, at which wives were guests. It was announced about 25 members will attend the state auxiliary convention April 11-12 at Columbus.

A dance followed. The next meeting will be April 1 at American Legion Post 4 in East Liverpool, where the state's new Civil Defense organizational program will be outlined.

210 contract for two hydraulic turbines on which the English Electric Co. had bid about $300,000 lower. There have been other disputed trade incidents.

Eisenhower and Macmillan will meet again later today to conclude their discussions before Macmillan starts his return trip to England Tuesday.

The two men returned here late Sunday from Camp David, Md., in the Catoctin Mountains near Gettysburg, Pa. They had spent most of their waking hours there since mid-Friday discussing measures to deal with the Soviet threat to West Berlin and related issues, including a broad range of German and European security problems.

Before separating after their drive back to Washington, they went to the home of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and talked with Dulles for 45 minutes. The secretary, under treatment for cancer, spent the weekend at home but returns to Walter Reed Army Hospital today.

Those called into the British Embassy economic discussion included Under Secretary of State C. Douglas Dillon, the government's top expert on foreign economic affairs, Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, and Lewis L. Strauss, secretary of commerce.

The foremost achievement announced during the meetings at Camp David was agreement by Eisenhower and Macmillan on a compromise formula for holding out to Khrushchev the opportunity of a heads-of-government conference in July or August.

James Hagerty, White House press secretary, and British press officer Peter Hope declined to give details of the proposal pending its approval by French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

What the Western leaders contemplate is a summit conference in July or August, following up a conference of U.S., British, French and Soviet foreign ministers at Geneva in May. The U.S.S.R. has accepted informally the foreign minister conference proposal but details of precisely what is to be discussed and who should attend remain to be agreed on.

They found nothing. Television appeals by Catholic and Episcopal bishops produced not a trace. Then came an unexpected break.

Two enlisted men from Fairchild Air Force Base, Howard S. Lawrence, 19, and Richard Bergan, 21, found a small pair of blue suede shoes Saturday while hunting woodchucks in remote woods 12 miles from town, northwest of where the search had been concentrated.

At dawn Sunday, a half dozen officers gathered at the scene of the airmen's discovery. A patrolman spotted a knee sticking out from under a pile of faded pine needles. He brushed them away carefully.

"No use going any further—here she is," said Inspector Robert Piper, who personally had run down scores of fruitless leads since the search began.

An autopsy showed little Candy had been raped. Her legs had been tied by a piece of her petticoat. Another piece was strung around her neck. There was blood on her face and neck.

Candy's mother, Mrs. Elaine Rogers, a high school teacher, collapsed and was put under deep sedation. The child's father, salesman Carl Rogers of Milton-Freewater, Ore., rushed here to comfort her.

Cunningham's Motion Continued Until April 3

Judge Joel H. Sharp today granted a second continuance in a hearing for a motion for a new trial for Ira Cunningham, former city policeman convicted March 11 of attempting to bribe a prospective juror.

The motion was set to be heard Thursday, but was delayed because Atty. Hugo Alexander of Steubenville, counsel for Cunningham, was involved in a Jefferson County case. The hearing then was slated to be heard this morning, but Atty. Alexander did not verify the appointed time, so the hearing now has been rescheduled for April 3.

Cunningham was found guilty of offering money to a city drug store employe who had been called as a prospective juror in the ex-officer's burglary trial last year, when he was convicted of breaking and entering.

ment of tax measures to replenish Ohio's bare financial cupboard. The state can start collecting new taxes upon enactment, without the usual 90 days other laws must wait to become effective.

Returning from weekend adjournment, representatives will vote tonight on a series of proposals to help state-chartered building and loan firms. Enactment would put their operations on a par with associations holding federal charters.

One of the measures would permit state associations to make loans up to 90 per cent of property valuations to facilitate financing of low and middle income family housing. The state association limit now is 80 per cent although firms with federal charters can loan the full 90 per cent.

Other bills would give state associations the same power as federals to make mortgage and improvement loans to non-members; make loans outside a 50-mile radius of their headquarters, and increase loans to veterans and others for low-cost housing through sale of mortgages to the federal national mortgage association.

Olenick introduced the big sales tax bill at the request of DiSalle who has called for tax increases of a third of a billion dollars to finance his designated state needs.

But the governor has indicated he actually will insist on only about two-thirds of the total called for, plus elimination of the tax stamps.

Major revenue would come from restoration of the penny tax on retail purchases between 15 and 41 cents to produce 18 million dollars; another 44 millions by lifting exemptions on bottled liquor, beer, wine and cigarettes, and four millions more from a sales tax on hotel and motel lodgings.

The measure also provides for removal of "direct use" tax exemptions on machinery and equipment used in production, to yield another 100 million dollars. Although the governor did not specifically recommend lifting those exemptions, he has repeatedly indicated he felt it should be done.

Other provisions call for imposition of the sales tax on various items to bring in some 30 millions more. Those items include laundry, dry cleaning, diaper services, admissions, auto storage and parking, ice and motor fuels now exempt from the gasoline tax. DiSalle said, however, that he did not plan to push for taxes on those items.

Over four billion dollars was paid out in such benefits during the 1958 recession. This included some 400 million dollars supplied by Congress last year to extend temporarily the duration of benefits.

The payments and the duration vary widely between the states. The payments average nationally about $30 a week. In most states, the normal maximum duration is 26 weeks but under the temporary federal plan expiring March 31 this was extended to 39 weeks.

The House has passed a three-month limited extension of the temporary program, but in the Senate there is a move to convert this into legislation permanently raising the level of benefits and duration.

Farmer Held At Gunpoint

Girls Face Kidnap Charge After Escape From School

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — Two 16-year-old girls who broke out of a Nebraska industrial school and forced a farmer to drive them on their flight will be charged with kidnaping.

Peggy Ann Moore of Omaha and Janet Spegel of Lexington, Neb., are being held here for a federal officer to return them to Nebraska. The FBI said Sunday kidnaping charges will be filed against them.

The girls were captured at a roadblock here a few hours after they escaped Saturday night.

"It was quite an experience," said the girls' victim, Jesse Richards, 54, after he returned to his farm near Geneva, Neb.

Peggy and Janet, armed with two butcher knives and a .22 caliber pistol, commandeered Richards' car and forced the 6-foot, 200-pound farmer to drive them.

"They had a knife at my throat and a gun leveled at my back," Richards said. "I wasn't scared first, but I got scared before we stopped."

The girls were committed to the industrial school as delinquents.

The girls said they planned to go to Waco, Tex., because an Air Force base is near that city.

"I hear some of those Air Force boys are real crazy," said Peggy.

2 Inmates 'Waist' Their Time When Escape Plot Is Nipped

NEW YORK (AP) — Two inmates of city prison can eat dessert today — they don't have to watch their waistlines any more.

The two had been dieting so they could slip through a hole about 18 inches square, part of an elaborate escape plot they hatched.

The escape had been planned for tonight or Tuesday night, but guards got a tip from an informer and stepped in Sunday.

Prison officials said James Brown, 39, and Clarence Moore, 33, admitted the plot. Moore had dropped from 149 to 120 pounds, and Brown from 165 to 125.

Authorities said Moore had entered the prison, called "The Tombs," with four hacksaw blades concealed in the soles of his shoes, $35 and a subway token.

He became friendly with Brown, in the next cell. Both are in on armed robbery charges.

Several weeks ago the two began dieting, and cutting through the bars of their cells. They cut through to the corridor and concealed the breaks with chewing gum. They sneaked out at night, and sawed through several inch-thick bars of a small window, one and a half feet square. Only one bar remained to be cut.

They had secreted a makeshift rope, of torn bedsheets and blankets, on a third-floor ledge below the seventh-floor window. They planned to draw the rope up to the window with a "fishing line" made a mop of twine, with a bedspring as a hook.

They had planned to use the rope to get down to the ledge, then down to the courtyard. They planned to hide there until they could slip into a delivery van and go through the gates unnoticed.

Dinner-Dance Draws 100 To Chester Legion

About 100 attended a dinner-dance of Chester American Legion Post 121 Saturday night at the post home in observance of the Legion's 40th anniversary.

A piano was presented to the post as an anniversary gift by the post auxiliary. The presentation was made by Mrs. Margaret Ingold, auxiliary president. Dale Allison, commander, was toastmaster.

The dinner was served by the auxiliary. Bob Hall's orchestra played for dancing.

Barbershop Event Draws Full House

A full house of over 1,000 attended the 10th annual Parade of Quartets held Saturday night by the East Liverpool Chapter of SPEBSQSA, Inc., at Westgate Junior High School auditorium.

Some 265 attended an "afterglow" held at the school cafeteria following the program. Lunch was served and the quartets sang.

The featured quartet, "The Confederates," international champions from Memphis, Tenn., did not arrive until three minutes before they were to go on stage. They phoned Wilbur Newman, ticket chairman, Saturday afternoon to tell him the weather was so bad they could not get their private plane off the ground.

They later made contact with a commercial flight, arriving in Pittsburgh at 9 p. m. They were met and driven to the auditorium by local members. Police escorted them from the Chester Bridge through town.

The group's chorus had to perform without its new uniforms, which did not arrive from New York. The sing also marked the first appearance of the "Sweet Adelines," a women's chorus.

Following the Lincoln High School spring concert May 8, the choral group, under the supervision of C. Lloyd Deffenbaugh, will be entertained at the center in the Borough Building.

A basketball party also is being planned, she said.

Hancock Sets 'Lily Parades' In Fund Drive

Easter "lily parades" are scheduled this week in Hancock County communities as part of a fund campaign of the County Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Sale of the flowers and other fund - raising activities are scheduled Saturday in Chester and Newell and Thursday in Weirton and New Cumberland, according to Mrs. Joseph Zak, president.

Mrs. Carl Durham, Newell chairman, said flowers will be sold beginning Saturday morning at 9 by students of Wells High School and members of Girl Scout troops. The youth groups also will call at homes for campaign donations, she said.

Football players of Chester High School and Girl Scouts will sell lilies in Chester Saturday. A roadblock for donations also is planned, according to Mrs. Clayton Hobbs, chairman.

The society's goal this year is $6,000, about half of which has been realized. The campaign was launched Feb. 27 and will close about Easter, although donations will be accepted during the remainder of the year.

Mrs. Charles Campbell is county chairman. Mrs. Joe Cullinan is chairman of activities in Weirton.

Sawmill Sites Are Linked To Four Slayings

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Anne Arundel County police are working on the theory that an itinerant sawmill worker may be the killer who wiped out a Virginia family of four.

Chief Wilbur Wade said Sunday night all three sites involved in the mass slaying — Mineral and Fredericksburg, Va. and Gambrills, Md.—are located near sawmills.

Carroll V. Jackson Jr., 29-year-old feed truck driver, his wife and two daughters disappeared the night of last Jan. 11 as they drove to their Mineral home after a visit with relatives.

On March 5 the bodies of Jackson and his 18-month-old daughter, Janet, were found by two men gathering sawdust from a lumber mill pile in Spotsylvania County, two miles west of Fredericksburg.

Last Saturday the 10-week search for the other members of the family came to a grisly end when the bodies of Mrs. Jackson, 27, and her 5-year-old daughter, Susan Ann, were uncovered in a shallow grave at Gambrills — about eight miles west of here.

Two teen-age boys hunting near the Army's sprawling Ft. Meade reservation made the discovery.

The location of the grave, off a lonely country road, was about a half mile from where the body of Mrs. Margaret Harold was found in June 1957.

Army Sgt. Roy Hudson, who was with Mrs. Harold when she was shot and killed, told police the crime was committed by a bushy-haired man.

Airliner Spots Fire

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A pilot on a commercial airliner spotted a fire on the ground near Atwood Dam Sunday night and radioed the Akron-Canton Airport. The fire destroyed 200 chickens and the house in which they were kept. Trees surround the building and it cannot be seen from an adjoining farm where the owner, John Shorb lives. Volunteer firemen couldn't save the building.

Over 250 species and subspecies of birds have been recorded in West Virginia. This is approximately one-fourth of all kinds of birds that are found in the United States and Canada.

Nasser Hurls New Charges

Slaps At Kassem; Clarifies Red Stand

CAIRO (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser has accused his rival, Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, of committing the Arab sin of refusing to aid in "a fight to the finish" against Israel.

In another fighting speech broadcast from Damascus, the president of the United Arab Republic castigated Kassem and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, whom he called Kassem's backer.

For the first time Nasser asserted the Soviets' ultimatum had nothing to do with halting the British-French-Israeli attack on Egypt in 1956.

He said fighting had stopped before the Soviet ultimatum arrived Nov. 6, 1956. He also said the Soviets gave Egypt no aid during the Suez fighting, and that they had not supported last July's Iraqi revolution against the former pro-Western regime.

The Soviet Union threatened Britain and France with its atomic power on Nov. 5. Britain and France ordered a cease-fire in the Suez war Nov. 7. In the West, American opposition to the war and not the Soviet threat was generally believed responsible for the decision to end hostilities. But the Arab world, led by Nasser, gave most or all of the credit to the Soviets.

Nasser said the Israelis launched a series of attacks on the Syrian frontier late last year and that he anticipated an all-out attack.

To meet such an attack, he continued, he planned a fight to the finish and asked Kassem to send troops to help, but Kassem refused, Nasser asserted.

"With the deterioration in U.A.R.-Iraqi relations, we knew we would be alone if we entered a conflict with Israel," he added.

Carroll Youth Cited In Burglary Of Home

LISBON — A 15-year-old Carroll County youth, apprehended for breaking into a Kensington tourist home Saturday afternoon, is scheduled for a hearing this afternoon before Juvenile Court Judge Louis Tobin.

Constable Roy Painter of Hanoverton said the youth entered the Smith Tourist Home along Route 30 at Kensington and took two pen and pencil sets, a watch, a cigarette lighter, some change and a pair of socks while the home was unattended.

The boy, who removed a cellar window screen to get into the home, was taken into custody at a service station at Kensington, wearing the socks he had taken.

Constable Merle Hardy of North Georgetown aided Painter. They said the youth was placed into the custody of Carroll County authorities a few months ago after he broke into a produce market near Kensington.

ZIPPORAH

"And Moses was content to dwell with the man: and he gave Moses Zipporah his daughter."
—Exodus 2:21

When Moses was forced to flee from Egypt because he had killed a slave driver who was beating a Hebrew workman, he took refuge in Midian.

This was a country extending from the northeast shores of the Dead Sea, far into the Arabian peninsula.

Like any weary traveler, he paused at a well to rest and refresh himself with a cool drink. It was while he was there that he first met Zipporah.

She and her six sisters had brought their flocks to the well for their daily watering. But some rude shepherds who had arrived first, would not allow the girls to bring their sheep near the well.

Young Moses immediately came to the girls' rescue. He not only defied the shepherds, but he even helped the girls fill the troughs to water their flocks.

As he did so, he singled out Zipporah, whose voice —even in anger—had the sweet tone of a dove. After the painted faces of the Egyptian court, the simple beauty of her outdoor countenance refreshed him, like the cool water of the well.

Perhaps he thought to himself: here is this country's heart, the sweet life of contentment. Trust in God, for this child, is joy in the morning, and the distant tinkle of the ram's bell. God descends with the rain, and He is inhaled with the fragrant smell of the harvest.

And shyly averting her eyes from the stranger, no doubt Zipporah was moved to thoughts of her own:

Many men have done me good turns. But this one if different. There is kindness in him; but there is strength and terrible power, like the lightning behind clouds.

When the girls arrived home, their father asked:

"How is it that ye are come so soon today?"

Then they told him of the kind Egyptian who had helped them at the well.

"Where is he?" said their father, a little annoyed that they had not shown hospitality to the kind stranger. "Call him that he may eat bread."

So Moses came to Zipporah's house. "And Moses was content to live with the man: and he gave Moses Zipporah his daughter."

Postwar Economic Growth Stays In Line With History

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government study takes a little of the zip out of what many refer to as the nation's unprecedented economic growth.

The post-World War II boom actually hasn't been too much out of step with history, the Commerce Department indicates.

Looking at national output growth over the long term, it says, the postwar achievement is broadly in line with the record of the last half century.

Putting the past 13 years into perspective, the new statistical study entitled "U.S. Income and Output" emphasizes the 50-year record and the effect of price increases since 1909.

The department reported that economic growth has averaged 3 per cent a year ever since the 1909-13 administration of William Howard Taft.

The study showed growth rates exceeded the 50-year average during both world wars. But the long-term trend, even in recent years, has stuck close to a straight line, slanting upward except for a big dip representing the depression of the 1930s.

The department said output over the 50 years has increased twice as fast as the population. It added that since 1947 output outstripped population growth by about 20 per cent.

Easter Theme Used By PTA For Program

A flannelgraph talk by Miss Edna Duncan, depicting the Easter story, featured devotions of No. 16 Parent-Teacher Association Friday night, led by the fifth and sixth grades.

"He Arose" was sung by fifth and sixth grade pupils, with Beverly Reight and Linda Smallwood singing one verse. The Lord's Prayer in unison, the pledge of Allegiance and the singing of "America" completed worship.

A play, "Pepping up the PTA", was presented by association members, Mrs. Vivian Taggart, Mrs. Rhelda Rockhold, Mrs. Betty Pelley, Mrs. Marie Wickham, Mrs. Peg McIntosh, Mrs. Ruby Plunkett, Mrs. Beth Clutter and Mrs. Gloria Tice, ways and means chairman and also director: Students Marilyn Bentz and Linda Corbin also participated in the play.

Mothers were asked by Mrs. Tice to send in potted plants for the "May Day" fair, May 1 since it will be held near Mother's Day. A nominating committee was named, comprised of Miss Duncan, Stewart Boyd, Mrs. Lloyd Swearingen and Mrs. Lester Way. Edward Serafy, president, conducted business.

Mrs. Freda Schubert, principal, commended the school's basketball team and Jerry Russell, coach, for winning a trophy and also girls representing the school for their good showing at the spelling bee. Russell's seventh and eighth grades won the parent count. Group singing completed the program.

More Reconstruction Work Slated On Pentagon Offices

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the third time in 12 years, the Joint Chiefs of Staff will have their Pentagon offices reconstructed. This time the job may cost about $350,000.

A new expansion in the organization of the joint chiefs has caused the latest reconstruction. The expansion was provided under last year's Defense Reorganization Act.

No addition to the six million square feet of Pentagon floor space is required. But when a tenant moves out of a Pentagon suite and a new one moves in, they don't just move the furniture.

Walls are knocked down, new ones built. A door is sealed up and another one cut. New wiring for telephones and lights are installed.

The General Services Administration estimates the latest Pentagon change will involve about $250,000 worth of carpentry, electrical work and plumbing.

In addition, the expanded joint staff will have their own new furniture, rugs, drapes and other items. This, GSA calculates, might amount to another $100,000.

A huge pie-shaped section of the second floor of the Pentagon is being revamped to provide 70,000 square feet of floor space for approximately 400 additional personnel.

How Much Do You Know About Mortuary Services?

★ PROCEDURES, COSTS?

★ YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES?

There are good reasons why everyone should be familiar with mortuary details and customs.

For one thing, you never know when you might have to act for the family or help friends with a funeral arrangement. For another, you never know what special conditions you might have to face. An accident, or a death far from home — perhaps overseas — frequently poses some knotty problems. Still a third good reason lies in the fact that some pre-knowledge greatly reduces your mental stress in a difficult period—and most important—helps you to guard against overspending.

We have the answers to the problems you'll face, and we've put them all in a handy little pocket-size booklet for you.

But the Arab world, led by Nasser, gave most or all of the credit to the Soviets.

Nasser said the Israelis launched a series of attacks on the Syrian frontier late last year and that he anticipated an all-out attack.

To meet such an attack, he continued, he planned a fight to the finish and asked Kassem to send troops to help, but Kassem refused, Nasser asserted.

"With the deterioration in U.A.R.-Iraqi relations, we knew we would be alone if we entered a conflict with Israel," he added.

Carroll Youth Cited In Burglary Of Home

LISBON — A 15-year-old Carroll County youth, apprehended for breaking into a Kensington tourist home Saturday afternoon, is scheduled for a hearing this afternoon before Juvenile Court Judge Louis Tobin.

Constable Roy Painter of Hanoverton said the youth entered the Smith Tourist Home along Route 30 at Kensington and took two pen and pencil sets, a watch, a cigarette lighter, some change and a pair of socks while the home was unattended.

The boy, who removed a cellar window screen to get into the home, was taken into custody at a service station at Kensington, wearing the socks he had taken.

Constable Merle Hardy of North Georgetown aided Painter. They said the youth was placed into the custody of Carroll County authorities a few months ago after he broke into a produce market near Kensington.

ZIPPORAH

"And Moses was content to dwell with the man: and he gave Moses Zipporah his daughter."
—Exodus 2:21

When Moses was forced to flee from Egypt because he had killed a slave driver who was beating a Hebrew workman, he took refuge in Midian.

This was a country extending from the northeast shores of the Dead Sea, far into the Arabian peninsula.

Like any weary traveler, he paused at a well to rest and refresh himself with a cool drink. It was while he was there that he first met Zipporah.

She and her six sisters had brought their flocks to the well for their daily watering. But some rude shepherds who had arrived first, would not allow the girls to bring their sheep near the well.

Young Moses immediately came to the girls' rescue. He not only defied the shepherds, but he even helped the girls fill the troughs to water their flocks.

As he did so, he singled out Zipporah, whose voice —even in anger—had the sweet tone of a dove. After the painted faces of the Egyptian court, the simple beauty of her outdoor countenance refreshed him, like the cool water of the well.

Perhaps he thought to himself: here is this country's heart, the sweet life of contentment. Trust in God, for this child, is joy in the morning, and the distant tinkle of the ram's bell. God descends with the rain, and He is inhaled with the fragrant smell of the harvest.

And shyly averting her eyes from the stranger, no doubt Zipporah was moved to thoughts of her own:

Many men have done me good turns. But this one if different. There is kindness in him; but there is strength and terrible power, like the lightning behind clouds.

When the girls arrived home, their father asked:

"How is it that ye are come so soon today?"

Then they told him of the kind Egyptian who had helped them at the well.

"Where is he?" said their father, a little annoyed that they had not shown hospitality to the kind stranger. "Call him that he may eat bread."

So Moses came to Zipporah's house. "And Moses was content to live with the man: and he gave Moses Zipporah his daughter."

Postwar Economic Growth Stays In Line With History

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new government study takes a little of the zip out of what many refer to as the nation's unprecedented economic growth.

The post-World War II boom actually hasn't been too much out of step with history, the Commerce Department indicates.

Looking at national output growth over the long term, it says, the postwar achievement is broadly in line with the record of the last half century.

Putting the past 13 years into perspective, the new statistical study entitled "U.S. Income and Output" emphasizes the 50-year record and the effect of price increases since 1909.

The department reported that economic growth has averaged 3 per cent a year ever since the 1909-13 administration of William Howard Taft.

The study showed growth rates exceeded the 50-year average during both world wars. But the long-term trend, even in recent years, has stuck close to a straight line, slanting upward except for a big dip representing the depression of the 1930s.

The department said output over the 50 years has increased twice as fast as the population. It added that since 1947 output outstripped population growth by about 20 per cent.

School Slates Hunt For Eggs

Highlandtown Event Planned Wednesday

Parents will contribute colored eggs for an Easter egg hunt at Highlandtown School Wednesday, members of the Home and School Association decided at a meeting Friday night.

Pupils of the first and second grades presented rhythm band numbers, "Children's Marching Song" and "Peter Cottontail," and also sang the latter selection.

"Windmills of Holland" and "Shortenin' Bread" were sung by third and fourth graders, while fifth and sixth grade pupils sang "Irish Lullaby" and pantomimed the song "All American Boy." A pantomime of "Charlies Brown" was given by seventh and eighth graders. Marilyn Cheatwood sang "April Showers."

The group sang "America" and gave the Lord's Prayer. During business conducted by James Kessel, president, the proposed basketball court was discussed. The president reported the purchase of dishes, with service for 144, and samples of them were displayed.

The attendance banner was won by the seventh and eighth grades of Mrs. Catherine Leatherberry. Robert Carter is principal.

Lunch was served by first and second grade homeroom mothers. The next meeting will be April 17.

Easter Theme Used By PTA For Program

A flannelgraph talk by Miss Edna Duncan, depicting the Easter story, featured devotions of No. 16 Parent-Teacher Association Friday night, led by the fifth and sixth grades.

"He Arose" was sung by fifth and sixth grade pupils, with Beverly Reight and Linda Smallwood singing one verse. The Lord's Prayer in unison, the pledge of Allegiance and the singing of "America" completed worship.

A play, "Pepping up the PTA", was presented by association members, Mrs. Vivian Taggart, Mrs. Rhelda Rockhold, Mrs. Betty Pelley, Mrs. Marie Wickham, Mrs. Peg McIntosh, Mrs. Ruby Plunkett, Mrs. Beth Clutter and Mrs. Gloria Tice, ways and means chairman and also director: Students Marilyn Bentz and Linda Corbin also participated in the play.

Mothers were asked by Mrs. Tice to send in potted plants for the "May Day" fair, May 1 since it will be held near Mother's Day. A nominating committee was named, comprised of Miss Duncan, Stewart Boyd, Mrs. Lloyd Swearingen and Mrs. Lester Way. Edward Serafy, president, conducted business.

Mrs. Freda Schubert, principal, commended the school's basketball team and Jerry Russell, coach, for winning a trophy and also girls representing the school for their good showing at the spelling bee. Russell's seventh and eighth grades won the parent count. Group singing completed the program.

Lunch was served by homeroom mothers of the first and second grades taught by Mrs. Gladys Janouseck. The Student Council will present the program at the April meeting. Seventh and eighth grade homeroom mothers will serve as the lunch committee.

More Reconstruction Work Slated On Pentagon Offices

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the third time in 12 years, the Joint Chiefs of Staff will have their Pentagon offices reconstructed. This time the job may cost about $350,000.

A new expansion in the organization of the joint chiefs has caused the latest reconstruction. The expansion was provided under last year's Defense Reorganization Act.

No addition to the six million square feet of Pentagon floor space is required. But when a tenant moves out of a Pentagon suite and a new one moves in, they don't just move the furniture.

Walls are knocked down, new ones built. A door is sealed up and another one cut. New wiring for telephones and lights are installed.

The General Services Administration estimates the latest Pentagon change will involve about $250,000 worth of carpentry, electrical work and plumbing.

In addition, the expanded joint staff will have their own new furniture, rugs, drapes and other items. This, GSA calculates, might amount to another $100,000.

A huge pie-shaped section of the second floor of the Pentagon is being revamped to provide 70,000 square feet of floor space for approximately 400 additional personnel.

How Much Do You Know About Mortuary Services?

★ PROCEDURES, COSTS?
★ YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES?

There are good reasons why everyone should be familiar with mortuary details and customs.

For one thing, you never know when you might have to act for the family or help friends with a funeral arrangement. For another, you never know what special conditions you might have to face. An accident, or a death far from home — perhaps overseas — frequently poses some knotty problems. Still a third good reason lies in the fact that some pre-knowledge greatly reduces your mental stress in a difficult period—and most important—helps you to guard against overspending.

We have the answers to the problems you'll face, and we've put them all in a handy little pocket-size booklet for you.

Word Battles Rage On Over Defense Need

Martin, Symington Differ On Whether U.S. Requires More

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas E. Martin (R-Iowa) said today demands that President Eisenhower's 41-billion-dollar defense budget be increased are "motivated primarily by partisan politics and should be rejected."

Martin, a member of the Senate Space Committee, said a two-weeks inspection of Air Force installations, missile and aircraft projects convinced him the defense budget "will do the job of deterring the U.S.S.R. from starting war."

Among other things, Martin said, a group of senators viewed Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles at Vandenberg Air Force Base, the Pacific Coast missile launching and test facilities center.

A contrary view was expressed by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), former secretary of the Air Force, in a filmed television interview with Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore).

Symington, long an advocate of more defense spending, predicted that the Democratic Congress will again vote increases in the missile and other defense fields above the Eisenhower requests.

Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker, questioned by Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) in another television interview, said "there isn't any doubt about the fact that at the present moment the armed forces of the United States are so strong that we could, of course, destroy the Soviet."

8 Chester Musicians Get 'Superior' Ratings

Eight Chester High School music students received "superior" ratings in a Region 1 solo and ensemble music contest at West Liberty Saturday, John Clobis, director, said.

Top ratings were won by Iva Ann Bebout, clarinet soloist; Joyce Freeman, trombone soloist; Wayne Berry and Joyce Freeman, trombone duet, and Keith Hubbard, Steven McHenry, James Merriman and Richard Reber, drum quartet.

All other Chester soloists and ensemble groups received "excellent" ratings, Clovis said. About 14 Chester students attended the event.

'Indians Had A Word For It,' Boy Insists On Buckeye State

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Ohio schoolboy—after some help from the Library of Congress — now knows how to pronounce the word that made Ohio known as the Buckeye State.

The word is "Hetuck," meaning big buckeye in Indian, and it is pronounced Hee-Tuck—with an equal accent on each syllable.

Rickye Sewell, a sixth grader in Leavittsburg, Ohio, asked his congressman, Rep. Robert Cook (D-Ohio), for the correct pronunciation of the word.

Cook turned to the Library of Congress, which first said it could not find it. The boy insisted there was such a word and another search was made.

This is what a researcher found:

The first time the word entered the American vocabulary was at Marietta, Ohio, in 1788.

A Col. Sproat was leading a procession to the first court ever conducted by the native Ohio settlers, in a large wooden fortress known as the Campus Maritus.

Sproat was a big man—6-foot-4—and his bearing and glittering sword so impressed a group of onlooking Indians they shouted "Hetuck, Hetuck."

"It was from that incident, coupled with the abundance of the buckeye tree, which caused the sobriquet 'Buckeye State' to be applied to Ohio," the library reported.

Word Battles Rage On Over Defense Need

Martin, Symington Differ On Whether U.S. Requires More

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas E. Martin (R-Iowa) said today demands that President Eisenhower's 41-billion-dollar defense budget be increased are "motivated primarily by partisan politics and should be rejected."

Martin, a member of the Senate Space Committee, said a two-weeks inspection of Air Force installations, missile and aircraft projects convinced him the defense budget "will do the job of deterring the U.S.S.R. from starting war."

Among other things, Martin said, a group of senators viewed Atlas intercontinental ballistic missiles at Vandenberg Air Force Base, the Pacific Coast missile launching and test facilities center.

A contrary view was expressed by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), former secretary of the Air Force, in a filmed television interview with Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore).

Symington, long an advocate of more defense spending, predicted that the Democratic Congress will again vote increases in the missile and other defense fields above the Eisenhower requests.

Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker, questioned by Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) in another television interview, said "there isn't any doubt about the fact that at the present moment the armed forces of the United States are so strong that we could, of course, destroy the Soviet."

Beaver Local Seniors Wait Trip To New York

Mrs. Wayne Swearingen, president, has appointed Mrs. Frank Campbell chairman. The sale will feature items donated by members including potted plants, fancy work and baked goods. There will be refreshments, a flower booth and a parcel post booth.

Cards have been mailed announcing the sale. At the next meeting in April, Mrs. Eugene Russell will lead the Bible discussion. Hostesses will be Mrs. John Caler, Mrs. Hattie Hayward and Mrs. Franklin Walker.

The Helping Hands Class of the Methodist Church decided at a meeting Wednesday in the social rooms to donate $50 to the Sunday School to help pay for a new basement floor.

Some 12 attended. Mrs. Patty Robson and Mrs. Donna McCandless were hostesses.

HOW THE RED CROSS MAKES $5 DO THE WORK OF $30

Any time you're asked to contribute money, you have a right to know how efficiently it will be used.

When you give to the Red Cross, you get $30 worth of service for every $5 you contribute.

How? The answer: VOLUNTEERS. No money could buy the time volunteers give to Red Cross, but the 2 million of them contribute more than $500,000,000 worth of unpaid work annually. Red Cross volunteers outnumber paid workers 139 to 1.

No wonder Red Cross does so much with your money!

For instance—take an emergency like a flood or a tornado. Red Cross volunteers—with no thought of payment—are on the job—nursing the injured, manning first aid stations and canteens, distributing vital supplies. And—long after the headlines—they're still there, rebuilding, helping their neighbors get back on their feet again.

Then—the work with our men in the Armed Forces—and their families. Red Cross volunteers—donating their time—are with servicemen in military and veterans' hospitals and military installations everywhere. And they provide an indispensable helping hand for servicemen's families at home.

And the blood bank—home nursing courses—first aid and water safety programs. Red Cross volunteer work goes on in every community—day in, day out.

Through their efforts your money carries 6 times its weight in work.

Where else could you make $5 do the work of $30? Join in the great work of the Red Cross with your time . . . with your dollars.

On the job—for you... Join and Save!

How? The answer: VOLUNTEERS. No money could buy the time volunteers give to Red Cross, but the 2 million of them contribute more than $500,000,000 worth of unpaid work annually. Red Cross volunteers outnumber paid workers 139 to 1.

No wonder Red Cross does so much with your money!

For instance—take an emergency like a flood or a tornado. Red Cross volunteers—with no thought of payment—are on the job—nursing the injured, manning first aid stations and canteens, distributing vital supplies. And—long after the headlines—they're still there, rebuilding, helping their neighbors get back on their feet again.

Then—the work with our men in the Armed Forces—and their families. Red Cross volunteers—donating their time—are with servicemen in military and veterans' hospitals and military installations everywhere. And they provide an indispensable helping hand for servicemen's families at home.

And the blood bank—home nursing courses—first aid and water safety programs. Red Cross volunteer work goes on in every community—day in, day out.

Through their efforts your money carries 6 times its weight in work.

Where else could you make $5 do the work of $30? Join in the great work of the Red Cross with your time . . . with your dollars.

On the job—for you... Join and Serve!

Wellsville Tourney Opens Tonight

Ten games tonight will open the basketball tournament of the Wellsville Junior Chamber of Commerce scheduled to be run off this week at Beacom Memorial Gym in Wellsville.

Pairings of the 30-team field, featuring both local and Ohio Valley cage stars, were completed over the weekend by Jaycee officials, who have attracted some of the top talent from the tri-state area for the event.

Tonight's first game will get under way at 6, with Reynolds Poultry of Wellsville clashing with American Vitrified of East Liverpool.

Last-minute entries swelled the field to 30, with Welcome Cafe having been installed as an odds-on favorite to sweep through one bracket and Chuck Kennedy's favored in the other.

The field includes several all-Ohio high school cagers of recent years, but most attention will probably be focused on the Welcome Cafe entry headed by Little All-America Don Schana.

Schana, the little Geneva College point producer, owns a flock of scoring records for the Covies and is figured to be one of the main attractions of the event.

Another two-time Little All America selection, Bill Blair, will be a teammate of the brilliant Schena. Welcome Cafe's other players include Stan Yukich, Dan Sekeres, John Swogger, Otto Pritchard, Ken Woodschick, Tom Yancy and Bill Hewko, who performed for the powerful Midland USW squad this season.

Another Little All America choice scheduled to appear is Terry Deens, 6-5, of Wittenberg College. Deens was named most valuable player in the Ohio Conference. Deens will appear with the Pangrazios Pizza Shop of Dennison. His teammates include Jake Lengler, All-Ohio Class AA in 1952, and Jim Huston, northeastern Ohio's leading scorer this year with a 30-point-per-game average.

The strong Chuck Kennedy entry is spearheaded by John Riser, former University of Pittsburgh standout, in addition to Bob Bingham of Wellsville fame, and Bill Thornberry, George Parfitt, Bob Bickle, Jim Hadley, George Hale, Joe Anderson, Jim Potts and Larry Romboski.

Salem's Woody Deitch, who just returned from the Ohio state tournament finals at Columbus, is also among the name stars, as is Bill Ross, former Steubenville Big Red all-stater.

Deitch, a second team choice this year on the Associated Press All-Ohio teams, will perform with Bayless Gas of Damascus. Ross is listed on the roster of Heights Cafe of Steubenville.

One of the stronger local entries seems to be Tri-State Vending of East Liverpool, listing players that won this year's City Basketball League crown.

Tri-State's roster included Ted Robinson, Jack Green, Jerry Neff, Buddy Ceneviva, Dave Pugh, former Chester star now at Marshall, and Phil Hayes.

Other name stars of the tourney include Paul James, of American Billiards-Alex's Carry-Out, Frank Chan, of the same entry, Jack Cibulka and Oliver Freeland, of Cravat Coal, Ron Riggleman of Grafton Motors, and Bob Krajnyak of Martins Ferry fame, playing with Radio Station WMOD of Moundsville.

Both championship and consolation tourney games are scheduled Saturday night, with 54 awards to be presented. No action is scheduled for Good Friday.

Another feature of the tournament will be an appearance of the Dover Basketeers, a crowd-pleasing group of youngsters who perform in style similar to that of the famous Harlem Globetrotters. The Basketeers will perform between the championship and consolation finals Saturday night.

Eight games are on tap for Tuesday, beginning at 6 p. m. according to Ralph Fusco, publicity director for the Jaycees.

12 Teams To Compete In Nonpareil Classic

Featuring some strong clubs from a three-state area, the Blue and White Nonpareil Club will launch its 12-team invitational tournament Wednesday at Memorial Auditorium.

The tourney will run three days, with games on Wednesday, Thursday and the finals Saturday. No games will be played on Good Friday.

Marland Heights Drugs of Weirton won the tournament in 1958, but did not enter a team this year.

The complete 12-team field is strong and almost any one of the clubs could win the honors.

The Midland Legion, which finished as runnerup last year, has entered the Midland varsity team along with a few other stars from the Beaver Valley.

The West Virginia All-Stars, coached by Norm "Hoop" Bailey, are back again. They were eliminated in the semi-finals a year ago.

Some of the top stars from West Virginia and Ohio are listed on this squad, with Don Jones and Larry Stead of Sherrard leading the way.

Jones averaged 25.8 points during high school and Stead fired them in at 22.1 this season.

Willie Tucker, a 6-foot-5 performer who helped Weirton to the state semi-finals, is listed on the squad along with Jim Huston of Freeport, who scored 704 points this season.

Gengarellas, which was knocked out in the quarter-finals last year after winning the tournament in 1957, will enter Aliquippa High School.

Joe Maddrey, an all-tournament selection last year and high point man, is the big gun for the Gengarella outfit.

During the past season, Maddrey was named to the all-Pennsylvania first team and was Section 3 player of the year.

Some of the other teams include Corneck A. C. of Beaver Falls, Canton Presbyterian, which will include stars from Canton McKinley, Canton South and Canton Lincoln.

The Chuck Brant A. C. will show Columbiana and East Palestine cagers, while talent from East Liverpool and Wellsville will perform under the Tastee-Freeze banner.

A strong Uniontown entry is in the fold along with Swissvale and Clover A. C. of Beaver Falls.

The 12th team will be from the Farrell area, but tournament officials said they are not yet sure whether or not Farrell High School, the Pennsylvania champion, will enter.

Regulation games will be played throughout the tournament.

Officials this year include Bob Baur, Lou Venditti and Bob Duffy.

The championship trophy was presented to Coach Bill Thornberry.

During the game Paul Massey suffered an ankle injury and had to be treated at City Hospital.

In the semi-final round Saturday night, First United Presbyterian, paced by Dave Oliver's 17 points, defeated Sacred Heart of Chester, 42-16. Clutter had 12 for the losers.

St. Stephen's gained the finals by eliminating First Methodist, 24-12. Durbin again led the St. Stephen's five, with 10 points.

Robinson Shows Signs Of Breaking His Hitting Slump

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Officials of the Cincinnati Reds hope Frankie Robinson has worked out of whatever caused his hitting slump last season.

He's had his ups and downs in spring exhibition games—but his teammates have had similar cycles in this rain-soaked state.

And he gets a hot streak now and then—like Sunday against Chicago's White Sox. He banged a three-run homer and singled in another marker. But the Reds lost anyway, 9-6.

The California slugger did little at the plate for the first half of last season, then got hot and finished with a fairly respectable .269 average, with 23 homers and 60 runs batted in.

He has been tabbed for duty at first base this season, but with all the question marks in the team, he may find himself back patrolling the outfield.

Manager Mayo Smith has Robinson,, Walt Dropo, Frank Thomas, Chuck Coles and Johnny Powers to choose for first base duty.

Robinson banged 98 home runs in his first three seasons as a major leaguer and drove in 241 runs. He was National League rookie of 1956, and graduated to league sophomore of 1957 when he batted .322.

Then came his hitting troubles early last season.

The Reds, hoping the rains are over here, meet the Detroit Tigers today. Young Claude Osteen and Bob Mabe are slated to do the pitching.

Bears Nip West Virginia In NCAA; St. John's Takes NIT Championship

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — With his fair skin, blond crew-cut hair and gentle features, Darrall Imhoff looks like an All-America boy. By this time next year, he could be an All-America basketball player.

The 6-10 pivotman of California's National Collegiate Athletic Assn. basketball champions has come such a long way in two years those closest to him say there's no telling what heights he may reach.

As a high school basketball player in Alhambra, Calif., he had trouble making the first team. He was no shakes as a freshman at Cal two years ago. Last year as a sophomore, he got into 16 games and scored 14 points—a per game average of nine-tenths of a point.

Saturday night at spacious Freedom Hall here, his tip-in rebound of his own missed hook shot with 17 seconds left beat gritty West Virginia 71-70 for the NCAA title.

In the two-night NCAA showdown here, only All-Americas Jerry West of West Virginia and Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati drew more attention. West, who tied the five-game NCAA tournament record of 160 points, was the overwhelming choice of the sports writers for the Most Valuable Player Award. Imhoff was the runner-up.

Both West, a unanimous choice, and Robertson polled more votes for the All-Tournament Team. But Imhoff got the nod from 48 of the 56 voters for a solid third position on the team rounded out by Cal teammate Denny Fitzpatrick and Louisville's Don Goldstein.

Goldstein was a steady scorer for the homestanding Cardinals in their losses to West Virginia in the semifinals and to Cincinnati by a 98-85 count in Saturday's consolation test for third place.

"To compare Darrall—as some have done—with Bill Russell on defense at this stage is like comparing a college player with a third grader," said Coach Pete Newell, the master of defense and slow-down play who capped a 16-game winning streak with California's first NCAA basketball title and the first for a Pacific Coast Conference team since 1942.

"Let's say he approximates Russell and could reach that class in two or three years."

Redmen Edge Bradley In Overtime Thriller

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "What a way to go out," St. John's University basketball captain Al Seiden enthused today as he looked back on his team's 76-71 overtime victory Saturday over Bradley for the National Invitational Tournament title.

"We sure had a lot of guts out there," Seiden continued. "As far as I'm concerned, a great team won."

Coach Joe Lapchick thought so too.

"They were courageous. They all had so much guts out there," he said.

But he had his greatest praise for Seiden who, with Tony Jackson, was most instrumental in getting St. John's its third NIT title before a national television audience.

"Seiden made them (Bradley) change their whole style of play when he re-entered the game with four fouls. They were trying desperately to get rid of him. But they couldn't do it."

Seiden said he knew Bradley was out to get him.

"But I didn't change my style of play. As soon as I saw them come out of that zone defense I knew I could really go to work. Before then, I just couldn't penetrate the zone," he admitted.

Lapchick pulled Seiden with less than half the second half remaining and sent him back about two minutes later. St. John's was trailing Bradley 54-49. But Jackson, who won the game's most valuable player award, also took advantage of the man-to-man defense and teamed with Seiden to tie the score at 55-55. A half minute later Seiden gave St. John's a 57-55 lead and they never trailed, though tied thrice more.

Bradley coach Chuck Orsborn thought Jackson was the big difference. The brilliant soph pulled down 27 rebounds and hit 21 points, one less than Seiden.

"Jackson did it. His rebounding and shooting were the big difference," Orsborn said.

Turning Point Came Fast West Virginia Coach Says

MORGANTOWN (AP) — Disappointed Fred Schaus, coach of West Virginia's basketball forces, said today that he thought the turning point in the Mountaineers one-point loss to California came early in the contest.

"We had a 10 - point lead," the WVU Coach said, "when we lost the ball three straight times without getting off a shot. That was the turning point."

The Mountaineers were leading 23-13 at the time, but in the short space of five minutes in the second quarter, California outscored WVU 16-3 to take command and eventually win the NCAA national title, 71-70, Saturday night.

From there on in, WVU had to contend with the Bear-hug defense of the West Coast team, and couldn't seem to regain the sharp edge it had early in the proceedings at Louisville.

"One thing that really hurt us," Schaus continued, "were the four personals called against Jerry West."

West, voted the most valuable player in the tournament, was handed his fourth personal with 15:38 to go in the second half. Schaus pulled his star at this point and held him on the bench for slightly more than two minutes.

"Jerry was pressing himself and I pulled him to get him settled down," Schaus said. "Maybe I shouldn't have, but you never know. He might have gotten his fifth personal right away."

West's absence hurt the Mountaineers both defensively and offensively. He and Bucky Bolyard are the keys to WVU's famed zone press.

As it was, with West's return to the lineup, the Mountaineers whittled away at the 57-44 lead. They outscored the Bears, 18-8, and trailed only 65-62.

It looked for awhile as if the Mountaineers were going to pull another of their patented come-from-behind finishes. They had done this sort of thing in 14 previous games.

But it was not to be as time ran out.

"I think if we had another minute to play," Schaus said, "that we would have won the game."

His teammates include Jake Lengler, All-Ohio Class AA in 1952, and Jim Huston, northeastern Ohio's leading scorer this year with a 30-point-per-game average.

Salem's Woody Deitch, who just returned from the Ohio state tournament finals at Columbus, is also among the name stars, as is Bill Ross, former Steubenville Big Red all-stater.

Deitch, a second team choice this year on the Associated Press All-Ohio teams, will perform with Bayless Gas of Damascus. Ross is listed on the roster of Heights Cafe of Steubenville.

One of the stronger local entries seems to be Tri-State Vending of East Liverpool, listing players that won this year's City Basketball League crown.

Tri-State's roster included Ted Robinson, Jack Green, Jerry Neff, Buddy Ceneviva, Dave Pugh, former Chester star now at Marshall, and Phil Hayes.

Other name stars of the tourney include Paul James, of American Billiards-Alex's Carry-Out, Frank Chan, of the same entry, Jack Cibulka and Oliver Freeland, of Cravat Coal, Ron Riggleman of Grafton Motors, and Bob Krajnyak of Martins Ferry fame, playing with Radio Station WMOD of Moundsville.

Robinson Shows Signs Of Breaking His Hitting Slump

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Officials of the Cincinnati Reds hope Frankie Robinson has worked out of whatever caused his hitting slump last season.

He's had his ups and downs in spring exhibition games—but his teammates have had similar cycles in this rain-soaked state.

And he gets a hot streak now and then—like Sunday against Chicago's White Sox. He banged a three-run homer and singled in another marker. But the Reds lost anyway, 9-6.

The California slugger did little at the plate for the first half of last season, then got hot and finished with a fairly respectable .269 average, with 23 homers and 60 runs batted in.

He has been tabbed for duty at first base this season, but with all the question marks in the team, he may find himself back patrolling the outfield.

Manager Mayo Smith has Robinson,, Walt Dropo, Frank Thomas, Chuck Coles and Johnny Powers to choose for first base duty.

Robinson banged 98 home runs in his first three seasons as a major leaguer and drove in 241 runs. He was National League rookie of 1956, and graduated to league sophomore of 1957 when he batted .322.

Then came his hitting troubles early last season.

The Reds, hoping the rains are over here, meet the Detroit Tigers today. Young Claude Osteen and Bob Mabe are slated to do the pitching.

Bears Nip West Virginia In NCAA; St. John's Takes NIT Championship

By DON WEISS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — With his fair skin, blond crew-cut hair and gentle features, Darrall Imhoff looks like an All-America boy. By this time next year, he could be an All-America basketball player.

The 6-10 pivotman of California's National Collegiate Athletic Assn. basketball champions has come such a long way in two years those closest to him say there's no telling what heights he may reach.

As a high school basketball player in Alhambra, Calif., he had trouble making the first team. He was no shakes as a freshman at Cal two years ago. Last year as a sophomore, he got into 16 games and scored 14 points—a per game average of nine-tenths of a point.

Saturday night at spacious Freedom Hall here, his tip-in rebound of his own missed hook shot with 17 seconds left beat gritty West Virginia 71-70 for the NCAA title.

In the two-night NCAA showdown here, only All-Americas Jerry West of West Virginia and Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati drew more attention. West, who tied the five-game NCAA tournament record of 160 points, was the overwhelming choice of the sports writers for the Most Valuable Player Award. Imhoff was the runner-up.

Both West, a unanimous choice, and Robertson polled more votes for the All-Tournament Team. But Imhoff got the nod from 48 of the 56 voters for a solid third position on the team rounded out by Cal teammate Denny Fitzpatrick and Louisville's Don Goldstein.

Goldstein was a steady scorer for the homestanding Cardinals in their losses to West Virginia in the semifinals and to Cincinnati by a 98-85 count in Saturday's consolation test for third place.

"To compare Darrall—as some have done—with Bill Russell on defense at this stage is like comparing a college player with a third grader," said Coach Pete Newell, the master of defense and slow-down play who capped a 16-game winning streak with California's first NCAA basketball title and the first for a Pacific Coast Conference team since 1942.

"Let's say he approximates Russell and could reach that class in two or three years."

Redmen Edge Bradley In Overtime Thriller

By JACK CLARY

NEW YORK (AP) — "What a way to go out," St. John's University basketball captain Al Seiden enthused today as he looked back on his team's 76-71 overtime victory Saturday over Bradley for the National Invitational Tournament title.

"We sure had a lot of guts out there," Seiden continued. "As far as I'm concerned, a great team won."

Coach Joe Lapchick thought so too.

"They were courageous. They all had so much guts out there," he said.

But he had his greatest praise for Seiden who, with Tony Jackson, was most instrumental in getting St. John's its third NIT title before a national television audience.

"Seiden made them (Bradley) change their whole style of play when he re-entered the game with four fouls. They were trying desperately to get rid of him. But they couldn't do it."

Seiden said he knew Bradley was out to get him.

"But I didn't change my style of play. As soon as I saw them come out of that zone defense I knew I could really go to work. Before then, I just couldn't penetrate the zone," he admitted.

Lapchick pulled Seiden with less than half the second half remaining and sent him back about two minutes later. St. John's was trailing Bradley 54-49. But Jackson, who won the game's most valuable player award, also took advantage of the man-to-man defense and teamed with Seiden to tie the score at 55-55. A half minute later Seiden gave St. John's a 57-55 lead and they never trailed, though tied thrice more.

Bradley coach Chuck Orsborn thought Jackson was the big difference. The brilliant soph pulled down 27 rebounds and hit 21 points, one less than Seiden.

"Jackson did it. His rebounding and shooting were the big difference," Orsborn said.

Turning Point Came Fast West Virginia Coach Says

MORGANTOWN (AP) — Disappointed Fred Schaus, coach of West Virginia's basketball forces, said today that he thought the turning point in the Mountaineers one-point loss to California came early in the contest.

"We had a 10 - point lead," the WVU Coach said, "when we lost the ball three straight times without getting off a shot. That was the turning point."

The Mountaineers were leading 23-13 at the time, but in the short space of five minutes in the second quarter, California outscored WVU 16-3 to take command and eventually win the NCAA national title, 71-70, Saturday night.

From there on in, WVU had to contend with the Bear-hug defense of the West Coast team, and couldn't seem to regain the sharp edge it had early in the proceedings at Louisville.

"One thing that really hurt us," Schaus continued, "were the four personals called against Jerry West."

West, voted the most valuable player in the tournament, was handed his fourth personal with 15:38 to go in the second half. Schaus pulled his star at this point and held him on the bench for slightly more than two minutes.

"Jerry was pressing himself and I pulled him to get him settled down," Schaus said. "Maybe I shouldn't have, but you never know. He might have gotten his fifth personal right away."

West's absence hurt the Mountaineers both defensively and offensively. He and Bucky Bolyard are the keys to WVU's famed zone press.

As it was, with West's return to the lineup, the Mountaineers whittled away at the 57-44 lead. They outscored the Bears, 18-8, and trailed only 65-62.

It looked for awhile as if the Mountaineers were going to pull another of their patented come-from-behind finishes. They had done this sort of thing in 14 previous games.

But it was not to be as time ran out.

"I think if we had another minute to play," Schaus said, "that we would have won the game."

East Tech Takes Title Back To Cleveland

Edgerton Rules Roost In Class A Tournament

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Upstate Ohio is slowly but surely adding basketball to its list of high school sports supremacy.

The once-dominant south still has a big edge in cage championships, but the north is seated firmly on the current throne.

Cleveland East Tech's mighty Scarabs, tall, talented and terrifically fast won their second straight Class AA championship Saturday night by a convincing 71-51 score over Salem's Quakers.

The victory ran Tech's 1959 string of conquests to 25, and gave the Scarabs 51 straight over the last two years—in both of which they emerged as the Buckeye realm's only unbeaten Class AA squad.

Edgerton, from far up in Williams County only three miles from the Indiana line and 18 from Michigan, grabbed the Class A laurals—and the overlooked and underrated Bulldogs did it the hard way.

They ousted defending champion Northwestern of Wayne County, rated No. 1 in the division, by 58-51 in the semi-finals, and came back to take the title with a 57-53 nod over Lynnwood-Jacksontown which had upset unbeaten teams in its last three starts.

The Bulldogs finished with a 26-3 record—having lost during the season to Hicksville, Edon and Stryker—but they had it in the tournament test. In each game, Edgerton was forced to come from far behind.

Thus the far north sector has taken the Class AA crown twice in a row—the first time that's happened since the tourney started in 1923.

And the upper district has copped the Class A title three times straight, a feat accomplished only once before when Delphos St. John, Miller City and Grand Rapids triumphed in 1949, 1950 and 1951.

The north has won every football championship since The Associated Press poll was founded in 1947, and holds a long lead in track, swimming and wrestling titles. Baseball and tennis honors belong to the south by a hefty margin.

In Class AA basketball, the southwestern district has won 18 championships, or almost half the 37. Other districts have won: Northeast and east 6, central 4, northwestern 2 and southeast 1.

In Class A the championship setup is southwest 10, northeast 9, northwest 8, central 4, and east and southeast 3 each.

Bob Grundish, 155-pound Edgerton senior, led the tournament scorers with 46 points—26 against Northwestern and 20 against Lynnwood-Jacksontown. In Class AA, the top man was East Tech's All-Ohio star, Ken Glenn, who had 18 and 23-point sprees for a 41 total. Jim Stone, third-string All-Ohio choice from East Tech, scored 32.

Ken Franz of Edgerton had 30 for two games, followed by Jim Turner and Carl Holman of Lynnwood with 28 and 27. Salem showed balance in its scoring as Dan Krichbaum totaled 26, Woody Deitch 24, Dave Hunter 22 and Lou Slaby 21.

Toronto Man Has 300 Game In Tourney

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—John C. Smith, a 46-year - old competitor from Toronto, Ohio, rolled a 300 game Sunday in the second game of doubles competition in the Ohio State Bowling Assn. tournament underway here weekends.

"That last ball weighed a ton," he said. "It wobbled and was the only bad hit of the set."

Smith's three-game score was 162-300-168—630.

There were four changes in the leaders.

Joe Veres and Bill Valiquette of Toledo moved in front of the doubles actual by 66 pins with a 680 by Veres and a 613 by Valiquette for 1293.

The doubles handicap went to Ted Kleener and Tom West of Youngstown with a 1362.

Frank Finn of Xenia took over the singles actual lead with a 688. Oliver Alanen of Mentor with a 755 score went into the lead in the singles handicap.

Courtney May Be Lost For Four To Six Weeks

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A broken bone in his right leg may keep Washington catcher Clint Courtney out of the lineup from four to six weeks.

Courtney was injured Saturday when Hal Smith of the Kansas City Athletics bowled him over and scored in an exhibition game.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Ernie Simon, disc jockey at WERE Radio, will be public address announcer for the Cleveland Indians at Municipal Stadium this season. He was appointed Sunday to succeed Jack Cresson, who died last season after 30 years as stadium announcer.

Pirates, Tribe On Top; Drive Strikes Garcia

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Julio Gotay, a 19-year-old speedster with the Pepper Martin flare for daring on the basepaths, has restored the Gashouse Gang flavor to the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Puerto Rican youngster, a shortstop not even listed on the spring training roster, is making quite a stir in the Redbird training camp.

With the Cards limited to three hits by Los Angeles, it was Gotay's base-running which brought about St. Louis' 3-1 triumph over the Dodgers Sunday. He was largely responsible for the Cardinals two decisive runs in the second inning.

Cleveland suffered a jolt when veteran right-hander Mike (Big Bear) Garcia was struck by a line drive on the left knee and carried from the field as the Indians topped Boston 7-5.

In other games, Baltimore took a doubleheader from New York 6-3 and 4-0, Detroit clobbered Milwaukee 10-4, San Francisco defeated Chicago's Cubs 10-7, Kansas City thumped Washington 11-1, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 9-1 and Chicago's White Sox beat Cincinnati 9-6.

Oddly, Gotay started the Cards off by striking out, but when the ball got by the catcher, the Red Bird newcomer legged it all the way to second as Joe Cunningham scored. Then B. G. Smith tapped to the mound. Pitcher Gene Snyder bluffed Gotay back to second and threw out the batter.

But Gotay didn't return all the way. He applied the brakes, reversed his direction and streaked for third. The throw from first baseman Norm Larker trying to head him off was wild and Gotay scampered home with what proved to be the winning tally.

Garcia, attempting a comeback after undergoing an operation for a slipped disc, was clipped by Billy Consolo's liner in the seventh. The Indians won it with an 11-hit attack led by Vic Power.

A trio of 20-year-old Baltimore pitchers beat the world champion Yankees. Jerry Walker and Johnny Fisher combined for the first victory with home run support from Gus Triandos and Leo Burke. Young Milt Pappas, who pitched six innings, and the veteran Hec Brown notched the shutout, a seven-inning affair.

Eight walks by Carlton Willey and Gerry Nelson proved the Braves' undoing as they lost their ninth in 12 games. Harvey Kuenn led the Tigers with three hits.

Felipe Alou's two homers for the Giants and one by Andre Rodgers matched Cub blasts by Jim Marshall, Ray Bellino and Ernie Banks.

A pair of home runs by Hal Smith and solo clouts by Roger Maris and Kent Hadley were among 12 hits the A's blasted off Washington pitching in an eight inning game curtailed by rain. Kansas City's Rip Coleman pitched one-hit ball in his seven-inning stint.

Dick Schofield's three - run homer ignited a six-run Pirate uprising in the seventh. Harvey Haddix hurled seven innings and held the Phils to four hits.

Billy Goodman and Jim Rivera drove across two runs each as the White Sox clubbed Cincinnati bonus baby Jim O'Toole for seven runs.

South Charleston Wears Crown In West Virginia

By The Associated Press

Rebel teams ruled the West Virginia high school basketball roost today, with South Charleston, Lookout and Athens the newly-crowned champions.

They won honors over the weekend at the 46th annual basketball tournament at Huntington.

Interest in this year's proceedings fell off chiefly because of West Virginia's participation in the NCAA national tourney at Louisville. Instead of the customary full house at the finals in the 6,200-capacity Memorial Field House, there were about 3,500 on hand for the afternoon twin bill and 5,000 there for the Class AAA title tilt that night.

However, tourney officials agree that attendance would have been much lower had the event been held on the WVU campus at Morgantown, where it is set for 1960. In 1961, it will return to Huntington.

South Charleston clipped Fairmont West, 73-67, for the Class AAA title. Lookout, smallest school in the AA ranks, won its championship by overcoming Point Pleasant, 67-55.

Athens, a veteran at this sort of thing, whipped Fairview, 55-50, for the Class A crown. This was a record-breaking third small school cage title for the Mercer County entry.

All three championship teams showed balance in the two-day tournament. South Charleston got a 32-point performance from center Jay Dietz in beating DuPont, 68-56, in its Friday opener. Then along came slender Bill Londeree with some deft outside shooting—good for 25 points against Fairmont West.

Fairmont Coach Bill Reppert said his team set its defenses for Deitz but couldn't adjust for Londeree.

Lookout, with an enrollment of 115 boys, was eligible for the A bracket but exercised its option to move into the recently formed Class AA.

The Lookout team, using only five players in both games, whipped Northfork-Elkhorn, 53-48, in its opener chiefly on the 18-point effort by towering Dave Shuck, 6-8 senior center. Shuck got 14 points the next day against Point Pleasant while Art Shelton came through with 19 markers and Warren O'Dell with 18 for the champions.

Coach George Priester has been at Lookout since 1930 but this is only the second year the Generals have ever gotten out of their sectional.

The biggest player in the tournament was Athens' 6-8¾ center Tex Young, still a growing boy. Young fashioned 17 points and his colleague guard Frank Alvis 32 to spark Athens over defending school champion Ansted, 63-51, in the Friday morning opener.

Young managed 18 points and setshot artist Roger Graham came through with 16 for Athens in the title match against Fairview.

Salem Cagers Receive Big Welcome On Return

By The Associated Press

The champions and the almost champions came home Sunday from the state basketball finals at Columbus. Parades, bands and cheering fans welcomed the teams.

Cleveland East Tech, Class AA champs for the second year in a row, was greeted by more than 700 fans, but the welcome was more subdued than last year. Carrying the big Class AA trophy with them, the Scarabs were met at Cleveland's Union Terminal by a 42-piece band and a motorcade.

Later, at the high school, about 500 students turned out. The band played a verse of the fight song and the rally was over. The tired basketball kings, surrounded by admirers, went their separate ways.

After all, one of the homecoming party observed, "it's pretty hard to get excited when we knew they were going to win."

But that wasn't the case in Williams County where the Class A chamions, Edgerton, brought home the title. No one had expected the Bulldogs to go all the way.

They had to come from behind in the semi-final round to whip Northwestern 58-51. And they were down six points at the half in the championship tilt, which they won by defeating Lynnwood-Jacksontown 57-53.

As the automobile carrying the team neared Edgerton, in the northwest corner of Ohio, other cars fell into line. By the time the caravan reached town it was almost two miles long.

Mayor Henry Herman was there. And the high school band. The American Legion color guard was on hand, too. The hometown folks cheered and shouted.

"I don't know which was the greatest thrill," said Coach G.D. (Babe) Shoup, "winning or coming home."

At the high school gym more than 2,000 persons crowded in. The mob spilled over into the street.

Classes were called off today to honor the champs and a celebration dance is scheduled tonight.

In Salem, the Quakers were greeted like champions although they lost to East Tech in the finals, 71-51.

The team was met near Damascus, five miles west of Salem, and put into convertibles for the parade through Salem. Along with the band, there was a police escort and a color guard. More than 3,000 people lined the streets.

At ceremonies in the center of town, Co-captain Lou Slaby called the homecoming "the greatest thrill of my life.

"I'm only sorry," he said, "we couldn't win the other (championship) trophy, because you deserve it."

Licking County hailed Lynnwood-Jacksontown, which advanced farther than any other Class A basketball team in county history.

The team toured the county in a motorcade of 200 cars. At Newark, the Trojans were carried through town on a fire truck.

The celebration was both a welcome and farewell. The school, located in Jacksontown, seven miles south of Newark, closes this June. Students will attend a new consolidated school, Lakewood, between Hebron and Jacksontown.

At Kings Creek, a community of 300 persons in Champaign County, the Salem Local team was cheered and hometown fans paraded Saturday night. Salem Local was knocked out of the Class A finals in the semi-final round. The team finished with a 27-1 record.

Celtics Hold 2-1 Lead; Hawks And Lakers Tied

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics held a 2-1 lead over the Syracuse Nationals in the Eastern Division while the St. Louis Hawks and the Minneapolis Lakers were all tied at 1-1 in the Western Division today in the National Basketball Assn. semifinal playoffs.

But a main concern was the talk of possible dissension on the Nationals between Coach Paul Seymour and scoring ace Dolph Schayes.

Both deny there is anything to the report, but in Sunday's 133-111 loss to Boston, Schayes sat out more than half the game.

"I took him out midway in the second period and put in Togo Palazzi because Togo is an aggressive type player who can sometimes catch fire," said Seymour.

Seymour and Schayes both said the Syracuse scoring star suffered a momentary blackout in Saturday night's 120-118 victory over the Celtics at Syracuse. Seymour added that Schayes' wife had told him Dolph is occasionally bothered by double vision.

Seymour said he is sending Schayes for an examination today.

Frank Ramsey came off the Celtics' bench to score 15 of his 24 points in the second period. The Boston surge put the game out of the Nats' reach.

"At that point," said Seymour, "I saw no point in overworking Schayes."

Boston had a slim 31-27 first quarter margin but at halftime it was 64-45. Schayes, despite his limited action, wound up as the Nats' top scorer with 21 points.

In the Western Division, the Hawks got off in front at home Saturday by downing the Lakers 124-90 but they bowed 106-98 when the series shifted to St. Paul Sunday.

Minneapolis, which won only 4 of its 12 games with the Hawks during the regular season, chalked up its victory with Elgin Baylor scoring 33 points. Bob Pettit had 22 for St. Louis.

Montreal Made Favorite In Stanley Cup Playoffs

By The Associated Press

The first round of the Stanley Cup Playoffs opens Tuesday night with the mighty Montreal Canadiens favored over the Chicago Black Hawks in Montreal and the Boston Bruins the choice over the never-say-die Toronto Maple Leafs in Boston.

Both series are the best-of-seven games. The two winners meet for the cup and, as usual, the powerful Canadiens are top heavy favorities to go all the way.

Montreal has won the Stanley Cup the past three years and if they win this time, they will set a record. The Maple Leafs won the cup three years in a row, 1947-1949.

"We're in good shape for the playoffs," said Montreal Coach Toe Black. We expect that Jacques Plante (ace goalie who has missed the past three games because of a boil on his chin) will be ready. If he isn't Charlie Hodge will be in the nets.

"Maurice Richard has started skating and we expect him to be ready in less than 10 days."

The Rocket has been out with an ankle fracture for the past two months.

Goalby Leads St. Pete Open

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The touring golf pros had a new rabbit to chase as they started the final round of the $15,000 St. Petersburg Open Tournament today.

Bob Goalby, the husky and handsome youngster who was chosen "Rookie of the Year" for 1958 by the leading money winners on the circuit, carved out a neat 3-under-par 69 Sunday for a 205 total and a one stroke lead at the three quarter mark.

The 28-year-old from Belleville, Ill., credits a revamped grip for an improved game that has brought him rounds of 70, 66 and 69. He discovered he got better results by holding the club more in the fingers of the left hand, a grip he once discarded.

Runner-up is another big man, Cary Middlecoff of Hollywood, Fla. The erstwhile Memphis dentist, competing in his first tournament since a hernia operation last September, sank putts from all distances on the second nine Sunday to wind up with a 67 Sunday to wind up with a 67 and a total of 206.

Champ Faces Rough Time In Bowling Meet

ST. LOUIS (AP) —Al Faragalli has his work cut out for him when he defends his American Bowling Congress Tournament All-Events championship today.

The Paterson, N. J., sharpshooter won the 1958 All-Events title with a 2043 series. To keep the title, Faragalli will have to surpass the 2116 record set in the nine-game category by Detroit's Ed Lubanski on Feb. 25.

Faragalli got off to a good start Sunday night when he rolled a 683 series in the open team event. But he will have to average better than 239 in the six games involved in the singles and doubles today to catch Lubanski.

The Faber Cement Block team of Paramus, N. J., regarded by most experts as the top quintent in the East, rolled only 2961 despite Faragalli's heroic effort. Lou Campi contributed 641 and Chuck Pezzano had 605.

The Detroit Pfeiffers continue their strangelehold on the Open Division with the 3243 record series they put together nearly a month ago.

Parente's Italian Village of St. Louis made the first standings change in the Booster Team Division in 12 days when it rolled a 2719 series to take over fifth place.

Texan Awaits His Chance To Battle Moore

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Nigeria's Hogan (Kid) Bassey passes up a return featherweight title fight, Texan Paul Jorgensen is ready to step in against freshly crowned Davey Moore.

The handsome, 23-year-old Jorgensen is the No. 2 contender. He boasts the longest current unbeaten streak in boxing—31 including three draws. He hasn't lost in 25 months.

Jorgensen will get a chance to show his stuff Friday night when he meets Harold Gomes, another streaking featherweight, in the television (NBC, 10 p.m., EST) 10-rounder at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Gomes, 25, of Providence, R.I., has won 4 straight and 16 of his last 17. His record is 42-4, including 22 knockouts. Jorgensen, of Port Arthur, has a 74-5-4 record including 30 kayos.

East Tech Takes Title Back To Cleveland

Edgerton Rules Roost In Class A Tournament

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Upstate Ohio is slowly but surely adding basketball to its list of high school sports supremacy.

The once-dominant south still has a big edge in cage championships, but the north is seated firmly on the current throne.

Cleveland East Tech's mighty Scarabs, tall, talented and terrifically fast won their second straight Class AA championship Saturday night by a convincing 71-51 score over Salem's Quakers.

The victory ran Tech's 1959 string of conquests to 25, and gave the Scarabs 51 straight over the last two years—in both of which they emerged as the Buckeye realm's only unbeaten Class AA squad.

Edgerton, from far up in Williams County only three miles from the Indiana line and 18 from Michigan, grabbed the Class A laurals—and the overlooked and underrated Bulldogs did it the hard way.

They ousted defending champion Northwestern of Wayne County, rated No. 1 in the division, by 58-51 in the semi-finals, and came back to take the title with a 57-53 nod over Lynnwood-Jacksontown which had upset unbeaten teams in its last three starts.

The Bulldogs finished with a 26-3 record—having lost during the season to Hicksville, Edon and Stryker—but they had it in the tournament test. In each game, Edgerton was forced to come from far behind.

Thus the far north sector has taken the Class AA crown twice in a row—the first time that's happened since the tourney started in 1923.

And the upper district has copped the Class A title three times straight, a feat accomplished only once before when Delphos St. John, Miller City and Grand Rapids triumphed in 1949, 1950 and 1951.

The north has won every football championship since The Associated Press poll was founded in 1947, and holds a long lead in track, swimming and wrestling titles. Baseball and tennis honors belong to the south by a hefty margin.

In Class AA basketball, the southwestern district has won 18 championships, or almost half the 37. Other districts have won: Northeast and east 6, central 4, northwestern 2 and southeast 1.

In Class A the championship setup is southwest 10, northeast 9, northwest 8, central 4, and east and southeast 3 each.

Bob Grundish, 155-pound Edgerton senior, led the tournament scorers with 46 points—26 against Northwestern and 20 against Lynnwood-Jacksontown. In Class AA, the top man was East Tech's All-Ohio star, Ken Glenn, who had 18 and 23-point sprees for a 41 total. Jim Stone, third-string All-Ohio choice from East Tech, scored 32.

Ken Franz of Edgerton had 30 for two games, followed by Jim Turner and Carl Holman of Lynnwood with 28 and 27. Salem showed balance in its scoring as Dan Krichbaum totaled 26, Woody Deitch 24, Dave Hunter 22 and Lou Slaby 21.

Toronto Man Has 300 Game In Tourney

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—John C. Smith, a 46-year - old competitor from Toronto, Ohio, rolled a 300 game Sunday in the second game of doubles competition in the Ohio State Bowling Assn. tournament underway here weekends.

"That last ball weighed a ton," he said. "It wobbled and was the only bad hit of the set."

Smith's three-game score was 162-300-168—630.

There were four changes in the leaders.

Joe Veres and Bill Valiquette of Toledo moved in front of the doubles actual by 66 pins with a 680 by Veres and a 613 by Valiquette for 1293.

The doubles handicap went to Ted Kleener and Tom West of Youngstown with a 1362.

Frank Finn of Xenia took over the singles actual lead with a 688. Oliver Alanen of Mentor with a 755 score went into the lead in the singles handicap.

Courtney May Be Lost For Four To Six Weeks

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A broken bone in his right leg may keep Washington catcher Clint Courtney out of the lineup from four to six weeks.

Courtney was injured Saturday when Hal Smith of the Kansas City Athletics bowled him over and scored in an exhibition game.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Ernie Simon, disc jockey at WERE Radio, will be public address announcer for the Cleveland Indians at Municipal Stadium this season. He was appointed Sunday to succeed Jack Cresson, who died last season after 30 years as stadium announcer.

Pirates, Tribe On Top; Drive Strikes Garcia

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Julio Gotay, a 19-year-old speedster with the Pepper Martin flare for daring on the basepaths, has restored the Gashouse Gang flavor to the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Puerto Rican youngster, a shortstop not even listed on the spring training roster, is making quite a stir in the Redbird training camp.

With the Cards limited to three hits by Los Angeles, it was Gotay's base-running which brought about St. Louis' 3-1 triumph over the Dodgers Sunday. He was largely responsible for the Cardinals two decisive runs in the second inning.

Cleveland suffered a jolt when veteran right-hander Mike (Big Bear) Garcia was struck by a line drive on the left knee and carried from the field as the Indians topped Boston 7-5.

In other games, Baltimore took a doubleheader from New York 6-3 and 4-0, Detroit clobbered Milwaukee 10-4, San Francisco defeated Chicago's Cubs 10-7, Kansas City thumped Washington 11-1, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 9-1 and Chicago's White Sox beat Cincinnati 9-6.

Oddly, Gotay started the Cards off by striking out, but when the ball got by the catcher, the Red Bird newcomer legged it all the way to second as Joe Cunningham scored. Then B. G. Smith tapped to the mound. Pitcher Gene Snyder bluffed Gotay back to second and threw out the batter.

But Gotay didn't return all the way. He applied the brakes, reversed his direction and streaked for third. The throw from first baseman Norm Larker trying to head him off was wild and Gotay scampered home with what proved to be the winning tally.

Garcia, attempting a comeback after undergoing an operation tor a slipped disc, was clipped by Billy Consolo's liner in the seventh. The Indians won it with an 11-hit attack led by Vic Power.

A trio of 20-year-old Baltimore pitchers beat the world champion Yankees. Jerry Walker and Johnny Fisher combined for the first victory with home run support from Gus Triandos and Leo Burke. Young Milt Pappas, who pitched six innings, and the veteran Hec Brown notched the shutout, a seven-inning affair.

Eight walks by Carlton Willey and Gerry Nelson proved the Braves' undoing as they lost their ninth in 12 games. Harvey Kuenn led the Tigers with three hits.

Felipe Alou's two homers for the Giants and one by Andre Rodgers matched Cub blasts by Jim Marshall, Ray Bellino and Ernie Banks.

A pair of home runs by Hal Smith and solo clouts by Roger Maris and Kent Hadley were among 12 hits the A's blasted off Washington pitching in an eight inning game curtailed by rain. Kansas City's Rip Coleman pitched one-hit ball in his seven-inning stint.

Dick Schofield's three - run homer ignited a six-run Pirate uprising in the seventh. Harvey Haddix hurled seven innings and held the Phils to four hits.

Billy Goodman and Jim Rivera drove across two runs each as the White Sox clubbed Cincinnati bonus baby Jim O'Toole for seven runs.

South Charleston Wears Crown In West Virginia

By The Associated Press

Rebel teams ruled the West Virginia high school basketball roost today, with South Charleston, Lookout and Athens the newly-crowned champions.

They won honors over the weekend at the 46th annual basketball tournament at Huntington.

Interest in this year's proceedings fell off chiefly because of West Virginia's participation in the NCAA national tourney at Louisville. Instead of the customary full house at the finals in the 6,200-capacity Memorial Field House, there were about 3,500 on hand for the afternoon twin bill and 5,000 there for the Class AAA title tilt that night.

However, tourney officials agree that attendance would have been much lower had the event been held on the WVU campus at Morgantown, where it is set for 1960. In 1961, it will return to Huntington.

South Charleston clipped Fairmont West, 73-67, for the Class AAA title. Lookout, smallest school in the AA ranks, won its championship by overcoming Point Pleasant, 67-55.

Athens, a veteran at this sort of thing, whipped Fairview, 55-50, for the Class A crown. This was a record-breaking third small school cage title for the Mercer County entry.

All three championship teams showed balance in the two-day tournament. South Charleston got a 32-point performance from center Jay Dietz in beating DuPont, 68-56, in its Friday opener. Then along came slender Bill Londeree with some deft outside shooting—good for 25 points against Fairmont West.

Fairmont Coach Bill Reppert said his team set its defenses for Deitz but couldn't adjust for Londeree.

Lookout, with an enrollment of 115 boys, was eligible for the A bracket but exercised its option to move into the recently formed Class AA.

The Lookout team, using only five players in both games, whipped Northfork-Elkhorn, 53-48, in its opener chiefly on the 18-point effort by towering Dave Shuck, 6-8 senior center. Shuck got 14 points the next day against Point Pleasant while Art Shelton came through with 19 markers and Warren O'Dell with 18 for the champions.

Coach George Priester has been at Lookout since 1930 but this is only the second year the Generals have ever gotten out of their sectional.

The biggest player in the tournament was Athens' 6-8¾ center Tex Young, still a growing boy. Young fashioned 17 points and his colleague guard Frank Alvis 32 to spark Athens over defending school champion Ansted, 63-51, in the Friday morning opener.

Young managed 18 points and setshot artist Roger Graham came through with 16 for Athens in the title match against Fairview.

Salem Cagers Receive Big Welcome On Return

By The Associated Press

The champions and the almost champions came home Sunday from the state basketball finals at Columbus. Parades, bands and cheering fans welcomed the teams.

Cleveland East Tech, Class AA champs for the second year in a row, was greeted by more than 700 fans, but the welcome was more subdued than last year. Carrying the big Class AA trophy with them, the Scarabs were met at Cleveland's Union Terminal by a 42-piece band and a motorcade.

Later, at the high school, about 500 students turned out. The band played a verse of the fight song and the rally was over. The tired basketball kings, surrounded by admirers, went their separate ways.

After all, one of the homecoming party observed, "it's pretty hard to get excited when we knew they were going to win."

But that wasn't the case in Williams County where the Class A chamions, Edgerton, brought home the title. No one had expected the Bulldogs to go all the way.

They had to come from behind in the semi-final round to whip Northwestern 58-51. And they were down six points at the half in the championship tilt, which they won by defeating Lynnwood-Jacksontown 57-53.

As the automobile carrying the team neared Edgerton, in the northwest corner of Ohio, other cars fell into line. By the time the caravan reached town it was almost two miles long.

Mayor Henry Herman was there. And the high school band. The American Legion color guard was on hand, too. The hometown folks cheered and shouted.

"I don't know which was the greatest thrill," said Coach G.D. (Babe) Shoup, "winning or coming home."

At the high school gym more than 2,000 persons crowded in. The mob spilled over into the street.

Classes were called off today to honor the champs and a celebration dance is scheduled tonight.

In Salem, the Quakers were greeted like champions although they lost to East Tech in the finals, 71-51.

The team was met near Damascus, five miles west of Salem, and put into convertibles for the parade through Salem. Along with the band, there was a police escort and a color guard. More than 3,000 people lined the streets.

At ceremonies in the center of town, Co-captain Lou Slaby called the homecoming "the greatest thrill of my life.

"I'm only sorry," he said, "we couldn't win the other (championship) trophy, because you deserve it."

Licking County hailed Lynnwood-Jacksontown, which advanced farther than any other Class A basketball team in county history.

The team toured the county in a motorcade of 200 cars. At Newark, the Trojans were carried through town on a fire truck.

The celebration was both a welcome and farewell. The school, located in Jacksontown, seven miles south of Newark, closes this June. Students will attend a new consolidated school, Lakewood, between Hebron and Jacksontown.

At Kings Creek, a community of 300 persons in Champaign County, the Salem Local team was cheered and hometown fans paraded Saturday night. Salem Local was knocked out of the Class A finals in the semi-final round. The team finished with a 27-1 record.

Celtics Hold 2-1 Lead; Hawks And Lakers Tied

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics held a 2-1 lead over the Syracuse Nationals in the Eastern Division while the St. Louis Hawks and the Minneapolis Lakers were all tied at 1-1 in the Western Division today in the National Basketball Assn. semifinal playoffs.

But a main concern was the talk of possible dissension on the Nationals between Coach Paul Seymour and scoring ace Dolph Schayes.

Both deny there is anything to the report, but in Sunday's 133-111 loss to Boston, Schayes sat out more than half the game.

"I took him out midway in the second period and put in Togo Palazzi because Togo is an aggressive type player who can sometimes catch fire," said Seymour.

Seymour and Schayes both said the Syracuse scoring star suffered a momentary blackout in Saturday night's 120-118 victory over the Celtics at Syracuse. Seymour added that Schayes' wife had told him Dolph is occasionally bothered by double vision.

Seymour said he is sending Schayes for an examination today.

Frank Ramsey came off the Celtics' bench to score 15 of his 24 points in the second period. The Boston surge put the game out of the Nats' reach.

"At that point," said Seymour, "I saw no point in overworking Schayes."

Boston had a slim 31-27 first quarter margin but at halftime it was 64-45. Schayes, despite his limited action, wound up as the Nats' top scorer with 21 points.

In the Western Division, the Hawks got off in front at home Saturday by downing the Lakers 124-90 but they bowed 106-98 when the series shifted to St. Paul Sunday.

Minneapolis, which won only 4 of its 12 games with the Hawks during the regular season, chalked up its victory with Elgin Baylor scoring 33 points. Bob Pettit had 22 for St. Louis.

Montreal Made Favorite In Stanley Cup Playoffs

By The Associated Press

The first round of the Stanley Cup Playoffs opens Tuesday night with the mighty Montreal Canadiens favored over the Chicago Black Hawks in Montreal and the Boston Bruins the choice over the never-say-die Toronto Maple Leafs in Boston.

Both series are the best-of-seven games. The two winners meet for the cup and, as usual, the powerful Canadiens are top heavy favorities to go all the way.

Montreal has won the Stanley Cup the past three years and if they win this time, they will set a record. The Maple Leafs won the cup three years in a row, 1947-1949.

"We're in good shape for the playoffs," said Montreal Coach Toe Black. We expect that Jacques Plante (ace goalie who has missed the past three games because of a boil on his chin) will be ready. If he isn't Charlie Hodge will be in the nets.

"Maurice Richard has started skating and we expect him to be ready in less than 10 days."

The Rocket has been out with an ankle fracture for the past two months.

Goalby Leads St. Pete Open

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—The touring golf pros had a new rabbit to chase as they started the final round of the $15,000 St. Petersburg Open Tournament today.

Bob Goalby, the husky and handsome youngster who was chosen "Rookie of the Year" for 1958 by the leading money winners on the circuit, carved out a neat 3-under-par 69 Sunday for a 205 total and a one stroke lead at the three quarter mark.

The 28-year-old from Belleville, Ill., credits a revamped grip for an improved game that has brought him rounds of 70, 66 and 69. He discovered he got better results by holding the club more in the fingers of the left hand, a grip he once discarded.

Runner-up is another big man, Cary Middlecoff of Hollywood, Fla. The erstwhile Memphis dentist, competing in his first tournament since a hernia operation last September, sank putts from all distances on the second nine Sunday to wind up with a 67 Sunday to wind up with a 67 and a total of 206.

Champ Faces Rough Time In Bowling Meet

ST. LOUIS (AP) —Al Faragalli has his work cut out for him when he defends his American Bowling Congress Tournament All-Events championship today.

The Paterson, N. J., sharpshooter won the 1958 All-Events title with a 2043 series. To keep the title, Faragalli will have to surpass the 2116 record set in the nine-game category by Detroit's Ed Lubanski on Feb. 25.

Faragalli got off to a good start Sunday night when he rolled a 683 series in the open team event. But he will have to average better than 239 in the six games involved in the singles and doubles today to catch Lubanski.

The Faber Cement Block team of Paramus, N. J., regarded by most experts as the top quintent in the East, rolled only 2961 despite Faragalli's heroic effort. Lou Campi contributed 641 and Chuck Pezzano had 605.

The Detroit Pfeiffers continue their strangelehold on the Open Division with the 3243 record series they put together nearly a month ago.

Parente's Italian Village of St. Louis made the first standings change in the Booster Team Division in 12 days when it rolled a 2719 series to take over fifth place.

Texan Awaits His Chance To Battle Moore

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Nigeria's Hogan (Kid) Bassey passes up a return featherweight title fight, Texan Paul Jorgensen is ready to step in against freshly crowned Davey Moore.

The handsome, 23-year-old Jorgensen is the No. 2 contender. He boasts the longest current unbeaten streak in boxing—31 including three draws. He hasn't lost in 25 months.

Jorgensen will get a chance to show his stuff Friday night when he meets Harold Gomes, another streaking featherweight, in the television (NBC, 10 p.m., EST) 10-rounder at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Gomes, 25, of Providence, R.I., has won 4 straight and 16 of his last 17. His record is 42-4, including 22 knockouts. Jorgensen, of Port Arthur, has a 74-5-4 record including 30 kayos.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a married man with two sons in high school. A young girl who works in my office threw herself at me. She was shapely and persistent. I don't have to tell you that sometimes the flesh can be weak.

Yesterday the girl told me she is pregnant. The dumb bunny gave me the news in my office within earshot of my secretary. (I'm not at all sure the secretary didn't hear the sobbing.)

I love my wife and family and would rather die than hurt them. I firmly believe the girl let this happen because she thought it would force my hand. She's a frustrated actress who likes to dramatize everything. I offered her money to leave town but she wouldn't accept it.

Don't give me a Sunday sermon. I can get that in church. I need some down-to-earth advice on how to get rid of this dangerous troublemaker. Of course I can't discuss this with anyone I know and I can't receive mail on this matter. So please reply in the paper. — SLEEPLESS NITES.

Dear Sleepless: She wasn't a "dangerous troublemaker" until she got mixed up with you. No girl can make this kind of trouble by herself.

If it's down - to - earth advice you want, you'd better come down - to - earth (where the lawyers are). First tell your wife the whole ugly story. If she stands by you, you're luckier than you deserve.

Offer to pay the girl's medical expenses and see that she gets the best care. She'll have to quit work in a few months, which may mean an additional financial burden on you.

If she wishes to keep the baby you must pay support until the child is of legal age. Face up to the fact that this girl and her out-of-wedlock child will probably be around for a long time. Pretty big price to pay for "weak flesh," isn't it, Dad?

Pretty, Unpalatable

Dear Ann Landers: I loved the letter about the woman who wrapped her garbage in fancy paper and tied it with a ribbon. It reminded me of the experience of a close friend.

My friend, Mrs. X, was a perfectionist who carried neatness to unbelievable extremes. She, too, wrapped her garbage so beautifully it looked like a bride's gift. She also took pride in preparing attractive and appetizing lunches for her husband.

One day her husband dashed out the door for work and grabbed "his lunch" off the kitchen table. That noon, in the presence of his fellow employes, he opened the package to find coffee grounds, potato peels, egg shells and a rotten orange. The garbage man got the lunch and hubby got the garbage! —E.F.P.

'Second-Hand' Ring

Dear Ann: I've been going with a swell fellow for 18 months. Henry (I'll call him that) was engaged to a girl who ran around behind his back. He finally asked her to return his ring.

This is the problem, Ann, although my mother says I am childish and insists there is no problem. Henry wants to give me the same ring. I feel funny accepting a ring that was bought for another girl. We've touched on the subject lightly but Henry just brushes it aside as a "little girl whim" that I'll get over.

Shall I come right out and tell him exactly how I feel? Please help me decide.—SENTIMENTALIST.

Dear Sentimentalist: Henry (I'll call him that, too) won't be wearing the ring and neither will your mother.

For a modest sum the stone can be reset. In a different mounting it will look like a brand new ring. No girl should have to wear an engagement ring that reminds her of her fiance's former sweetheart.

Confidentially

To LARK-HAPPY NOW: You aren't happy — you're anesthetized. Those pills don't take your troubles away. They take you away, temporarily. See a doctor.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-adressed envelope.

Nose Cone Eludes Searchers Again

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A highly advanced ICBM nose cone fired 5,000 miles through space was lost for good in the Atlantic today.

The Air Force abandoned the little cone to the depths after a two-day search wound up Sunday with no results.

A huge Thor-Able rocket blasted the cone close to the intercontinental range in about 30 minutes early Saturday, but a fleet of C54 planes and ships failed to find it.

It was learned that a malfunction in the recovery package, probably the tiny radio transmitter, stymied the recovery efforts.

It was the sixth attempt to retrieve one of the elusive cones without success. However, good instrumentation reports were received on the cone's blazing reentry through the earth's atmosphere at speeds close to 15,000 m.p.h.

The Thor-Able, a first, stage Thor intermediate range ballistic missile coupled with a Vanguard, performed its job perfectly, to hurl the knob-shaped cone to an impact area near Ascension Island.

Hearings Set Friday By Chester's Mayor

A Chester driver and a Cleveland motorist were arrested following two minor traffic collisions in Chester over the weekend in which no one was injured, police reported.

David H. Fout of Chester was cited for hazardous driving after his 199 sedan hit the side of a car driven by Hancock County Deputy Sheriff Harry Abrams of Indiana Ave. Saturday on Carolina Ave. near 6th St.

Special Officer Harold Ash said Fout drove his car away from the curb and hit the side of the other auto.

Martin K. Edwards of Cleveland was cited for failure to maintain control of his car after it rammed the rear of another Sunday afternoon on Carolina Ave. at 5th St. Ash said Edwards hit a car driven by Griffin Douty of Salem, who had stopped for a traffic light.

Both men are slated for hearings Friday night before Mayor Burton Ward.

Robert Rand of Pittsburgh, cited Thursday on Carolina Ave. for speeding and driving left of center, forfeited a $15.50 bond Saturday when he failed to appear for a hearing before Mayor Ward.

Girl Torn By Car Battles For Life After Amputation

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Little Julia Ellis, 8, whose right leg was amputated Saturday night by a doctor operating with a borrowed penknife, clung doggedly to life today.

The girl was in critical condition in a suburban Kirkwood hospital but nurses said she was doing well in view of what had happened.

Julia's sister, Donna, 9, was in the same hospital, recovering from fractures of both legs. They were struck Saturday night by a car which skidded around a curve on a gravel road near their home in Arnold, Mo., 15 miles southwest of St. Louis.

State police said the driver was Robert E. Kemp, 25, of suburban Lemay. He was charged with careless and reckless driving while drinking.

The girls were walking toward home. Their mother, Mrs. Clarence Ellis, saw the car hit them.

Donna was knocked 20 feet to the side of the road, but Julia's leg became wedged between the car's rear bumper and a fender and she was dragged 70 feet.

Dr. Howard W. Soman of Arnold, was called to the scene. He borrowed a knife from state trooper Emmett Welch and using light from head lamps on the patrol car, removed Julia's leg below the knee.

Space Heater Blamed For Fire On Church St.

The living room of a house at 1006 Church St. was almost gutted by fire Sunday afternoon at 12:37.

Leonard Nichols was in the process of moving into the home, firemen said. A gas space heater set under a mantle had been lighted to heat the home. It set fire to the mantle and the flames quickly spread over the room.

Firemen laid two booster lines to extinguish the blaze. The fire was confined to lone room. Some furniture was destroyed, firemen said. The house is owned by Hugh Patterson of East Liverpool.

Firemen also extinguished a grass fire at W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. Sunday at 2:20 p. m.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a married man with two sons in high school. A young girl who works in my office threw herself at me. She was shapely and persistent. I don't have to tell you that sometimes the flesh can be weak.

Yesterday the girl told me she is pregnant. The dumb bunny gave me the news in my office within earshot of my secretary. (I'm not at all sure the secretary didn't hear the sobbing.)

I love my wife and family and would rather die than hurt them. I firmly believe the girl let this happen because she thought it would force my hand. She's a frustrated actress who likes to dramatize everything. I offered her money to leave town but she woudn't accept it.

Don't give me a Sunday sermon. I can get that in church. I need some down-to-earth advice on how to get rid of this dangerous troublemaker. Of course I can't discuss this with anyone I know and I can't receive mail on this matter. So please reply in the paper. — SLEEPLESS NITES.

Dear Sleepless: She wasn't a "dangerous troublemaker" until she got mixed up with you. No girl can make this kind of trouble by herself.

If it's down - to - earth advice you want, you'd better come down - to - earth (where the lawyers are). First tell your wife the whole ugly story. If she stands by you, you're luckier than you deserve.

Offer to pay the girl's medical expenses and see that she gets the best care. She'll have to quit work in a few months, which may mean an additional financial burden on you.

If she wishes to keep the baby you must pay support until the child is of legal age. Face up to the fact that this girl and her out-of-wedlock child will probably be around for a long time. Pretty big price to pay for "weak flesh," isn't it, Dad?

Pretty, Unpalatable

Dear Ann Landers: I loved the letter about the woman who wrapped her garbage in fancy paper and tied it with a ribbon. It reminded me of the experience of a close friend.

My friend, Mrs. X, was a perfectionist who carried neatness to unbelievable extremes. She, too, wrapped her garbage so beautifully it looked like a bride's gift. She also took pride in preparing attractive and appetizing lunches for her husband.

One day her husband dashed out the door for work and grabbed "his lunch" off the kitchen table. That noon, in the presence of his fellow employes, he opened the package to find coffee grounds, potato peels, egg shells and a rotten orange. The garbage man got the lunch and hubby got the garbage! —E.F.P.

'Second-Hand' Ring

Dear Ann: I've been going with a swell fellow for 18 months. Henry (I'll call him that) was engaged to a girl who ran around behind his back. He finally asked her to return his ring.

This is the problem, Ann, although my mother says I am childish and insists there is no problem. Henry wants to give me the same ring. I feel funny accepting a ring that was bought for another girl. We've touched on the subject lightly but Henry just brushes it aside as a "little girl whim" that I'll get over.

Shall I come right out and tell him exactly how I feel? Please help me decide.—SENTIMENTALIST.

Dear Sentimentalist: Henry (I'll call him that, too) won't be wearing the ring and neither will your mother.

For a modest sum the stone can be reset. In a different mounting it will look like a brand new ring. No girl should have to wear an engagement ring that reminds her of her fiance's former sweetheart.

Confidentially

To LARK-HAPPY NOW: You aren't happy — you're anesthetized. Those pills don't take your troubles away. They take you away, temporarily. See a doctor.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-adressed envelope.

Planting And Care Of Vegetables

Here are planting tips on various vegetables from the Agricultural Extension Service at Ohio State University:

Asparagus — A perennial crop which should produce for 15 to 20 years with good care. In early spring plant 1- or 2-year-old roots in a trench 8 inches deep with bud upright and cover with 2 inches of soil. Add the rest of the soil after shoots have emerged. Avoid poorly-drained soil. A solid bed is produced when plants are set 18 inches each way.

For row planting, make rows 5 feet apart. Fertilize at double the usual rate for other vegetables. Manure or other organic matter should be used if available. Disc in or remove tops after they are killed by frost. Do not cut spears until the third year. Harvest for 8 weeks or less for best results. Spears should be cut just under surface of soil.

Next year's crop depends upon fern growth made after harvest and before frost in the fall. Do not remove the fern growth in fall until all green color has disappeared from the stem.

Beans—One of the most useful and successful garden crops. Bush beans can be grown with less work than pole beans.

Do not work with beans when wet, as diseases may be spread, especially anthracnose. Beans are a warm season crop and should not be planted until soil is warm.

Delay planting of lima beans especially until warm weather is assured. Crusts on heavy soils prevent emergence, or may result in broken "necks." Use mellow soil or be prepared to break crusts. Seed treatment with one of the recommended materials is particularly helpful for lima beans. Arasan and Spergon are examples of materials that can be used.

Snap beans should be harvested before seed and fibrous matter develop. Pick limas when seeds are nearly full grown and before pods turn yellow.

Plant snap beans every three weeks until July for continuous supply. Pole limas may be planted to extent the harvest.

Beets—Beets can be sown as soon as soil can be prepared. Additional plantings may be made until July. Beets will grow in both cool and warm crop seasons. Later plantings should be selected for storing. If beets are pale, a rain will often improve the color.

The thinnings may be used for greens. Beets make best growth in soils with pH range 6.0 to 6.8. High acid soils will cause crop failure. Midsummer seedings should be sown in shallow trenches slightly deeper than those for spring seedings. This will help to conserve moisture.

Broccoli—Set plants or sow seed early. The plants grow large and ample room must be provided. Keep flower heads cut even if not used. Be sure to obtain an early strain. Start plants in hotbed for early crop; sow seed in place for late crop. Broccoli stands heat and drought much better than cauliflower. Cut heads when they are well-formed but before buds start to open. Five inches of steam can be cut with the head.

Brussels Sprouts — A difficult crop to grow. Plant lice are usually severe and difficult to control. Remove lower sprouts as soon as they are large enough for use. Lower leaves may be removed to allow more room for sprouts to develop. Top leaves should not be removed. Plants may be left in garden until freezing weather.

Cabbage — Early cabbage should be grown from plants. Set plants as soon as weather permits. Late cabbage may be seeded in a seed row and transplanted or may be sown thinly in place. The plants are then thinned to the correct stand.

Late cabbage should be grown for storage or for kraut. Plant yellows-resistant strains, especially on plots where cabbage has been grown before. If heads cannot be harvested when mature, twist the plant so as to break some of the roots. This will help prevent cracking of the heads.

Savoy (crinkle leaf type) cabbage is preferred by some.

Collards — Resembles cabbage, but produces no head. Easily grown throughout the season. Sow early in spring and until August. Entire top of plant may be used when thinning the rows. If lower leaves are picked, upper leaves will develop for later use.

Corn (Sweet) — The aristocrat of home garden crops. Not adapted to very small gardens. Grow two or more rows of each planting to insure pollination. Thin to proper stand for good-sized ears. Do not remove suckers. Suckering may reduce yield, if done late or in dry weather.

Succession plantings from May until July 10 insure steady supply. Many excellent hybrids are available today. By selecting hybrids with early, mid-season and late maturity ranges, the harvest season can be nearly continuous.

Harvest and use promptly to obtain finest quality. Squash or pumpkins may be planted with corn, especially if soil is fertile and moisture is adequate.

Cucumbers — Require ample space and must be well grown to be successful. Major problems are control of insects and diseases. Irrigation helps produce steady crops. Respond to manures and heavy fertilization. Harvest cucumbers while green or production will be reduced. A warm season crop. Germination will be poor in cold soils. Cucumbers will not cross pollinate melons and squash.

Eggplant — Eggplant is a warm weather crop and the planting date (June 1) should not be rushed. Harvest fruits when still shiny. Eggplants may be stored in cool place for several weeks in the fall.

Usually 4 or 5 plants will supply sufficient fruits for the average family for the entire harvest season.

Hybrids are available.

Endive — Sow seed in June or July for a fall crop. Sow in place and thin, or sow in a seed row and transplant. When plants are well grown or in October, tie up leaves to blanch the heart. Many prefer endive unblanched. Stands considerable cold and may be used until winter, if covered with straw or leaves.

Two general types, the narrow leaf (endive) and the broad leaf (escarole). Finely curled types include Green Curled and White Curled. Broad leaved types include Full Heart Batavian and Cos Type Batavian. Used raw as salad and cooked as greens.

Kale — A member of the cabbage family is easy to grow. A cool season crop. Sow as soon as ground can be worked for spring crop. Sow in July for fall crop. Hardy and may be used all winter. Straw protection may be needed in northern areas. Harvest outer leaves, or use entire plant.

Top Commuter Lives 700 Miles From Work

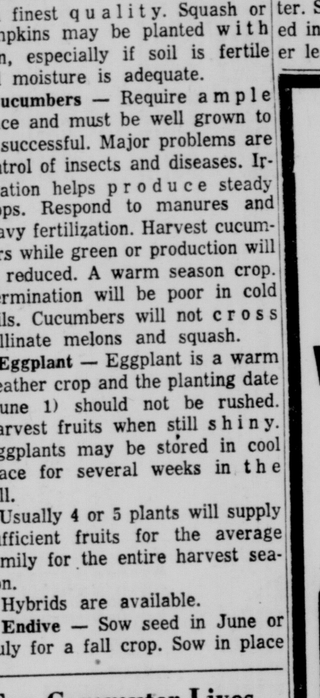
MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dale K. Russell spends $1,500 a year traveling to work. He lives 700 miles from his job.

Russell, 40, is a first officer for Pan American Airways, with headquarters in New York. Since 1957, Russell and his family have lived in his hometown of Maryville.

Russell, who has been with Pan-American 15 years, plans to continue his present schedule as long as is feasible.

He points out that despite the distance, he spends only 14 flight hours a month commuting. Which is less time than many who live much closer to their jobs spend in their cars.

Polaris, or the North Star, is the most important for determining latitudes.



THIS IS THE master panel of a zone fire alarm system. If fire breaks out, an alarm sounds and one of the four lights flashes, indicating which part of the house the fire is in. Buttons are for testing the alarm system.

THIS WINDOW KEY LOCK is an effective weapon against burglars. It cannot be unlocked except with the key, even if a pane of glass is broken out. Second latch hole (top) makes it possible to lock the window in a partially open position, permitting ventilation without sacrifice of security.

Planting And Care Of Vegetables

Here are planting tips on various vegetables from the Agricultural Extension Service at Ohio State University:

Asparagus — A perennial crop which should produce for 15 to 20 years with good care. In early spring plant 1- or 2-year-old roots in a trench 8 inches deep with bud upright and cover with 2 inches of soil. Add the rest of the soil after shoots have emerged. Avoid poorly-drained soil. A solid bed is produced when plants are set 18 inches each way.

For row planting, make rows 5 feet apart. Fertilize at double the usual rate for other vegetables. Manure or other organic matter should be used if available. Disc in or remove tops after they are killed by frost. Do not cut spears until the third year. Harvest for 8 weeks or less for best results. Spears should be cut just under surface of soil.

Next year's crop depends upon fern growth made after harvest and before frost in the fall. Do not remove the fern growth in fall until all green color has disappeared from the stem.

Beans—One of the most useful and successful garden crops. Bush beans can be grown with less work than pole beans.

Do not work with beans when wet, as diseases may be spread, especially anthracnose. Beans are a warm season crop and should not be planted until soil is warm.

Delay planting of lima beans especially until warm weather is assured. Crusts on heavy soils prevent emergence, or may result in broken "necks." Use mellow soil or be prepared to break crusts. Seed treatment with one of the recommended materials is particularly helpful for lima beans. Arasan and Spergon are examples of materials that can be used.

Snap beans should be harvested before seed and fibrous matter develop. Pick limas when seeds are nearly full grown and before pods turn yellow.

Plant snap beans every three weeks until July for continuous supply. Pole limas may be planted to extent the harvest.

Beets—Beets can be sown as soon as soil can be prepared. Additional plantings may be made until July. Beets will grow in both cool and warm crop seasons. Later plantings should be selected for storing. If beets are pale, a rain will often improve the color.

The thinnings may be used for greens. Beets make best growth in soils with pH range 6.0 to 6.8. High acid soils will cause crop failure. Midsummer seedings should be sown in shallow trenches slightly deeper than those for spring seedings. This will help to conserve moisture.

Broccoli—Set plants or sow seed early. The plants grow large and ample room must be provided. Keep flower heads cut even if not used. Be sure to obtain an early strain. Start plants in hotbed for early crop; sow seed in place for late crop. Broccoli stands heat and drought much better than cauliflower. Cut heads when they are well-formed but before buds start to open. Five inches of steam can be cut with the head.

Brussels Sprouts — A difficult crop to grow. Plant lice are usually severe and difficult to control. Remove lower sprouts as soon as they are large enough for use. Lower leaves may be removed to allow more room for sprouts to develop. Top leaves should not be removed. Plants may be left in garden until freezing weather.

Cabbage — Early cabbage should be grown from plants. Set plants as soon as weather permits. Late cabbage may be seeded in a seed row and transplanted or may be sown thinly in place. The plants are then thinned to the correct stand.

Late cabbage should be grown for storage or for kraut. Plant yellows-resistant strains, especially on plots where cabbage has been grown before. If heads cannot be harvested when mature, twist the plant so as to break some of the roots. This will help prevent cracking of the heads.

Savoy (crinkle leaf type) cabbage is preferred by some.

Collards — Resembles cabbage, but produces no head. Easily grown throughout the season. Sow early in spring and until August. Entire top of plant may be used when thinning the rows. If lower leaves are picked, upper leaves will develop for later use.

Corn (Sweet) — The aristocrat of home garden crops. Not adapted to very small gardens. Grow two or more rows of each planting to insure pollination. Thin to proper stand for good-sized ears. Do not remove suckers. Suckering may reduce yield, if done late or in dry weather.

Succession plantings from May until July 10 insure steady supply. Many excellent hybrids are available today. By selecting hybrids with early, mid-season and late maturity ranges, the harvest season can be nearly continuous.

Harvest and use promptly to obtain finest quality. Squash or pumpkins may be planted with corn, especially if soil is fertile and moisture is adequate.

Cucumbers — Require ample space and must be well grown to be successful. Major problems are control of insects and diseases. Irrigation helps produce steady crops. Respond to manures and heavy fertilization. Harvest cucumbers while green or production will be reduced. A warm season crop. Germination will be poor in cold soils. Cucumbers will not cross pollinate melons and squash.

Eggplant — Eggplant is a warm weather crop and the planting date (June 1) should not be rushed. Harvest fruits when still shiny. Eggplants may be stored in cool place for several weeks in the fall.

Usually 4 or 5 plants will supply sufficient fruits for the average family for the entire harvest season.

Hybrids are available.

Endive — Sow seed in June or July for a fall crop. Sow in place and thin, or sow in a seed row and transplant. When plants are well grown or in October, tie up leaves to blanch the heart. Many prefer endive unblanched. Stands considerable cold and may be used until winter, if covered with straw or leaves.

Two general types, the narrow leaf (endive) and the broad leaf (escarole). Finely curled types include Green Curled and White Curled. Broad leaved types include Full Heart Batavian and Cos Type Batavian. Used raw as salad and cooked as greens.

Kale — A member of the cabbage family is easy to grow. A cool season crop. Sow as soon as ground can be worked for spring crop. Sow in July for fall crop. Hardy and may be used all winter. Straw protection may be needed in northern areas. Harvest outer leaves, or use entire plant.

Top Commuter Lives 700 Miles From Work

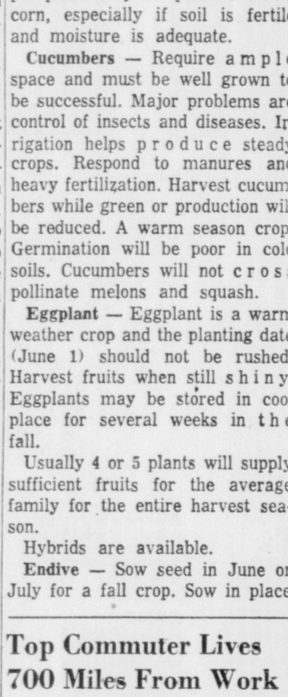
MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dale K. Russell spends $1,500 a year traveling to work. He lives 700 miles from his job.

Russell, 40, is a first officer for Pan American Airways, with headquarters in New York. Since 1957, Russell and his family have lived in his hometown of Maryville.

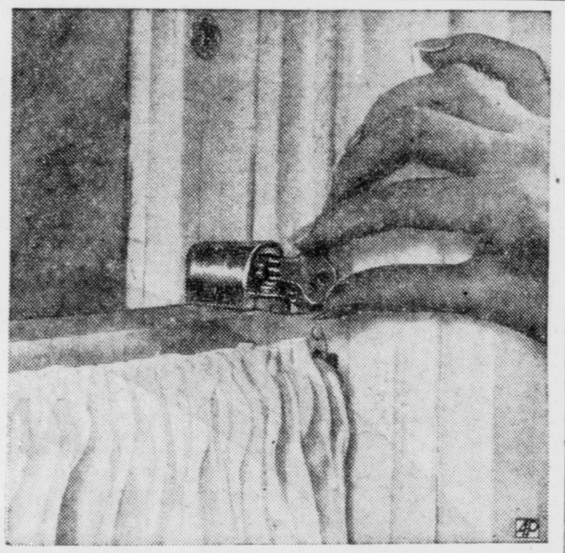
Russell, who has been with Pan-American 15 years, plans to continue his present schedule as long as is feasible.

He points out that despite the distance, he spends only 14 flight hours a month commuting. Which is less time than many who live much closer to their jobs spend in their cars.

Polaris, or the North Star, is the most important for determining latitudes.



THIS IS THE master panel of a zone fire alarm system. If fire breaks out, an alarm sounds and one of the four lights flashes, indicating which part of the house the fire is in. Buttons are for testing the alarm system.



THIS WINDOW KEY LOCK is an effective weapon against burglars. It cannot be unlocked except with the key, even if a pane of glass is broken out. Second latch hole (top) makes it possible to lock the window in a partially open position, permitting ventilation without sacrifice of security.

A Look At A House Of The Future

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — This is the age of space, a time of horizons unlimited, of wide-eyed wonder and an ebbing skepticism, of playing guessing games with the future.

The nation's watchwords are science and research. Scarcely a wedge of the economy escapes them.

The home building industry is no exception.

Proof sits on a small hill in Disneyland: a house of the future.

Since it was opened in mid-1957, more than 2½ million people have inspected the house. Many builders, particularly prefabricated housing firms, have sought permission to market it.

—:—

BUT THE house was built to back up a point of view, Monsanto Chemical Co.'s belief that plastic is the construction material of the future. The firm isn't interested in seeing its experimental house reproduced.

How well its point has been proved isn't known. Company engineers, busy now on a performance report, will say only that they are well satisfied.

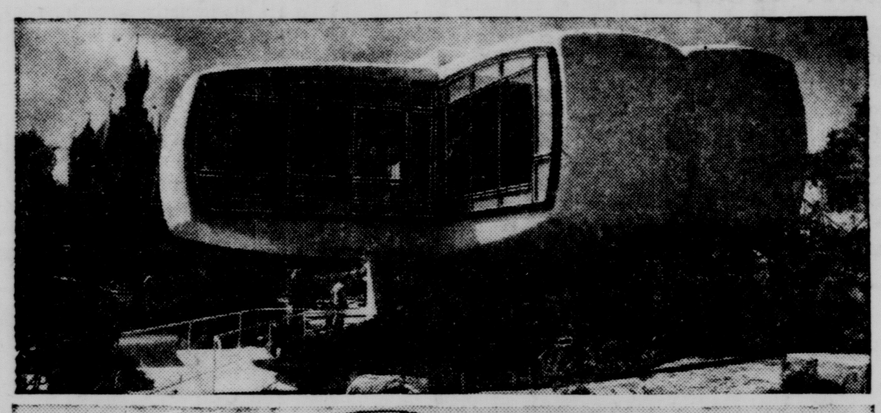
Four years ago, Monsanto went to the Department of Architecture at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and asked for a design for a plastic house.

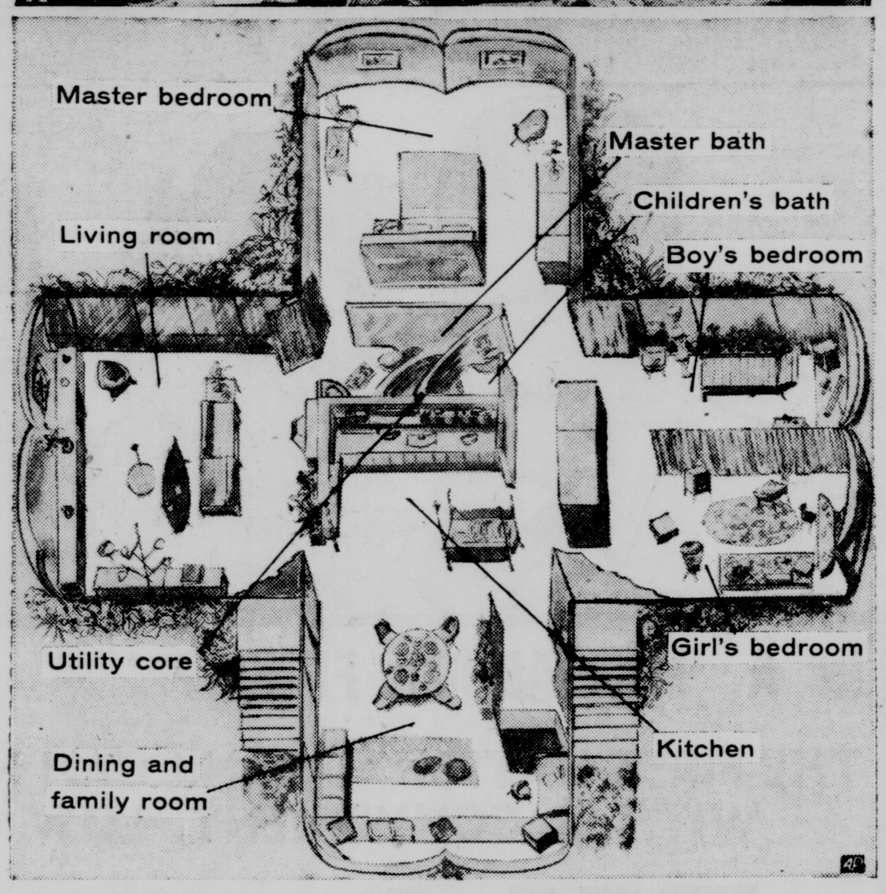
Simply substituting plastic for steel and wood was not enough. It asked for a design which would get the most out of the strength, flexibility and design features peculiar to plastics. Where traditional materials would do a better job, the instructions were to use them.

—:—

TO GET a full range of imagination, 12 other firms were asked to cooperate: Crane Co., Bell of American Motors Corp., Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., Owens - Corning Fiberglas Corp., U.S. Time Corp., Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co., Armstrong Cork Co., Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co., National Lead Co., and two partial subsidiaries of Monsanto Mobay Chemical and Chemstrand Corp.

The design eventually chosen was that of MIT architects Richard Hamilton and Marvin Goody. The interior was designed by Victor Conzani group of Pratt Institute.





It's an airborne house. Only a 16-foot square hub touches the ground. Four wings extend from the hub. Each wing is made of four preformed "modules" of reinforced plastic, 8 feet wide by 16 feet long, with curved outer surfaces and a bent end.

The square hub has a concrete foundation, which contains all plumbing, water heaters and the air conditioning unit. This is where the two bathrooms and the kitchen are located.

IN ONE wing is a girl's bedroom and a boy's bedroom, separated by vinyl panels. The girl's room is furnished with bed, mattress and pillows of plastic products, a suspended vanity, a cylindrical floor lamp with a dial which dims the light.

The boy's room, designed for a youngster of 3 to 5, has a plastic chair and desk. Light comes from a floor fixture that projects light into a clam-shaped reflector overhead. A speaker and transmitter mounted in the wall allow Mom to keep tabs on Junior from any room.

An oversized double bed with foam mattress and pillows and a translucent headboard has been placed in the master bedroom. Behind the headboard are two banks of fluorescent lights, divided at the middle of the bed. The two banks are on separate dimmers. The phone on the plastic night table resembles a jewel case and has push buttons instead of a dial. The vanity table has a built-in wash basin. Special controls enables the woman making up to simulate the lighting in which she will be seen.

The family room, or dining room, occupies a third wing. A coffee table, the cabinets, dining table and benches are made of plastic and upholstered with plastic. A color television telephone with a built-in speaker and transmitter is mounted in the wall.

IN THE fourth wing is the living room, where floor covering, furniture and upholstery are plastic. This room has a fireplace, but a very modern fireplace. The overhead lighting fixture resembles a mobile. It has no bulb but draws its light from a projector aimed from the floor. The fixture can be moved to any of several small hooks mounted around the curved ceiling.

The bathrooms are located back to back in the center section. The bottom halves of both, including the bottom of the shower, the tub and lavatories, are molded in one plastic piece.

The children's bath has a wash basin that moves up and down to accomodate any size youngster. Dimmers make lights bright enough for shaving or dim enough for night lights. Cabinets have built-in plastic toothbrushes on retracting cords.

In the kitchen, a button controlled refrigerator drops from the ceiling. A microwave stove pops up from knee level and can cook a roast beef and apple at the same time in a matter of minutes. The entire ceiling is lighted through plastic diffusing material. In the center of the floor there's a work table, which conceals an ultrasonic dishwasher that shakes the dirt off dishes with sound waves.

THIS WAS AN UNUSED ATTIC CORNER before it was converted into a handy utility area with built-in desk, bookshelves, storage shelves and concealed storage space.

Type Of Tools Needed Depends Upon Garden

The tools to be used in the garden will depend mostly upon the size of the garden.

The smallest garden will require a spading fork, hoe, rake, trowel and a piece of string for laying out the row. A good hand duster or sprayer for the application of insecticides and fungicides is essential.

The larger garden will require a good wheel hoe or hand cultivator. In addition, there are many small tools which may, although not essential, contribute to the convenience and ease of garden cultivation.

In the large farm garden, where space is not a factor, it is often convenient to space the rows so the regular farm tools may be used in cultivation.

In such gardens, the land is plowed and fitted by the regular farm tools and the rows marked out with a corn planter or marking device. The vegetables are planted in the marked rows and can be cultivated by the use of the same horse or tractor cultivators used on the farm.

Person May Say 'No' But End Up By Buying

Maybe you think you're not going to buy a major appliance this year? Possibly, but don't be too sure.

A survey recently completed by a large advertising agency reveals that 36 per cent of the people questioned said they definitely did not intend to buy a major appliance.

However, more than one-third of these actually bought an appliance that year, accounting for 28 per cent of appliance sales.

Of the 48 per cent who were uncertain about buying at the beginning of the year, almost half eventually bought and accounted for 49 per cent of the sales that year.

Only 16 per cent definitely intended to buy an appliance. More than two-thirds of those bought, but they accounted for only 23 per cent of appliance sales that year.

Used Bricks Can Meet Many Needs

By The Associated Press

Do you need a good backdrop for a cherished antique?

Would you like your new home to stand out from the rest without using a radical design or expensive materials?

Are you in the market for a distinctive patio?

If the answer to any or all of these questions is yes, consider using used bricks — antique bricks some prefer to call them.

The weather - stained surfaces of old bricks, the broken edges and the colors mellowed by the years form a perfect backdrop for colonial furniture, braided rugs and fine old china and silver. The bricks are thus ideal for use in decorative walls.

THEY CAN be no less striking when used, in place of new brick, for entire houses, or for patios.

The cost? Likely to be less than new brick if you live near the source, but just as likely to cost more if you live some distance away and shipping charges are involved.

That general expense estimate comes from Eugene D. Hadlock, who deals exclusively in old brick.

Hadlock considers San Antonio, Tex., his home and maintains a house there. But he spends much of his time in Kansas City, where he also has a house, because that's where he gets most of his brick.

Why Kansas City? Because that Midwest metropolis has been demolishing hundreds of old brick buildings to clear the way for new freeways and other public improvements.

Any city where large redevelopment projects are in progress, he points out, is likely to be a good source of old brick.

ONE OF THE most popular old bricks, Hadlock says, is a 9-pound vitrified paving brick that measures 3 by 4 by 9 inches.

These old bricks were baked in beehive kilns and, because of the unevenness of the heat, did not come out all the same color. Those at the top, where the heat was the greatest, usually were deep purple.

Moving toward the bottom, the colors faded off through browns and tans to a yellowish orange.

The old kilns also produced another effect which enhances the charm of paving bricks.

The bricks near the firebox opening often became checked because they were subjected to intense heat before they were thoroughly dried. These checked and cracked bricks can be used for an extra touch by scattering them through a wall.

A Kansas City brick getting a big play in Texas actually was made in Louisiana in the days of slavery.

It's a small, hand - shaped brick with a deep red tone. Some of the bricks have a few dark spots created by iron tracings in the clay. Hadlock says he learned the brick came to Kansas City in its earliest days as ballast in the old river boats.

A vexing problem for Hadlock, particularly on holidays, is the number of people who will back a truck or car up to a building being wrecked and make off with bricks he has already contracted for.

"These people seem to feel that because a public project is involved, they as taxpayers have salvage rights," he says.

"Recently I caught a woman with the trunk of her convertible loaded so heavily the rear end practically dragged on the street. 'You can't stop me now!" exclaimed the woman. 'Why, this is my seventh load and I will need all of these to finish out my patio'."

You Set Dial, Water Heater Does The Job

How best to heat water for the bathrooms, kitchen, and laundry, and how much will be required?

These are questions which face every family building a new home or faced with replacing a water heater in an existing house.

Automation is the order of the day in water heating as in everything else. Few water heaters are sold nowadays that require any kind of attention.

Once the modern automatic water heater has been installed, there is no responsibility for the householder other than setting the dial or control for the temperature of water desired.

On the question of what size water heater to get, all authorities are agreed: Get a heater adequate for present requirements and some reserve capacity for increased demands for hot water are likely to arise in the future.

The matter of adequate capacity is particularly important in homes having modern automatic washing machines and automatic dishwashers.

These important labor - saving appliances require a considerable amount of water at a relatively high temperature.

Unless the water heater is equal to this demand, some of the hot water will be diluted with cold, with the result that the housewife, is likely to blame the appliance instead of placing the blame where it belongs, that is, on the family for having purchased a water heater that is too small for the hot water requirements of the home.

Manufacturers have developed a sizing chart. With the aid of this chart, water heater dealers can tell householders exactly how much hot water they require and what size water heater will do the job.

'Outdoor Living' Big Part Of Home

A home is more than just a house.

Today, outdoor living is just about as important as indoor activities. So don't let home improvements be limited by four walls and a roof.

A small investment in outdoor equipment can pay big dividends in health, happiness and comfort.

Most luxurious of all, a steel or reinforced concrete swimming pool will delight the whole family for years to come.

Pool or no pool, new steel lawn and garden furniture can mean some mighty comfortable loafing during the warm months. It's available in styles, shapes and models to fit practically every taste, figure and sitting-down activity.

And, if the youngsters tend to get rambunctious just when the grownups are trying for some intensive relaxing, turn the kids loose on a sturdy playground set. They can give it the roughest possible treatment without hurting it or themselves. And they'll be getting valuable exercise and fresh air while having the time of their lives.

A backyard barbecue is practically a social necessity these days. Models range from easily portable units (wonderful for picnics) to elaborate units that seem embarrassed by anything less than a pair of porterhouse steaks.

A good way to work up an appetite for the barbecue is by working around the garden.

Today's lawnmowers are marvels of maneuverability and reliability, while new steel garden tools lighten even the heaviest yard work. A packaged steel tool house will store garden equipment neatly and relieve the overburdened garage.

A concrete patio, reinforced with rods or wire mesh, is an outdoor improvement of lasting permanence. Coloring can be made part of the concrete itself. It's hard to overestimate the comfort of a sitting area that is dry and level.

Another improvement that pays big dividends is underground garbage cans. Only the top of these, operated by a foot pedal, is visible. The regular cans they replace make good containers for fertilizer, lime and peat moss.

Don't forget the outside of the house itself. A lightweight steel cellar door will give weatherproof protection and security that simply can't be matched.

Steel gutters and downspouts will ride out the worst storms, and are now also available in stainless steel for unequalled strength beauty and corrosion resistance.

Finishing touches can be important. Steel curbing and lawn edging will smarten the yard, save precious grass and flower beds.

Chances To Get Much Of Sea Food Held Slim

HONOLULU (AP)—There's a lot of food in the ocean, but a scientist says the chances that you'll get to eat much of it are slim.

"It'd be better to mow your lawn and eat the grass," advises marine botanist Albert J. Bernatowicz. "And cheaper."

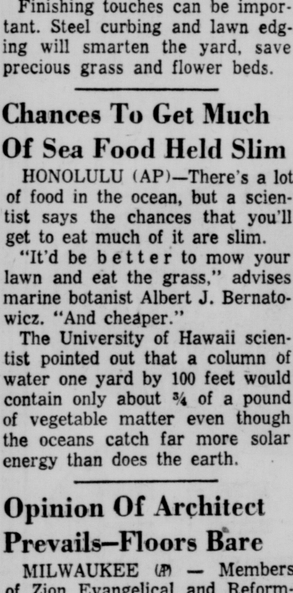
The University of Hawaii scientist pointed out that a column of water one yard by 100 feet would contain only about ¾ of a pound of vegetable matter even though the oceans catch far more solar energy than does the earth.

Opinion Of Architect Prevails—Floors Bare

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Members of Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church considered the use of carpeting in their new contemporary church, but the architect, William P. Wenzler, objected.

"The church places great demands and responsibility on its members," Wenzler said. "This fact is likely to be forgotten in a plush carpet atmosphere."

His view prevailed. The floors will remain bare.



INTRUSION? Weather stripping will help keep outside noise outside the house.

Used Bricks Can Meet Many Needs

By The Associated Press

Do you need a good backdrop for a cherished antique?

Would you like your new home to stand out from the rest without using a radical design or expensive materials?

Are you in the market for a distinctive patio?

If the answer to any or all of these questions is yes, consider using used bricks — antique bricks some prefer to call them.

The weather - stained surfaces of old bricks, the broken edges and the colors mellowed by the years form a perfect backdrop for colonial furniture, braided rugs and fine old china and silver. The bricks are thus ideal for use in decorative walls.

THEY CAN be no less striking when used, in place of new brick, for entire houses, or for patios.

The cost? Likely to be less than new brick if you live near the source, but just as likely to cost more if you live some distance away and shipping charges are involved.

That general expense estimate comes from Eugene D. Hadlock, who deals exclusively in old brick.

Hadlock considers San Antonio, Tex., his home and maintains a house there. But he spends much of his time in Kansas City, where he also has a house, because that's where he gets most of his brick.

Why Kansas City? Because that Midwest metropolis has been demolishing hundreds of old brick buildings to clear the way for new freeways and other public improvements.

Any city where large redevelopment projects are in progress, he points out, is likely to be a good source of old brick.

ONE OF THE most popular old bricks, Hadlock says, is a 9-pound vitrified paving brick that measures 3 by 4 by 9 inches.

These old bricks were baked in beehive kilns and, because of the unevenness of the heat, did not come out all the same color. Those at the top, where the heat was the greatest, usually were deep purple.

Moving toward the bottom, the colors faded off through browns and tans to a yellowish orange.

The old kilns also produced another effect which enhances the charm of paving bricks.

The bricks near the firebox opening often became checked because they were subjected to intense heat before they were thoroughly dried. These checked and cracked bricks can be used for an extra touch by scattering them through a wall.

A Kansas City brick getting a big play in Texas actually was made in Louisiana in the days of slavery.

It's a small, hand - shaped brick with a deep red tone. Some of the bricks have a few dark spots created by iron tracings in the clay. Hadlock says he learned the brick came to Kansas City in its earliest days as ballast in the old river boats.

A vexing problem for Hadlock, particularly on holidays, is the number of people who will back a truck or car up to a building being wrecked and make off with bricks he has already contracted for.

"These people seem to feel that because a public project is involved, they as taxpayers have salvage rights," he says.

"Recently I caught a woman with the trunk of her convertible loaded so heavily the rear end practically dragged on the street. 'You can't stop me now!" exclaimed the woman. 'Why, this is my seventh load and I will need all of these to finish out my patio'."

Unique New Appliances Will Soon Reach Market

Homemakers are due for some surprises in new home appliances during the year ahead.

The heat pump, for example, is only a year away. This device draws the warmth of the earth into a home to heat it. A heat transfer coil is buried four feet deep outside the home. The pump is inside.

This unit, under development for three years, will heat in winter and act as an air conditioning unit in summer. Its cost is comparable to present home heating units.

Another improvement is a frost-free refrigerator that utilizes a fan system to reduce the moisture inside the box. The extracted moisture is channeled to the vegetable crisper.

Room lighting also is in for simplification. Four major firms have passed the experimental stages with a lamp based on the principle of electroluminescence.

Since its discovery by Prof. Georges Destrian of France in 1936, electroluminescence has largely been a laboratory curiousity. It is a phenomenon of science that produces light by exciting phosphors with alternating current.

In practical application, wall panels one or two feet square will be used for illumination.

The lamp is a thin metal plate — a coating of phosphor between coatings of ceramic surfaces. It is operated on alternating current of 110 volts.

By changing the cycling from 60 to 1,000 per second, the color of light can be controlled, permitting any color of the rainbow to be produced.

Already electroluminescence is being applied to telephone dials. It makes the phone glow at night so you don't have to grope for it to answer it.

A Chicagoan named Irv Cohen, an engineering graduate of Illinois Intitute of Technology, developed electroluminescent telephones, which are in production.

The day we commemorate as April Fools' Day in the United States is known as Cuckoo Day in Scotland, as Fish Day in France, as Doll Day in Japan and as Boob Day in Spain.

Two Types Reviewed In Garden Vegetables

Garden vegetables may be grouped into two general classes: the cool-season crops, which are most successful when planted in the early spring (a few can be planted in the fall), and the warm-season vegetables, which produce best when grown during mid-summer.

The cool-season crops may be planted as soon as the ground can be worked in the spring. These include peas, beets, cabbage, carrots, spinach, lettuce, radishes, onions, mustard, etc. Some of these early season crops require a short growing season and can be followed by warm-season crops planted as soon as the early crop is harvested.

Other cool-season crops, which may be planted soon after the garden season begins, include: parsnips, salisfy, parsley, broccoli and chard.

Air Conditioning And Heating Are Tested In Scientific Home

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Home air conditioning and heating problems are under study at the University of Illinois in a scientific house.

The new research residence is a multi - level home with eight rooms and two and a half baths One of two garages is used as instrument room for the two-year investigation.

Its occupants — J. Richard Wright, 24; Mrs. Wright, 23, and son David, 11 months — live amid electronic recording instruments.

By the time David is old enough to go to college, many of the findings resulting from his fourth year-round air conditioning research residence will be applied to new homes.

Daily researcher Wright checks instruments in the house connected by eight miles of wire to 475 temperature measuring locations.

The University of Illinois is a pioneer in the field of investigating home temperatures. Its first warm air heating research residence was occupied in 1924.

Sponsored by the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association, the project will pry into problems that confront architects who work with the complexities of modern home design.

Its tri - level design, according to surveys, is the choice of 80 per cent of all Americans seeking a new home.

Its wall construction consists of cedar shake siding, insulating sheathing, two - inch glass fiber insulation and interior dry wall panel.

The ceiling is insulated with four-inch glass fiber insulation. A portion of the ceiling insulation is enclosed in alumnum foil to permit study of the reduction of heat loss and heat gain.

Storm sash are provided for all windows and doors. A double-glazed aluminum siding door is used between dining room and patio.

The house is considered representative of present - day construction.

A wide, open stairway was installed to determine why such stairwells tend to cause air to move to lower levels, creating local areas of discomfort.

In addition to electronic recording potentiometers that enable 24 temperatures to be studied continuously, there are instruments to keep track of changes in the weather.

A pyrheliometer and recorder record the amount of solar energy received on the weather surfaces of the house.

A cup type anemometer and recorder obtain records of wind velocity, which affects the amount of air leakage around window cracks and other openings in the structure. The direction of the wind is also noted.

The amount of heat flowing through walls and ceilings is measured by heat flow meters placed between the insulation and finished ceiling and on the interior surfaces of the walls. These meters measure the amount of heat flowing into or out of the house.

In addition, instruments measure pressures at various points in the duct system, the amount of electricity and gas used by the occupants and also by the furnace and cooling unit.

Instruments also check the velocity of the air in the lived - in portion of the rooms and the length and frequency furnace and cooling unit are in operation.

Calls Time-Out

MAYSVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Although only 5 years old, Kent Melton knows football. He goes to games and can discuss the plays intelligently. Recently in church with his mother he turned to her and said: "I'm tired, let's go home at the half."

Forget Something?

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Police are wondering if the burglars who invaded a Knoxville grocery got their values mixed. After scattering $5 in pennies on the floor and stacking $16 in cash on a counter, the thieves walked away with a dozen bottles of catsup.

Daily researcher Wright checks instruments in the house connected by eight miles of wire to 475 temperature measuring locations.

The University of Illinois is a pioneer in the field of investigating home temperatures. Its first warm air heating research residence was occupied in 1924.

Sponsored by the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association, the project will pry into problems that confront architects who work with the complexities of modern home design.

Its tri - level design, according to surveys, is the choice of 80 per cent of all Americans seeking a new home.

Its wall construction consists of cedar shake siding, insulating sheathing, two - inch glass fiber insulation and interior dry wall panel.

The ceiling is insulated with four-inch glass fiber insulation. A portion of the ceiling insulation is enclosed in alumnum foil to permit study of the reduction of heat loss and heat gain.

Storm sash are provided for all windows and doors. A double-glazed aluminum siding door is used between dining room and patio.

The house is considered representative of present - day construction.

A wide, open stairway was installed to determine why such stairwells tend to cause air to move to lower levels, creating local areas of discomfort.

In addition to electronic recording potentiometers that enable 24 temperatures to be studied continuously, there are instruments to keep track of changes in the weather.

A pyrheliometer and recorder record the amount of solar energy received on the weather surfaces of the house.

A cup type anemometer and recorder obtain records of wind velocity, which affects the amount of air leakage around window cracks and other openings in the structure. The direction of the wind is also noted.

The amount of heat flowing through walls and ceilings is measured by heat flow meters placed between the insulation and finished ceiling and on the interior surfaces of the walls. These meters measure the amount of heat flowing into or out of the house.

In addition, instruments measure pressures at various points in the duct system, the amount of electricity and gas used by the occupants and also by the furnace and cooling unit.

Instruments also check the velocity of the air in the lived - in portion of the rooms and the length and frequency furnace and cooling unit are in operation.

Your Lawn Deserves Proper Care

Here are some suggestions gathered from several sources on the proper care of lawns.

It will not usually be necessary to cut a fall-sown lawn that season. When sowing in the spring, cut high as soon as an inch of grass will be cut off. The first clippings may need removing.

Rake very lightly, if at all. Remove only dead leaves and twigs. Use a leaf broom or wooden rake, not a steel rake. Do not attempt to rake all the dead grass out of the lawn. It will soon rot and disappear, adding its bit to the humus of the soil.

—:—

ROLL ONCE a year, just after frost has come out of the ground when the soil is definitely moist but not muddy. Rolling cannot make an uneven lawn level. It will push into the soil bunches of grass which have been heaved out by winter and bring the surface to its original level so that it can be more easily mowed over.

—:—

APPLY 10 to 20 pounds of 4-12-8 or similar formula fertilizer per 1,000 square feet in September or early October.

Then apply 5 to 10 pounds of 12-6-6, or 3 to 5 pounds of sulfate of ammonia, per 1,000 square feet in the spring as the grass needs it—early if it is thin, and late or not at all if it is dense, of good color, and growing well. On poor soils, a third application may be needed in May or June following early spring application. This application definitely fertilizes crabgrass if present, especially on watered lawns. If you do not enjoy using a lawn mower, cut this program down to what suits your soil, your lawn, and you. The fall application is the last one to omit or reduce.

Liming — In general, don't! In Ohio west of a line from Sandusky to Columbus and Chillicothe and north of a line from Chillicothe to Hamilton, it is safe to say that lime is never needed on a lawn.

East and south of those lines it may be desirable. If so, 25 pounds of "lawn lime" (hydrated lime) or 50 pounds of agricultural ground limestone per 1,000 square feet will be sufficient for 5 to 10 years. Moss is not an indication that the lawn needs lime. Usually it indicates that the soil needs fertilizer, drainage, less shade, or all three.

Lots of seed is wasted every spring in reseeding established grass. Don't reseed unless there are bare areas at least one foot square. Grass seedlings haven't a chance in old sod and the money and time spent in seeding might as well be saved.

Use fertilizer and intelligent cutting, not seed, on a thin lawn. Sow the bare spots like a new lawn. The edges of reseeded bare areas must be clipped regularly; otherwise the old grass will kill out the new at the border, from 3 to 5 inches out.

THE FENCE rows along our highways have miles of good bluegrass sod, free from weeds. Why? Because these areas are mowed only a few times, and cut high when they are mowed. The food of plants is produced in the leaves through action of sunlight; the more leaf, the more food, the more roots, and the stronger the plant. The depth and strength of the roots of grass are almost exactly proportional to its top-growth.

Bluegrass lawns in Ohio should be cut with the cutting plate of the mower, against which the revolving knives work, set at least 1½ inches above ground. A majority of existing lawn mowers cannot be set this high and should be junked or rebuilt, if we are to have good, thick, vigorous lawns. Set the mower on a hard floor or pavement and measure the height of the cutting edge of the bedplate from the floor. Don't be satisfied with less than 1½ inches.

Red fescue and the bentgrasses can be cut shorter than blue grass, because they have a heavier growth of basal leaves than bluegrass.

"Cutting high" does not mean to let the grass get tall before cutting it. The grass should be cut often enough so that not over 2 inches of growth is cut off at a time. This will mean cutting at least once a week during periods of rapid growth. When grass is cut after being allowed to grow too tall, the lower part will be bleached and unsightly. This sort of grass is slow to recover and green up. Mow as early in the spring and as late in the fall as the grass grows tall enough to need it.

IT WILL help to maintain grass in areas which are shaded enough to make grass growing a problem if these are mowed less frequently than the rest of the lawn. Mowing only a few times a season will permit grass to live on many areas where it would die out if cut with the rest of the lawn.

Grass should be cut often enough so that clippings can drop between the blades of grass and remain on the soil as a mulch. This conserves moisture, keeps the soil cooler, permits re-use of the fertilizing materials in the grass, and generally leads to better lawns.

However, if the lawn has been left until there is a windrow of hay behind the lawn mower, these clippings should be removed. At times it may be necessary or desirable to remove the clippings following very heavy fertilization or in heavy shade. A grass catcher does this with much less work and less injury to the grass than raking.

Watering may be done whenever the lawn needs it, whether the sun is shining or not. Let the sprinkler run in one place from 1 to 3 hours, until the soil is wet 3 to 6 inches deep. Then wait a week or ten days before watering again. "Sprinkling" with hose in hand may cool off the owner but does not do much for the lawn.

Weeds are always a problem to the lawn owner. Yet many roadsides will show that weeds find it nearly impossible to invade good bluegrass.

The weediness of the average lawn is due first to the poor soils on which lawns are attempted and second, and much more important, to the close cutting of the grass. Weed seedlings cannot establish themselves in the shade of thick vigorous grass, and by far the easiest way to prevent weeds is to fertilize well and cut intelligently.

An Extra Bath Will Help End 'Traffic Jams'

Rub-a-dub-dub, three folks to a tub, suggests the plight of many families today where there aren't enough bathrooms to go around.

The traffic jam that is an everyday occurrence in single - bath homes is anything but conducive to happiness in getting dad off to work and the children to school, to say nothing about poor mother.

The solution, of course, is to put in one or more bathrooms to break the bottleneck.

Some day there doubtless will be a bath for every bedroom in the average home. Meantime, addition of a second complete bathroom can do wonders in easing the traffic problem.

There are all sorts of places to install another bath, when you look around a bit.

The end of a long hallway or the partitioned - off corner of a large room are made to order for a second bath, says the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau of Chicago. In fact, just about any waste space that will accommodate the fixtures, with enough room left over to move around, can be converted into a second bath, the Bureau points out.

Bathtubs of modern formed steel have important advantages in installing a second bath.

Procelain enameled steel tubs are lighter than older types and easier to carry and fit into tight spaces. The lighter weight of steel tubs saves money because often the floor underneath it does not need extra bracing.

Plumbing contractors are experts these days in converting waste spaces into bathrooms. They will gladly offer estimates free of charge on the cost of putting in an additional bathroom.

Many plumbing contractors are in a position to assist in financing a bathroom modernization project on easy monthly terms.

They also provide a one - stop modernization service, that is, they will assume the responsibility for the service of other craftsmen involved in the carpenter work, the electrical work, and the decorating.

Steel Output Leveling Off

Half-Point Decline Shown Last Week

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel production, which has been climbing steadily at an average of 2½ per cent of capacity weekly for two months, has leveled off, "Steel" magazine reported today.

A half-point decline to 92.½ per cent of capacity last week reflected mills' resistance to raising operating rates above that level, the weekly metalworking journal commented. The output of 2,619,000 net tons of steel for ingots and castings was 11,000 tons under the previous week.

In the tri-state area, the Pittsburgh district was up two points to 94 per cent of capacity; Wheeling up four points to 95; Cleveland up two to 96½; Youngstown unchanged at 92; and Cincinnati down five to 87½.

The leveling off in operating rates is not the result of any lessening in demand, "Steel" said, explaining:

"Steelmakers continue under heavy pressure to produce and ship all the steel they can make by June 30. . . . users underestimated their needs and have made little headway in building strike hedge inventories."

The United Steelworkers' contracts with the steel industry expire June 30.

An increasing export business in scrap steel helped stop a downward trend in scrap prices. Last week "Steel's" composite on No. 1 heavy melting scrap held unchanged at $41.67 a gross ton.

Thief's Relief

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — If this thief has an occupational disease, it must be a headache. A dozen containers of headache pills were among the loot taken in a shoe shine parlor burglary.

NEW HONORS HAVE COME to the home of J. Nessly Porter, East Liverpool architect. It was selected this month by the magazine Progressive Architecture as "one of seven examples of outstanding residential design." This exterior view shows all three gabled elements of the "tri-nuclear" house plan, the fleat-roofed center element and their disposition on the wooded site. When the structure was conceived, Porter was associated in the Architect field with John Terence Kelly.

Spring Bulbs Give Garden 'Early' Color

Spring-flowering bulbs bring color to your garden at a time when a few other plants are in bloom.

Spring - flowering bulbs include daffodils, tulips, hyacinths, bulb iris, and crocuses.

Some that are smaller and not so well known are scillas, glory-of-the-snow, grape - hyacinths, and snowdrops.

In selecting bulbs, you should: Know types, colors and sizes of bulbs, and the places they grow best. Choose colors that harmonize with the rest of your garden.

Choose either domestic or imported bulbs. They are equally good.

Make sure bulbs are not diseased. Diseased bulbs look moldy, discolored, or soft and rotted.

Buy from a dealer who sells good bulbs. Cheap bulbs usually are of poor quality.

Buy the specific colors or varieties you want. Inexpensive packaged mixtures often contain too many of one color.

Most tulips have one cup-shaped flower to a steam. They grow 1 to 3 feet high and look best in masses or in clusters of 6 to 8.

You can buy tulips by type, variety, or species.

The most common types are Breeder, Darwin, Cottage, Lily flowered, Parrot and Double.

Common types of tulips and some of their characteristics are as follows:

Breeder — Bronzed, almost muddy appearance; colors are not bright and clear.

Cottage — Bloom later than other tulips; petals form a deep cup.

Darwin — Tallest tulips; flower is as wide as it is deep.

Lily flowered — Petals curve outward and form a bell-shaped flower.

Parrot — Twisted, ruffled petals.

Double — Two or more rows of petals.

Within each of these types are many varieties.

Tulips that do not belong to the common types are sold by species names.

The largest dog of the terrier group is the airedale.

Strike Cut Sugar Cane Crop, Helped Molasses

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii's four-month sugar strike in 1958 caused a drop in sugar cane production, but raised molasses production by 2,500 tons over the 1957 figure.

The Hawaiian Sugar Planters Assn. explained that the strike resulted in lowering the purity of cane juices. Because the juices contained less sucrose, more of the non-sucrose content was available for processing into molasses.

MODERN LIVING REQUIRES higher housepower, a fact evident in this ultra-modern kitchen. With major electrical appliances, such as the range, and the new light switches which permit you to regulate the volume of light by dial, more power is needed.

You Need Housepower

Four out of every five home owners live with the tormenting problem of low housepower.

Most of us are familiar with the symptoms of inadequate electrical wiring: fuses that blow out, lights that flicker mysteriously and appliances that don't work as well as the guarantee says they should.

In the last 10 years the consumption of electricity in the home has tripled. The most modest estimates for the next 10 years predict it will double.

—:—

THE REASON is obvious. A few years ago there were 30 to 40 appliances on the market. Today there are nearly a hundred.

Electrical wiring and wiring equipment also have changed. In addition to ordinary wiring, there are new wiring devices: automatic dimmers, weatherproof outlets, remote control panels and time delay switches.

If your house suffers from low housepower, you may wish to contact an electrician or a housepower specialist. Your electrical utility can give you a list of qualified individuals.

The housepower specialist is an electrical contractor who plans your electric system with the same care your architect takes when he designs your home.

Most home owners fear wiring renovation means renewal of every bit of wiring in the home. Actually, your present wires can still service many of your electrical needs.

—:—

A QUICK check of your service entrance will give you an idea of the power in your system. Amperes and voltage are usually labeled on your circuit breaker or fuse box. Obsolete wiring is a 30 ampere service entrance.

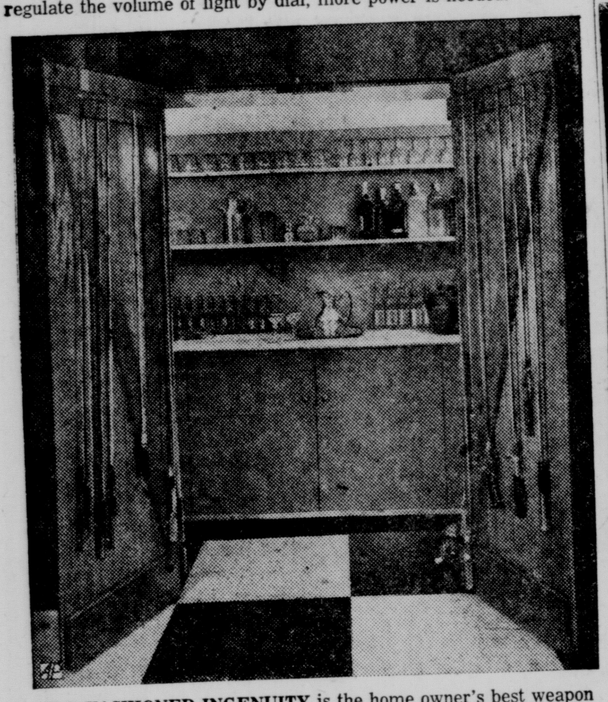
Sixty amperes, common in many new houses, allows lighting, plug-in appliances and a range. But it would have to be enlarged before major appliances could be added.

Only two years ago a 100 ampere system was considered sufficient for the average family's electrical needs, but the electrical picture has expanded so rapidly it is impossible to set any specific standard.

The best way to determine your needs, say housepower specialists, is to decide how you want to live electrically. This means listing the extent of your present lights and appliances and the possible electrical additions you will make in the next few years.

You may be able to keep your electric living needs within the 100 ampere range. But where all major appliances, including air conditioner and water heater, are run by electricity, the 100 ampere system is inadequate.

Quartz is the most common of all solid minerals.



OLD-FASHIONED INGENUITY is the home owner's best weapon in improving or modernizing his home. Here is an excellent example of how one ingenious father put it to work. In building a family recreation room, he used furniture and materials that can take hard wear. The giant checkerboard pattern of the tile flooring was chosen to give the illusion of more generous proportions.

Qualified Experts Urged In Plumbing, Electricity

You wouldn't knowingly polute your drinking water or build in a fire hazard. But a home owner can easily run these risks when he tries to be his own plumber or electrician.

Of course, there are simple repair jobs that most home owners can do satisfactorily.

But it's very easy to cross the line into areas that can be really dangerous for the amateur. To add to the danger, the layman is often unaware of the hazards involved.,

—:—

IT'S EASY to make out a case for using every kind of skilled craftsman on home improvement projects.

But real safety and health dangers are most often raised in plumbing and electricity. Almost every day newspaper stories demonstrate again how easy it is to mishandle electricity.

Plumbing errors are not usually so dramatic, but can be just as dangerous. At best, plumbing mistakes are highly unpleasant for everyone in the family.

There's a dollars-and-cents value to these specialists, too. All plumbing and electrical work must meet national, state and local code requirements.

These codes are highly technical, make heavy reading, both in quantity and quality. And boning up on just one is not enough, since they are cross-referenced on many major points.

State and municipal codes are of course laws. Breaking any kind of law means trouble, and these are no exceptions. The courts can and do fine violators of building codes, or order expensive rebuilding.

NATIONAL codes are sponsored by insurance underwriters. No matter how innocently it is done, violation of these regulations can void insurance policies. If a disaster is traceable to a code violation, all the insurance company need pay is money paid in on the policy.

In addition, practically all codes require certificates of approval by inspectors. So it can be money in the bank to have a professional plumbing or electrical contractor do the job—right—the first time.

Naturally, your local plumber and electrician are the authorities on the right kind of equipment and installation for your home. One of the easiest ways to waste money is to buy unneeded or improper home equipment.

Properly installed, today's plumbing and electrical systems are amazingly trouble-free.

But some servicing is inevitable, sooner or later. Here again, qualified specialists are the efficient, safe and economical choice to do the job.

Circuit-Breaker Taking Over For Old Fuse Boxes

By The Associated Press

Remember the good old days? When the lights went out, you went to the fuse box, gingerly pulled the switch cutting off the electricity, and then tried fuse after fuse on a hit or miss basis until you found the one which had blown out.

And maybe you didn't have any good fuses.

Well, those days are rapidly disappearing. For today, more and more homes are equipped with circuit breakers.

These devices look and work like a kitchen light switch.

Instead of blowing a fuse when a wire is overloaded, the breaker automatically moves to the "off" position. To restore electrical service, all you have to do is flip the switch to "on."

If the fault which caused the original interruption in power is still present, the breaker will continue to trip until the cause is corrected.

There is no danger of getting an electrical shock from a circuit-breaker.

Handles are insulated and grounded. And unlike the old fuse box, you cannot try any of those dangerous tricks like inserting a fuse of a higher rating, or a penny, or a piece of tinfoil.

Breakers are safe, too. For acceptance, Underwriters Laboratories make it mandatory that a circuit - breaker open and close without failure more than 10,000 times.

They are also economical. They compare favorably in cost of installation with fuse systems and there are no maintenance costs, no fuses to buy.

How Can I? ? ?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I brighten pewter?

A. By soaking the pieces for a day or two in one quart of water to which a piece of potash the size of a hickory nut has been added. Take from the water, rub carefully with a cork dripped in oil, then polish with a chamois skin and whiting. When pewter has once been cleaned, it may be kept bright by washing with hot water and soap.

Q. How should feather pillows be aired?

A. Do not sun feather pillows, as the heat brings out the oil of the feathers. Instead, hang them on the line on a windy day so the air can penetrate.

Q. How can I kill the odor of perspiration?

A. The odor of perspiration can be killed by bathing with a solution of bicarbonate of soda in water.

They Should Know

LURAY, Va., (AP) — William Henry Miller says his wife, Carrie, is the best cook ever, and she says he can still do a day's work with the rest of the men. He is 93 and she is 88 and they have been married 70 years.

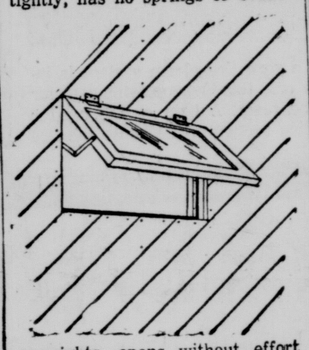
THIS IS CHICAGO HOTELMAN Morris R. DeWoskin and in the background under construction is the 40-story apartment hotel his firm is building. The hotel is designed as an answer to an executive's desire for escape from the suburbs to the city.

An Economical Glass That's Simple To Install

There are probably a dozen or more types of window in general use. And as every home owner knows, some of them are more or less complicated assemblies that work nicely when new but are prone to become a source of annoyance as time passes.

It is also a fact that windows have become an expensive item. And the average person hesitates to use enough of them, particularly when they are building their own small weekend house or constructing an addition to their home.

There is one type of window which is both economical and plain. It admits light, closes tightly, has no springs or counterweights, opens without effort and in every respect is a good, solid, practical window.



This is known as a plain sash and is usually found in basements or in garages or toolhouses. There is no reason why it cannot be used more widely as it comes in all sizes right up to storm-sash size.

The installation of this type of window is quite uncomplicated. The wall studs are cut out and framed in the usual manner, the opening being large enough to take a plain box frame in which the sash sets.

Hinges are set on the upper edge of the opening as shown and two small brackets of the kind used on a storm-sash are set on the sides as illustrated. When the sash is in a closed position, quarter-round molding is nailed into the box frame so as to fit tightly against the sash and present a weather-tight closure.

This type of wall opening also can be set vertically, with the hinges along one side like a half-casement window. The cost should be about one-third of that of any other type of window.

One Of 14 Children Is Only Beneficiary

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — William Walker, one of 14 children of the late John Walker, was named as sole beneficiary in his father's will.

The elder Walker, who left a $100,000 estate when he died at the age of 89, said in his will that William had worked with him for many years and was largely responsible for the size of the estate.

Unhappy Citizen

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Because the city needed the revenue, officials swallowed their pride and honored the check of an irate citizen who wrote: "Pay to the order of the thieves of City Hall, $13.50 for water from a bunch of crooks."

Butcher Builds A House With Help From Library

HAMBURG, N. Y. (AP) — Mr Gurney's dream house will always be known by the three Gurney daughters as "the house Daddy and the public library built."

Completion date for the big ranch house on a wooded lot near this Buffalo suburb still is a year or two away. But when it comes, it will really pack a satisfying wallop, because Joseph Gurney, his wife and the three girls will have done the job themselves.

The public library in Buffalo has been Gurney's big source of building information. He's read about 60 books so far and the end is not in sight. At the moment, he's getting the rough wiring and plumbing under way — assisted by the library, of course.

Would Gurney, a butcher by trade, recommend this ultimate in do-it-yourself projects to others?

"Only if they have a sincere desire," he says. "If someone pushes you into it, you'll lose heart very fast. I really wanted to build a house, and I get great satisfaction from watching it take shape."

The biggest mistake the amateur builder can make, according to Gurney, is to approach the job casually. You've got to examine each step carefully and understand it fully before starting.

"That's why it takes so long," he says. "You have to follow the rules very close."

The Gurneys' big complaint about the "store - bought" house they still occupy is that the rooms are too small. No such complaint will hold water in the new house. The living room will be 19 - by-26 feet and the dining-L a comfortable 11-by-18.

There will be a stone fireplace with a raised hearth. The bedroom wing will have a bath - and-a-half.

Gurney hired a crew for the excavation back in 1956. But from that point on, he has been his own mason, bricklayer, carpenter, electrician and plumber.

The savings? About 50 per cent, he figures.

Occasionally Gurney has a second thought. He looks at daughters Patricia, 15, Carol 12, and Sharon, 9, and says to himself:

"Maybe I should have waited for a son-in-law or two."

JOSEPH GURNEY, HIS WIFE and three daughters get in a weekend's work on a big ranch house they are building in Hamburg, N. Y., just outside Buffalo. Gurney recommends such a project to other do-it-yourself fans only if they are really sincere about it. The women in Gurney's life are (left to right) Sharon, 9; Mrs. Gurney; Carol, 12, and Patricia, 15.

People In Russia (O.) Have No 'Red' Blood

RUSSIA, Ohio (AP)—Not one of the 1,000-or-so inhabitants of this 106-year-old community can claim Russian blood. French immigrants settled the area, and a veteran of Napoleon's army named it Russia because of a resemblance to that country.

Even the village's name is spoken with a French accent. Residents pronounce it "Rooshee."

Driving Dog Blamed

IRON RIVER, Mich. — A driverless automobile, whith its motor running, suddenly jumped forward and smashed into another car. Investigation revealed that the car's only occupant, a small dog, had jumped up and hit the drive button on the automatic transmission.

Pilfering Fireman

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A fireman of five years seniority was charged here after he admitted turning in two false alarms within 17 minutes. He was accused of rifling fellow workers' lockers while they were out looking for non-existent blazes.

ONE OF THE WATCHDOGS of a zone fire alarm system is installed in an attic. If fire breaks out, this thermostatic detector sets off an alarm in the master bedroom. A light on the master panel also lights up, indicating which section of the house the fire is in.

Senator's Name There But He Didn't Sign

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—State Sen. Elmer Kinnaman took a dim view of some lobbying during the Wyoming Legislature.

He received a telegram, signed by about 35 Rawlins residents, urging him to support a bill being considered.

Among the signatures was his own name. He hadn't signed the petition.

No Tax Increase

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — Although most taxes go up and stay up, old newspapers here show there are exceptions. The dog tax in 1899 was $1.50 plus 2 cents for the manufacture of a tag. Today it is $1.

Keep The Change

HOPE, Ark. (AP) — "Mister, I sure would like to contribute to the offering but all I have is this $18 check," said a stranger plaintively to a Hope Church usher. The usher obligingly accepted the check and handed the stranger $15 in change from the collection plate. The check bounced.

HAMBURG, N. Y. (AP) — Mr Gurney's dream house will always be known by the three Gurney daughters as "the house Daddy and the public library built."

Completion date for the big ranch house on a wooded lot near this Buffalo suburb still is a year or two away. But when it comes, it will really pack a satisfying wallop, because Joseph Gurney, his wife and the three girls will have done the job themselves.

The public library in Buffalo has been Gurney's big source of building information. He's read about 60 books so far and the end is not in sight. At the moment, he's getting the rough wiring and plumbing under way — assisted by the library, of course.

Would Gurney, a butcher by trade, recommend this ultimate in do-it-yourself projects to others?

"Only if they have a sincere desire," he says. "If someone pushes you into it, you'll lose heart very fast. I really wanted to build a house, and I get great satisfaction from watching it take shape."

The biggest mistake the amateur builder can make, according to Gurney, is to approach the job casually. You've got to examine each step carefully and understand it fully before starting.

"That's why it takes so long," he says. "You have to follow the rules very close."

The Gurneys' big complaint about the "store - bought" house they still occupy is that the rooms are too small. No such complaint will hold water in the new house. The living room will be 19 - by-26 feet and the dining-L a comfortable 11-by-18.

There will be a stone fireplace with a raised hearth. The bedroom wing will have a bath - and-a-half.

Gurney hired a crew for the excavation back in 1956. But from that point on, he has been his own mason, bricklayer, carpenter, electrician and plumber.

The savings? About 50 per cent, he figures.

Occasionally Gurney has a second thought. He looks at daughters Patricia, 15, Carol 12, and Sharon, 9, and says to himself:

"Maybe I should have waited for a son-in-law or two."

JOSEPH GURNEY, HIS WIFE and three daughters get in a weekend's work on a big ranch house they are building in Hamburg, N. Y., just outside Buffalo. Gurney recommends such a project to other do-it-yourself fans only if they are really sincere about it. The women in Gurney's life are (left to right) Sharon, 9; Mrs. Gurney; Carol, 12, and Patricia, 15.

People In Russia (O.) Have No 'Red' Blood

RUSSIA, Ohio (AP)—Not one of the 1,000-or-so inhabitants of this 106-year-old community can claim Russian blood. French immigrants settled the area, and a veteran of Napoleon's army named it Russia because of a resemblance to that country.

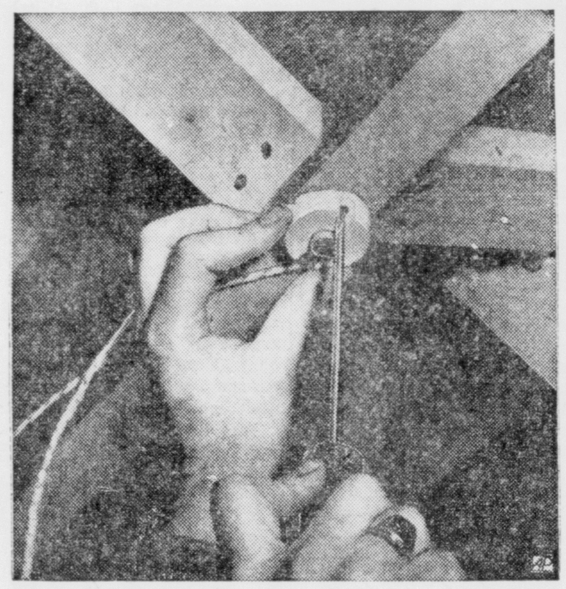
Even the village's name is spoken with a French accent. Residents pronounce it "Rooshee."

Driving Dog Blamed

IRON RIVER, Mich. — A driverless automobile, whith its motor running, suddenly jumped forward and smashed into another car. Investigation revealed that the car's only occupant, a small dog, had jumped up and hit the drive button on the automatic transmission.

Pilfering Fireman

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A fireman of five years seniority was charged here after he admitted turning in two false alarms within 17 minutes. He was accused of rifling fellow workers' lockers while they were out looking for non-existent blazes.



ONE OF THE WATCHDOGS of a zone fire alarm system is installed in an attic. If fire breaks out, this thermostatic detector sets off an alarm in the master bedroom. A light on the master panel also lights up, indicating which section of the house the fire is in.

Senator's Name There But He Didn't Sign

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—State Sen. Elmer Kinnaman took a dim view of some lobbying during the Wyoming Legislature.

He received a telegram, signed by about 35 Rawlins residents, urging him to support a bill being considered.

Among the signatures was his own name. He hadn't signed the petition.

No Tax Increase

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — Although most taxes go up and stay up, old newspapers here show there are exceptions. The dog tax in 1899 was $1.50 plus 2 cents for the manufacture of a tag. Today it is $1.

Keep The Change

HOPE, Ark. (AP) — "Mister, I sure would like to contribute to the offering but all I have is this $18 check," said a stranger plaintively to a Hope Church usher. The usher obligingly accepted the check and handed the stranger $15 in change from the collection plate. The check bounced.

Here's Check List On HeatingUnits

By The Associated Press

The heating system, the hearth of the modern home, plays a great part in a family's health and comfort.

For this reason, it is wise to know what a properly designed heating system should provide and to make sure the system in your home measures up.

Here is a check list, provided by the Oil Heat Institute of America:

Ample heat: This seems almost too obvious to mention, but surveys have shown that many American homes, including some built in recent years, have heating plants that lack the capacity to keep the family warm during long cold spells.

THE AMOUNT of heat required to heat a home properly is calculated in terms of what is known as "heat loss."

Heat loss is measured in British Thermal Units (B.T.U.'s). Heating experts use well defined formulas to calculate heat loss, taking into consideration such factors as cubic footage of the house, areas of glass in windows and doors, insulation and exposure.

Furnaces and boilers are manufactured in various B.T.U. capacities.

The size of furnace or boiler should be of sufficient capacity to offset the calculated heat loss and should be capable of maintaining an interior temperature of at least 70 degrees during the coldest weather likely to be encountered in the area.

Varous fuels also have known B.T.U. contents. Properly installed oil or gas burners each deliver about 80 per cent of the heat content of the fuel.

—:—

UNIFORM HEAT: The Heating system should be properly balanced to deliver uniform warmth to all parts of the house.

Properly placed thermostatic control should be provided to insure house - wide uniformity and to keep interior temperature fluctuations within 1 or 2 degrees from floor to ceiling.

In warm air systems, experts agree, the warm air outlets should be placed under windows to counteract instantly the effect of external cold, before it can get inside and create drafts. Registers returning cooled air to the system should be mounted in inside walls.

Today's hot water and steam systems are generally of the baseboard radiation type, with baseboard units running all around the room, or the radiant type, with heated water circulating through pipes in floor or ceiling. Convectors and radiators can also be used in place of baseboard radiation.

Quiet operation: A properly installed heating system is free of excessive noise.

ECONOMY: This means low fuel bills month after month. It is well to have a good preventive maintenance program to avoid heavy repair bills. Check the availability of an annual service agreement from your fuel supplier. Such agreements are usually good buys.

Cleanliness: Regardless of the fuel you burn, your heating system should be spotlessly clean and free of odors. If it isn't something is out of adjustment and should be corrected.

Frequently, a householder will blame dirt or dust on his heating system when the actual culpit is some other source. Because of the action of heating convection, dirt which gets into the air currents from these other sources often settles above radiators or heating registers, leading to the erroneous impression that the heating system is dirty.

EASY DOES IT is the rule for caring for resilient flooring. If something is spilled, sponge it up quickly. Lightly over with a damp mop or cloth will restore the luster.

Marriage, Air Force Entry Not Far Apart

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Marriage and entry into the Air Force were only minutes apart for Erich Halzer, 21, of Milwaukee.

A recruiting officer stood by as Halzer and Patricia Kucharek were wed by a justice of the peace at the Air Force recruiting station. Then Halzer, a former serviceman, was sworn in as an airman first class.

Home Fences Return To Favor Once More

Oddly enough, the tremendous growth in outdoor living during the last 10 years has brought about the revival of the once widespread custom of fencing in the home grounds.

For a time fences were thought to be tainted with unfriendliness.

Home owners have found a happy solution in steel fencing — either chain link or woven picket.

Steel fencing gives control of the outdoor area, but does not shut out the view. The friendly way to obtain the amount of visual control required is with shrubs along the fence.

Steel fencing is non-climable, and your pets can't get out and neighborhood pets can't get in. Garden - destroying animals are shut out also.

Seven states have 100 or more counties. They are Texas, Georgia, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, Illinois and North Carolina.

Need Nails Or Similar Items? Call On Proper Local Dealers

Remember the old saying, "For want of a nail the shoe was lost," and so on? Well, that doesn't have to be the case with your pet home improvement or do - it - yourself project.

Your local lumberyard or building supply house has or can quickly get every kind of material you are likely to want, from horseshoe nails to I-beams to completely fabricated steel garages and tool houses.

The building materials operator has two other equally important stocks in trade — a vast knowledge of his merchandise and a very sympathetic ear. Formal descriptions and specifications of even the simplest items often sound like Greek to the layman.

But the lumberyard proprietor is a good translator. Give him a brief description of the job in hand and he'll come up with the right material in jig time. And he can supply all needed advice on how to handle it.

These local firms are the "department stores" of America's great materials like steel. If you happen to need a steel angle to hold some shelving, they just happen to have it in stock. And they'll generally be glad to drill holes for you too.

The list of products they carry is considerably longer than a grown man's arm.

Typical of their stock might be pipe, galvanized or stainless steel gutters and downspouts, wire and cable, cement, light structurals, steel bars in various shapes, and fasteners (nuts, bolts, rivets, nails screws) of all types.

There is really no limit to the steel mill products they may carry or can get on special order. Incidentally, the speed with which they fill special orders is a major source of pride to yard owners.

Virtually all of them will deliver right to your own front door, and many are equipped to perform basic cutting and shaping.

But don't be surprised if you can skip the fabricating, as the range of shapes and sizes they carry for each product is astounding.

Lumberyards are prime sources for unusual or special items. Special fixtures for garage or barn doors, for example, or wire mesh for concrete work might be typical items.

They are the natural places to go for a length of steel culvert to bridge the gutter between driveway and street.

In larger industrial communities, there is usually a somewhat more specialized kind of supplier — the steel service center or warehouse.

Their business is supplying any kind of steel, in any quantity from a pound to a carload. And they are often equipped to do large-scale, complex cutting and forming.

The advanced do - it - yourselfer also knows these service centers as a source for many kinds of auxiliary supplies, such as industrial - quality tools and grinding wheels, heavy - duty cleaning compounds and similar items.

Insect spraying is the most common use of arsenate of lead.

Are You A Lover Of Strawberries?

One of the many advantages of growing strawberries in the home garden is that they may be eaten at the peak of their quality.

Berries should be picked when they are fully colored. Those with white areas are not ripe. Pick the berries with the stems attached. To do this, snap the stem over your finger. Avoid mashing the berries. Keep harvested berries out of the sun and place them under refrigeration as soon as possible.

When possible, avoid picking the fruit when it is wet. Harvest as often as necessary, normally every other day. The harvest season can be extended by the planting of varieties that mature in sequence.

Strawberries may be fruited more than one year. Yields and size of berries usually are progressively less the second and third years. It is unwise to attempt to obtain more than three crops from a single planting. Only good plantings should be maintained and renewed. Weak, weedy or diseased plantings should be destroyed right after harvest.

THE RENEWAL of a planting should be done shortly after harvest. Plow or spade out the middle and one side of the matted row. Leave a strip of plants about six inches wide. Fertilize this row with nitrogen. The renewed planting is then cared for in the same manner as a first year planting.

Strawberry blossoms, like these, are very susceptible to frost injury. They can be protected from light frosts by mulch. If frost is predicted while the berries are in bloom, fork the mulch back over the plants. It should be removed as soon as the danger of frost is over.

Unless some renewal practice is followed, the rows are apt to grow together and a dense mat of plants of little value will form. Many growers prefer to establish a new planting each spring rather than to follow any renewal practices.

Chemical weed control does not eliminate the weed problem. If properly used, it can make weed control easier without reducing either growth or yield. It is most effective during the growing season while the fruiting row is being formed. Although its use in large plantings should be considered, it is doubtful whether its use in small plantings is justified.

The recommended herbicide for use in strawberries is SES (Sesone). Good week control will result in most plantings, if SES is applied at the rate of one ounce in one or two gallons of water per 1,000 square feet. It should be applied uniformly to the entire planting, to row and aisle area alike. It should only be applied following a careful hoeing that destroys all weed growth, when the soil is moist enough for weed seed germination.

AFTER THE herbicide is applied, the soil should not be disturbed until soil or weed conditions demand it. Repeat applications can be made, but four weeks should elapse between treatments, and hoeing should precede each treatment.

No more than four treatments should be made per season. The first application should not be made until the plants are well established four to six weeks after planting. This herbicide kills germinating seeds and is not effective against established weeds.

At the rate suggested, SES is safe in strawberry plantings; however, careless use of this herbicide may result in injury to the strawberry and to other plants. It is suggested that growers experiment with its use in a small area before treating the entire planting.

Strawberries are relatively free from disease and insect problems. Normally, they will produce satisfactory crops in the home garden without spraying. Some difficulties can be avoided by proper selection of site and planting stock and by following good cultural practices.

Tips Are Offered On Tree Thinning

By J. CLYDE ENGLISH
Ohio Tree Farm Committee

Trees are like other crops in more ways than one, and young stands of trees probably are more like corn than any other crop.

More corn is planted than is expected to grow to maturity. And this is usually the case with trees, whether they are planted by man or nature.

Thinning of timber stands is based on the theory that a given acre of land will grow a certain amount of wood each year, regardless of the number of trees, if there is adequate stocking. If that growth is concentrated on fewer trees, they will grow bigger faster.

Of course, nature will thin trees, but when that happens, you have no control over the quality of trees that survive. Also, you lose the growth that goes on the trees that die in the struggle for survival.

Frequently, natural stands need thinning before the trees get big enough to sell. Whether to do this or not is a decision you will have to make, based on whether the increased growth on the trees to be left will pay you for the time and work it takes to do the job.

Most areas, especially if they are well-stocked, will need thinning after the trees reach pulpwood size and before they grow large enough for other products, such as sawtimber and veneer bolts.

There are several rules of thumb for thinnings, but foresters debate the value of sticking with any set rule all the time. Frequently, the spacing of the trees to be left boils down to common sense, based on one or two general principles.

One important rule is — always mark the trees to be cut. And see to it that all marked trees are removed and that the unmarked trees are not harvested.

Early thinnings serve the important function of stand improvement. In going through to mark the trees to be cut, be sure you get all the crooked, diseased and otherwise poor quality trees on the first cut. They never really will be valuable, anyway, and it is better to let the future growth be put on your good trees.

Ordinarily, thinnings can be made every 5 to 10 years, depending upon the growth rate on a particular site and the volume taken out on each thinning. By the time a few thinnings have been made, you should have a topnotch stand of high quality sawlogs and poles, tall and straight, that will go a long way toward paying for a child's education, or to supplement your own income.

Why Not Buy Items For The Home?

There isn't any part of the home, including outdoors, that can't be improved by something you just go out and buy and simply put in place or install with hand tools.

It will give the whole family a lift—something like what buying a gay new hat does for a woman's morale. If it's something that's just arrived in the stores, so much the better. It's a thrill to be first in your circle of friends to discover an exciting new item for the home.

Starting at the front door, how would one of those smart new satin-black mail boxes look? Stepping in the door, how are the closet facilities for guest and family coats?

One easy improvement in an existing closet is to put in an adjustable steel shelf with built in rod for hangers to replace the present sagging pole. The repainted shelf requires no brackets, a few nails in the nailing strips and it's in.

If closets are lacking near entrance doors, steel wardrobes are ready to use as soon as you put them in place.

ROOM dividers can work magic, particularly between living and dining areas or as a visual separation at the entrance.

Wrought iron railings (almost always steel, today) have now moved indoors to form graceful dividers that take up practically no space. A screwdriver installs them.

A wheeled cart makes the television set truly portable. One of the newest models permits tilting the set as much as 24 degrees to provide a more comfortable viewing angle.

Moving to the kitchen, a portable dishwasher can give mother the privileges of never having to wash dishes. It requires only plugging in and snapping the hose to a sink faucet to start it operating.

In the bedrooms, new innersprings for all the family are investments that pay a dividend every day of the year. A folding cot for overnight guests is another appreciated convenience.

A thermostatically - controlled, fan-forced heater for the bathroom gives comfort and economy on days that are not chilly enough to require operation of the main heating plant. Some units are double purpose — the fan serves as a summertime cooler.

NO MATTER how capacious the medicine chest there always seems to be an overflow.

An easy solution is a small steel sliding-door cabinet. It comes in baked enamel finish, ready to hang from its keyhold slots on any wall space.

Moving to the utility area, a steel tool cabinet that hangs on the wall like a picture stores 75 tools. A lock keeps sharp and heavy tools away from children.

Ten feet of shelf storage can be added in minutes with a set of five adjustable steel shelves that fit on a door or wall.

Outdoors, a reel—portable or attached to the wall—will make the hose easier to use and protect it from damage. A steel trellis for vines or roses will beautify a bare wall. An incinerator for trash is another wise investment in safety and convenience.

You probably have more ambitious home improvement projects in mind, but the whole family—particularly the feminine members—will enjoy something new right now. If it's a conversation piece, so much the better.

WORK CLOTHES, A PROJECT and the proper tools—this is a sure-fire prescription for happiness for most men. If you are wondering about a gift for your man, try a power tool.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Window Reflection Shocks Fat Woman

"When I walk by a shop window where I see my reflection I just can't believe that fat woman could be me!"

Ida Jean Kain

The most revealing mirror is the sudden glimpse we get when caught off guard. We look at ourselves in mirrors every now and again but do we really see ourselves? It's doubtful. We manage somehow to alter the concept to make it more pleasing. This is a kind of self-deception to save us from having to face the often discouraging truth.

The woman who was so jolted by seeing her reflection in the shop window reported that she had gained 60 pounds in three years. She wrote: "I have not had time to become accustomed to this extra weight and its misery.

BUT HERE I AM, burdened with fat, miserable about it, trying to diet and failing to keep it—fervently wishing for a nice figure but filled with doubts because I'm in my 50's.

"A triumphant letter, reported in your column, somehow hit me. I'm determined to get rid of this fat! Send me your Hunger Control Diet. Thank you so much for the encouragement."

That's the spirit! It's spring—and this is the perfect time to take a new lease on all that makes life young. Have done with doubts on the age score. The 50's are now considered high noon of life.

To pull clear out of the fattening rut, get a fresh approach. Instead of struggling to stay on a diet, visualize what you want. Create in your mind's eye a picture of yourself, the way you yearn to look, and feel. But mark this: creative imagination is entirely different from wishful thinking or effortless day dreaming. Purposeful visualizing requires effort and sustained attention.

Don't let the word "effort" throw you. When you wake up to what you really want, you become so interested and enthusiastic that from then on it takes no effort to keep your attention on your goal.

The resolute dieter who took off 118 pounds and changed from dress size 52 to 14½, put into practice this principle of sustained attention. This enabled her to stay on a 1,000 calorie daily diet.

She wrote: "I painted a picture in my mind's eye of the way I wanted to be. When temptation came my way, I flashed that picture on my mental screen and this dispelled the desire to indulge. Tell your readers it really works.

OF COURSE IT works! Create a mental picture of yourself at beautiful normal weight. Never lose sight of it! Set a near goal. Visualize yourself weighing-in on June 21, 20 pounds lighter and wearing a dress a whole size smaller.

Give that picture to your mind as you go to sleep tonight. In the morning, wake up and stretch. From this third day of spring on, aim toward your goal. East three balanced meals a day and keep the calories at 1,000 daily. You'll be the winner!

For the "Hunger Control Diet," send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of this newspaper. Post card requests cannot be answered.

Unlucky Thief

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Two highway patrol officers took emergency equipment to the Oklahoma Panhandle where a blizzard was in progress. While there they made several rescues of motorists. One car they pulled from a ditch had been stolen. They loaded the driver in their auto and took him to jail.

Finer Arts Now

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — An 18-year-old freshman at Wittenberg College here is a retired antique dealer. David P. Graber of Plain City, Ohio, conducted an antiques business from the time he was 12 until he entered college to study fine arts.

If you want an absolutely wonderful rich pastry for turnovers, cream a three-ounce package of creamed cheese with a quarter pound of butter, then mix in a cup of unsifted flour and a dash of salt. Chill before rolling out on a prepared pastry cloth. New cooks may find it easiest to roll out this delicate pastry thick; experienced cooks will be able to roll it out thin.

Bringing Up A Family

Child Regards Illness As Punishment

The little child regards illness as punishment. He cannot distinguish between sickness and the pain inflicted to cure the sickness, according to research findings published recently. "Play Interviews for Four-Year-Old Hospitalized Children," a monograph by Florence H. Erikson (Child Development Publications 1958), reports a study of small children's reactions to intrusive procedures: (a) oral procedures—giving of pills and liquid medicines and examinations using tongue blades; (b) anal procedure—rectal temperature and enemas; (c) cutaneous procedure—injections, blood test and blood transfusion.

By Garry Meyers

Twenty children who had been hospitalized from two to 21 days were observed individually at play during hospitalization or soon thereafter and a control group of ten nursery school children who never had been hospitalized.

—:—

EACH CHILD was presented with play materials—clinical equipment and toys—including medicine cups, dropper bottle, enema set, rectal tube, hypodermic syringe, tongue blade, thermometer, nursing bottle, spoon and doll figures of doctor, nurse, mother, father, boy, girl.

The observer recorded what the child did and said without making an evaluation.

All 30 children accepted and understood the oral procedure better than the anal or cutaneous ones, with strongest reaction to cutaneous procedure. Of the 20 hospitalized children, 19 used the hypodermic syringe on the dolls, nine out of ten of the nursery school children did.

By usage and words the children interpreted this syringe as an instrument of punishment, describing it as a "shot, pincher, pin, hurt thing, needle, sticker."

TEN OF THE hospitalized children were hostile in play toward the nurse doll. Their hostility—exemplified by biting, throwing, hitting—was three times as great as for the nursery school children.

Nineteen of the 20 hospitalized children were able to dramatize at play or tell of their feelings about the intrusive procedures to which they had been subjected.

The author advises that little children should be helped to relate or express their feelings about obtrusive procedures as soon as possible after their occurrence, preferably with the aid of dolls.

My bulletin "Fears in Children" may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Why Not Buy Items For The Home?

There isn't any part of the home, including outdoors, that can't be improved by something you just go out and buy and simply put in place or install with hand tools.

It will give the whole family a lift—something like what buying a gay new hat does for a woman's morale. If it's something that's just arrived in the stores, so much the better. It's a thrill to be first in your circle of friends to discover an exciting new item for the home.

Starting at the front door, how would one of those smart new satin-black mail boxes look? Stepping in the door, how are the closet facilities for guest and family coats?

One easy improvement in an existing closet is to put in an adjustable steel shelf with built in rod for hangers to replace the present sagging pole. The repainted shelf requires no brackets, a few nails in the nailing strips and it's in.

If closets are lacking near entrance doors, steel wardrobes are ready to use as soon as you put them in place.

ROOM dividers can work magic, particularly between living and dining areas or as a visual separation at the entrance.

Wrought iron railings (almost always steel, today) have now moved indoors to form graceful dividers that take up practically no space. A screwdriver installs them.

A wheeled cart makes the television set truly portable. One of the newest models permits tilting the set as much as 24 degrees to provide a more comfortable viewing angle.

Moving to the kitchen, a portable dishwasher can give mother the privileges of never having to wash dishes. It requires only plugging in and snapping the hose to a sink faucet to start it operating.

In the bedrooms, new innersprings for all the family are investments that pay a dividend every day of the year. A folding cot for overnight guests is another appreciated convenience.

A thermostatically - controlled, fan-forced heater for the bathroom gives comfort and economy on days that are not chilly enough to require operation of the main heating plant. Some units are double purpose — the fan serves as a summertime cooler.

—:—

NO MATTER how capacious the medicine chest there always seems to be an overflow.

An easy solution is a small steel sliding-door cabinet. It comes in baked enamel finish, ready to hang from its keyhold slots on any wall space.

Moving to the utility area, a steel tool cabinet that hangs on the wall like a picture stores 75 tools. A lock keeps sharp and heavy tools away from children.

Ten feet of shelf storage can be added in minutes with a set of five adjustable steel shelves that fit on a door or wall.

Outdoors, a reel—portable or attached to the wall—will make the hose easier to use and protect it from damage. A steel trellis for vines or roses will beautify a bare wall. An incinerator for trash is another wise investment in safety and convenience.

You probably have more ambitious home improvement projects in mind, but the whole family—particularly the feminine members—will enjoy something new right now. If it's a conversation piece, so much the better.

WORK CLOTHES, A PROJECT and the proper tools—this is a sure-fire prescription for happiness for most men. If you are wondering about a gift for your man, try a power tool.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Window Reflection Shocks Fat Woman

"When I walk by a shop window where I see my reflection I just can't believe that fat woman could be me!"

The most revealing mirror is the sudden glimpse we get when caught off guard. We look at ourselves in mirrors every now and again but do we really see ourselves? It's doubtful. We manage somehow to alter the concept to make it more pleasing. This is a kind of self-deception to save us from having to face the often discouraging truth.

Ida Jean Kain

The woman who was so jolted by seeing her reflection in the shop window reported that she had gained 60 pounds in three years. She wrote: "I have not had time to become accustomed to this extra weight and its misery.

—:—

BUT HERE I AM, burdened with fat, miserable about it, trying to diet and failing to keep it—fervently wishing for a nice figure but filled with doubts because I'm in my 50's.

"A triumphant letter, reported in your column, somehow hit me. I'm determined to get rid of this fat! Send me your Hunger Control Diet. Thank you so much for the encouragement."

That's the spirit! It's spring—and this is the perfect time to take a new lease on all that makes life young. Have done with doubts on the age score. The 50's are now considered high noon of life.

To pull clear out of the fattening rut, get a fresh approach. Instead of struggling to stay on a diet, visualize what you want. Create in your mind's eye a picture of yourself, the way you yearn to look, and feel. But mark this: creative imagination is entirely different from wishful thinking or effortless day dreaming. Purposeful visualizing requires effort and sustained attention.

Don't let the word "effort" throw you. When you wake up to what you really want, you become so interested and enthusiastic that from then on it takes no effort to keep your attention on your goal.

The resolute dieter who took off 118 pounds and changed from dress size 52 to 14½, put into practice this principle of sustained attention. This enabled her to stay on a 1,000 calorie daily diet.

She wrote: "I painted a picture in my mind's eye of the way I wanted to be. When temptation came my way, I flashed that picture on my mental screen and this dispelled the desire to indulge. Tell your readers it really works.

OF COURSE IT works! Create a mental picture of yourself at beautiful normal weight. Never lose sight of it! Set a near goal. Visualize yourself weighing-in on June 21, 20 pounds lighter and wearing a dress a whole size smaller.

Give that picture to your mind as you go to sleep tonight. In the morning, wake up and stretch. From this third day of spring on, aim toward your goal. East three balanced meals a day and keep the calories at 1,000 daily. You'll be the winner!

For the "Hunger Control Diet," send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of this newspaper. Post card requests cannot be answered.

Unlucky Thief

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Two highway patrol officers took emergency equipment to the Oklahoma Panhandle where a blizzard was in progress. While there they made several rescues of motorists. One car they pulled from a ditch had been stolen. They loaded the driver in their auto and took him to jail.

Finer Arts Now

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — An 18-year-old freshman at Wittenberg College here is a retired antique dealer. David P. Graber of Plain City, Ohio, conducted an antiques business from the time he was 12 until he entered college to study fine arts.

If you want an absolutely wonderful rich pastry for turnovers, cream a three-ounce package of creamed cheese with a quarter pound of butter, then mix in a cup of unsifted flour and a dash of salt. Chill before rolling out on a prepared pastry cloth. New cooks may find it easiest to roll out this delicate pastry thick; experienced cooks will be able to roll it out thin.

Bringing Up A Family

Child Regards Illness As Punishment

The little child regards illness as punishment. He cannot distinguish between sickness and the pain inflicted to cure the sickness, according to research findings published recently. "Play Interviews for Four-Year-Old Hospitalized Children," a monograph by Florence H. Erikson (Child Development Publications 1958), reports a study of small children's reactions to intrusive procedures: (a) oral procedures—giving of pills and liquid medicines and examinations using tongue blades; (b) anal procedure—rectal temperature and enemas; (c) cutaneous procedure—injections, blood test and blood transfusion.

By Garry Meyers

Twenty children who had been hospitalized from two to 21 days were observed individually at play during hospitalization or soon thereafter and a control group of ten nursery school children who never had been hospitalized.

—:—

EACH CHILD was presented with play materials—clinical equipment and toys—including medicine cups, dropper bottle, enema set, rectal tube, hypodermic syringe, tongue blade, thermometer, nursing bottle, spoon and doll figures of doctor, nurse, mother, father, boy, girl.

The observer recorded what the child did and said without making an evaluation.

All 30 children accepted and understood the oral procedure better than the anal or cutaneous ones, with strongest reaction to cutaneous procedure. Of the 20 hospitalized children, 19 used the hypodermic syringe on the dolls, nine out of ten of the nursery school children did.

By usage and words the children interpreted this syringe as an instrument of punishment, describing it as a "shot, pincher, pin, hurt thing, needle, sticker."

—:—

TEN OF THE hospitalized children were hostile in play toward the nurse doll. Their hostility—exemplified by biting, throwing, hitting—was three times as great as for the nursery school children.

Nineteen of the 20 hospitalized children were able to dramatize at play or tell of their feelings about the intrusive procedures to which they had been subjected.

The author advises that little children should be helped to relate or express their feelings about obtrusive procedures as soon as possible after their occurrence, preferably with the aid of dolls.

Tips Offered On Home Gardening

(The following is part of an article prepared by E. C. Wittmeyer and E. L. Drollinger, specialists in vegetable crops with the Agricultural Extension Service at Ohio State University.)

Home gardening is truly a satisfying experience. On many farms, the home vegetable garden produces a higher return per acre than any other activity.

The financial value will depend upon the size of area available, the care given to it and the amount of planning to produce a continuous supply of vegetables during the growing season. Also, home preservation by freezing, canning or storing will help to increase the value of the garden to the family. Many families report that their garden is worth $100 or more per year.

The garden is the one place on the farm where the entire family can work together — in the planning, planting, cultivating and harvesting. It is impossible to measure this factor in dollar value.

TOWN AND city gardens also furnish a useful recreation and an excellent experience for young and old alike. Thousands of young people in Ohio and other states have found a great satisfaction from carrying a garden project in the local 4-H Club.

In addition, most home gardeners agree that, "home-grown" vegetables taste better. However, successful gardens do not just happen; they are the result of proper planting, good management and careful workmanship.

The first essential of a good garden is a good soil, loamy in texture, well drained and free from shade. Sandy loam soils are considered ideal because they drain well and are easy to work.

Very coarse sands are usually drouthy and it is difficult to maintain a high state of fertility.

Very heavy soils are difficult to work and remain wet until late in the spring. Many town and city gardens do not have the ideal soil. However, it is possible to grow a good garden on practically any soil type, providing it is well-drained and properly managed.

EVERY garden should be "planted" on paper. The plan will insure the right amount of every desired vegetable. It also will save on the seed order. If space is limited, the most desired crops can be planned for, or if space is unlimited, the size of the garden determined. With the garden on paper, the variety wanted and the quantity of seed required can be listed. In that way, seed orders will be easy to make.

The garden plan will serve as a guide during the planting season. Early maturing crops should be planted adjacent to each other, so that a worthwhile area will become available for succession crops to follow. Row spacings and distances in the row should be included. Then, there will be no mistakes at planting time.

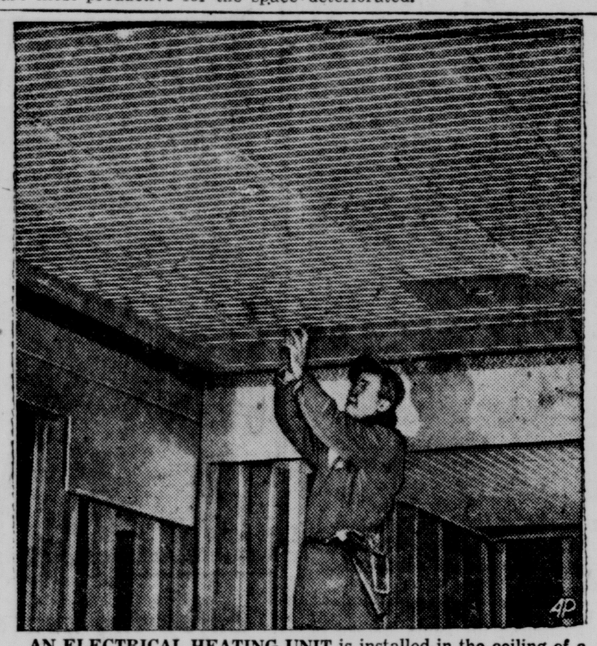
The crops to be grown should depend entirely upon the needs and tastes of the family. Vegetables the family will eat should be grown.

If space is limited, crops which are most productive for the space available will be first choice. Sweet corn and the vine crops, for example, will require large amounts of space and to plant them in a very small garden would not be practical. They may be included, however, if the family demands them.

Perennial crops like asparagus and rhubarb should be planted along one side of the garden where they will not interfere with cultivation later on. These crops will remain in the garden for 4 or 5 to as long as 20 years.

Tall-growing crops should be planted at one side of the garden where they will not shade smaller crops. Grouping together crops that mature early will also help in planning for later crops where more area may be needed. Allow ample space between rows for convenient cultivation.

Special plantings should be made to provide the necessary raw produce for home canning or freezing. To depend upon surpluses for preservation is unwise, since the amounts available may be so small they will hardly be worthwhile. By the time the vegetables become "surplus" their quality usually has deteriorated.



AN ELECTRICAL HEATING UNIT is installed in the ceiling of a new house. In ceiling units, electrical cable is used. Baseboard and wall panel, more readily adaptable to older homes, also are available.

Did You Sell Your Home?

By ANDREW C. LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Did you sell your home in 1958?

Uncle Sam wants to know about it — by April 15 at latest. That is, unless you sold the house at a loss, in which case you can forget about it. Such a loss is not recognized by the tax law and, therefore, cannot be deducted.

But if you sold the house at a gain, a much more likely circumstance these days, you may have some income tax figuring to do.

If you bought another house at a higher price than the selling price of the old one (or equal to it), you need pay no capital gains tax on the transactions.

To be in this no - tax category, you must purchase the new residence and occupy it within one year before or after the sale of the old one. You get 18 months to occupy the new house if construction of it was started within the one - year period.

If you bought another home at a lower price than the selling price of the old one, you must pay a tax.

This tax is computed by deducting the cost of the new house from the adjusted sales price of the old one. The balance is the taxable amount. The adjusted sales price, by the way, is the contract price minus the selling expenses, minus whatever you spent on permanent improvements and minus any repairs made to facilitate the deal. Such repairs (painting is included) must have been made within 90 days prior to the date of the sale and paid for within 30 days after the sale.

Since it is the type of buy-and-sell transaction discussed in the foregoing paragraph which causes the most trouble at income tax time, let's look at an example of how it works.

John Smith sells a house for $16,000 for which he paid $12,000. The selling expenses come to $800. He spent $600 on permanent improvements and $400 to put the house in shape to attract a buyer. Deduct $1,800 from $16,000 and you have the adjusted sales price of $14,200.

If he did not buy another house within one year, John Smith would have to pay a tax on his gain of $2,200. But he did buy another house — for $13,500.

Therefore, he pays a tax on only $700 — the difference between the adjusted sales price and the cost of the new house.

There is one important exception to the above. If the difference between the adjusted sales price and the cost of the new house is more than the profit made on the old house, then the tax is paid on the profit alone.

This would have happened, for instance, if John Smith paid less than $12,000 for his second house. The taxable amount then would be $2,200, the profit made on the sale.

Soil Demands Care To Hold Productivity

Rarely do soils exactly suit the requirements of garden crops. When desirable soils are available, they must be maintained in good condition by careful management.

The most important factor in maintaining soil productivity is the incorporation of large amounts of organic matter.

Regular and heavy applications of barnyard manure, rotted leaves, peat moss, weathered sawdust, or compost should be made. Mulching materials, such as straw clover and alfalfa chaff also add to the organic matter supply.

Organic matter will help to increase the water-holding capacity of sandy soils, makes heavier soils easier to work, helps to prevent crusting and also serves as a valuable source of nutrients.

All gardens should be protected by a winter cover crop, such as rye or rye grass (or winter barley in southern Ohio). Rye is preferable for late cover crop seedings. Rye and barley seed at a rate of 3 to 4 pounds for 1000 square feet. Ryegrass is also excellent, but should be seeded before Sept. 15 for best results. It may be seeded at a rate of 1½ to 2 pounds for 1000 square feet.

These cover crops add large quantities of organic matter when turned under in the spring. They also help to prevent erosion. Winter cover crops should be planted early enough to obtain a good growth before winter. Cover crops may be seeded between the rows in September, if the vegetables are not yet harvested.

It Not Only Tilted But It Also Exploded

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — A pinball machine not only tilted but exploded when Earl Williams dropped his nickel in. Fifteen stitches were needed to close his wounds.

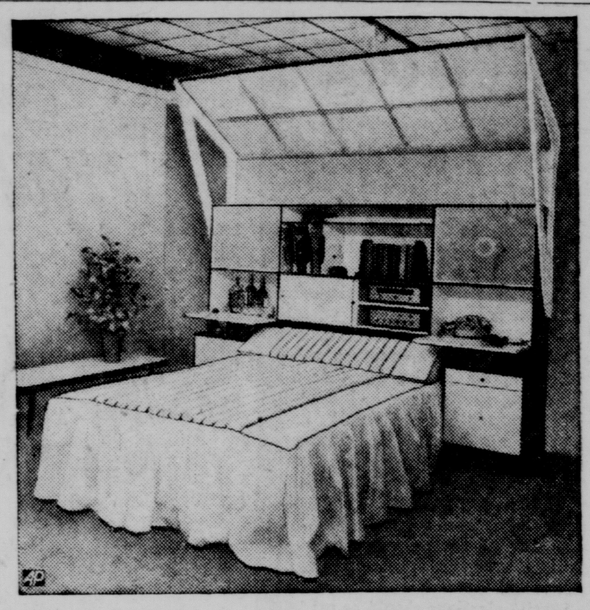
A car battery being recharged near the pinball machine filled it with hydrogen and sulphur fumes, officers explained. When Williams dropped in his coin and set off the machine's electrical current, a minor explosion resulted.

Old Military Device

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — One of the world's most modern fighting forces here is using a military device more than 6,000 years old. The 79th Fighter Group, an Air Force jet fighter outfit, uses bugle calls to tell the hour for rising, dining, worship and sleep.

Well-Named Ohioans

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Among Ohio's veterinarians are doctors named Bear, Bird and Beavers.



THE OLD CANOPY BED has gone modern. This new concept represents the ultimate in laziness. The bed is equipped with a sterophonic hi-fi two-speaker system with AM and FM radio, four-speed record player and cabinet, book shelf, desk with phone, bar and liquor storage cabinet. The entire unit sits on two night stands, one containing the record player and the other a small refrigerator. Lighting comes from the canopy.

INSPIRATION LIGHTING begins at the front door in today's modern home. Recessed fixtures brighten the entrances and make the home more inviting. Garden lights provide both daytime and nighttime glamor for the entrance.

Veteran Boxholder

CRESTON, Iowa (AP) — Attorney Richard Brown has semi-retired and decided to have his mail delivered to his home instead of a post office box. Brown rented box 148 on Nov. 15, 1903, and had used it since.

Wrong Huntington

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Opening of U. S. Tax Court here was delayed by the late arrival of the court reporter from Cincinnati. He had gone to Huntington, Ind., by mistake.

Postage Is Due

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Mrs. Ida Spurlock received a letter from her daughter in Lawton, Okla., with two stamps on the envelope — both trading stamps of the grocery store variety.

You Can't Win

WEST LEBANON, Ind. (AP) — The West Lebanon Gazette ran a story blaming a recent rash of typographical errors on gremlins. It cam eout spelled "remlins."

Correct Lighting Lends Drama To Home Styling

After nearly 80 years of life, most of it as a mere convenience, Thomas A. Edison's electric light has become a thorough sophisticate.

Used as a decorative element, says Robert Heckman, light can lend drama to a home. But there are so many breeds and varieties of light fixtures, this light fixture stylist warns that care must be used to choose the proper one.

This idea is seconded by the American Home Lighting Institute, which advises: "Lighting deserves as much attention as the selection of furniture and interior decoration. The wrong fixture can ruin the effect of a well - planned room."

FAR FROM being only a convenience, stylist Heckman says, lighting now falls into five categories: impression, comfort, convenience, safety and protection.

Impression lighting, he says creates dramatic and decorative effects on furnishings, walls and special objects in every room as well as on the outside of the house.

Comfort lighting contributes to overall comfort while you are reading, playing cards, dressing or writing letters.

Convenience lighting furnishes functional needs of everyday family living.

Safety lighting prevents stumbling on stairways or bumping into things in a dim hallway or entranceway.

Protection lighting provides safety outdoors along driveways, entrances and walks, as well as for outdoor living on patios and in back yards.

—:—

LIGHTING fixtures can be installed to provide imaginative light to emphasize a fireplace, dramatize a room section, accent a mural or a planter and stress hospitality, says Heckman. The effect is theatrical.

Here are some suggestions from the lighting institute:

1.—Contemporary fixtures are best for contemporary rooms, while traditional goes with traditional. In some cases, the two can be mixed to create transitional rooms.

2.—The fixture should continue the feeling of the room, be it one of formality or casualness.

3.—The size of the fixture should be in proportion to the size of the room. A small fixture in a large room tends to be glaring. A larger fixture giving off the same amount of light is much more pleasant and has the effect of making the room look larger.

4.—Incandescent bulbs and fluorescent tubes should be shielded to prevent glare. Fixtures in closets and storage areas are the exception.

5.—For chandelier - type fixtures, use bulbs of 25 watts or less shielded by clear or frosted glass shades.

6.—At least one fixture in a room should be controlled by a wall switch at each entrance to that room.

—:—

Cornices are constructed similar to valances, except that they are attached directly to the ceiling and cast light downward only.

Wood Paneling Gains Favor In Present-Day Bathrooms

By The Associated Press

Bathrooms have come a long way since that day not so long ago when it was popular to pattern them after hospitals with the walls and fixtures an antiseptic white.

The first step toward integration of the bathroom into the decorating scheme of the rest of the home was the addition of color.

Now wood paneling is making its entry into the field.

Properly finished and installed, wood resists the moisture and temperature changes caused by hot showers and baths. Its easy workability permits installation of built-in units — under-basin cabinets, closets and shelves.

The first important step in installing wood paneling in bathrooms, or other locations subject to dampness, is the application of an initial coat of penetrating sealer, varnish or paint.

The initial coating should be applied to cover the face, back and all ends and edges of the paneling. It should be allowed to dry throughly before the paneling is nailed into place.

When applying the paneling to tile walls, a nailing surface must be provided. For vertical paneling, at least four horizontal strips 1 by 2 inches, should be used.

These may be fixed to wood nailing blocks, to wood lath set in a mortar joint, or to metal nailing inserts. The strips should be placed at the top and bottom with two between, about two feet apart.

The paneling should butt the base and cornice moulding.

Paneling should be face nailed with the nails countersunk and wood filler applied to the nail holes.

After installation, the paneling should be cleaned with 3-0 or 4-0 garnet paper to remove dirt and blemishes and offer a smooth surface for finishing.

At least two, and preferably three, coats of varnish or lacquer should be used in finishing. Between coats, the surface should be cleaned with 6-0 sandpaper or fine steel wool, sanding with the grain.

Proper Tools, Sound Advice Lighten Do-It-Yourself Jobs

Do-it-yourself can take care of some important home improvements.

Even the householder just so-so with tools is in for some pleasant surprises when he learns what can be done with a few tools and easy-to-use materials.

Some jobs, of course, call for very special skills. And a few such as electrical work and plumbing, can be downright dangerous if not done by experts. But there is an almost endless list of projects which can easily be accomplished by the home owner himself.

These can range from putting up drapery and curtain rods to adding a patio or a packaged steel garage or tool shed. And the money saved through do-it-yourself often makes possible the big jobs where outside help is a must.

No matter what the project, the home owner's best friend is his local dealer.

He's prepared to supply tools and materials for practically any job within the capabilities of the average homeowner, together with detailed instructions in use.

His customers don't have to be experts eigher. Since the dealer is a member of the community, he's familiar with home owners' problems, has probably solved many of them in his own house.

Given a simple description of the problem, he can come up with just the right materials, plus all the tools needed.

Since he's up to the minute on new developments in the home improvement field, he can often simplify a job by recommending new materials. Factory-assembled steel shelves and cabinets, for example, add up to a much easier job than the old-fashioned fussing with brackets and planking.

Another improvement eliminates electrical extension cords festooned around the room. These can be dangerous as well as unsightly, especially in kitchens, workshops and utility rooms.

New thin gauge steel strips with built-in electrical outlets plug into existing wall sockets, bring juice right where it's needed. And they pracitcally install themselves.

Every home should have a basic set of sturdy steel hand tools.

Correct Lighting Lends Drama To Home Styling

After nearly 80 years of life, most of it as a mere convenience, Thomas A. Edison's electric light has become a thorough sophisticate.

Used as a decorative element, says Robert Heckman, light can lend drama to a home. But there are so many breeds and varieties of light fixtures, this light fixture stylist warns that care must be used to choose the proper one.

This idea is seconded by the American Home Lighting Institute, which advises: "Lighting deserves as much attention as the selection of furniture and interior decoration. The wrong fixture can ruin the effect of a well - planned room."

FAR FROM being only a convenience, stylist Heckman says, lighting now falls into five categories: impression, comfort, convenience, safety and protection.

Impression lighting, he says creates dramatic and decorative effects on furnishings, walls and special objects in every room as well as on the outside of the house.

Comfort lighting contributes to overall comfort while you are reading, playing cards, dressing or writing letters.

Convenience lighting furnishes functional needs of everyday family living.

Safety lighting prevents stumbling on stairways or bumping into things in a dim hallway or entranceway.

Protection lighting provides safety outdoors along driveways, entrances and walks, as well as for outdoor living on patios and in back yards.

—:—

LIGHTING fixtures can be installed to provide imaginative light to emphasize a fireplace, dramatize a room section, accent a mural or a planter and stress hospitality, says Heckman. The effect is theatrical.

Here are some suggestions from the lighting institute:

1.—Contemporary fixtures are best for contemporary rooms, while traditional goes with traditional. In some cases, the two can be mixed to create transitional rooms.

2.—The fixture should continue the feeling of the room, be it one of formality or casualness.

3.—The size of the fixture should be in proportion to the size of the room. A small fixture in a large room tends to be glaring. A larger fixture giving off the same amount of light is much more pleasant and has the effect of making the room look larger.

4.—Incandescent bulbs and fluorescent tubes should be shielded to prevent glare. Fixtures in closets and storage areas are the exception.

5.—For chandelier - type fixtures, use bulbs of 25 watts or less shielded by clear or frosted glass shades.

6.—At least one fixture in a room should be controlled by a wall switch at each entrance to that room.

—:—

DESIGNERS achieve dramatic effects, the institute says, by choosing the right fixture shielding — the glass or metal surrounding the bulbs. It is also done with speciality fixtures such as spotlights, wall fixtures and structural lighting.

Who created the idea that went into the message that sent the reader out of the house to buy?

SINCE A MAJOR AMOUNT OF ADVERTISING is created by advertising agencies, the chances are that one of the country's 3,000 skilled advertising agencies thought up, wrote, designed and placed the newspaper ad that sent this lady out to buy.

Last year advertising agencies and other advertisers in the U.S. and Canada placed over $10 billion worth of advertising in newspapers, magazines, radio, television and outdoor advertising. The largest amount, by far, was invested in daily newspapers.

The function of an advertising agency is to increase the sales and profits of its clients. In the relatively few years that agencies have been in existence they have helped to make thousands of products household words. Through their contribution to greater sales, they as well as their clients have helped us to enjoy the highest standard of living anywhere in the world.

And, from the start, agencies and newspapers have worked closely to bring news of products and services to you, the consumer. Most agencies, like the clients they serve so well, recognize the daily newspaper as the most effective advertising medium to introduce and maintain any product on the market.

Contractor Saves Many Headaches

"Let George do it" is rapidly becoming the rallying cry of householders throughout the land. And when George is the local building contractor, it's a darn smart move.

Do-it-yourself is a fine old American tradition, and there's not a word against it — in its proper place.

There's plenty of room for self-help in home improvement, too. But for a good many jobs, the only smart thing is to whistle for the first team — the professional building contractor.

—:—

HE'S THE man who carries the ball from home owner's pipe-dream to smooth - running performance.

And he handles a lot of important details like permits and building code compliance on the way. Most important of all, however, his experience and knowledge can prevent costly mistakes.

It's his job to know local regulations, material availability and labor.

Keeping one trade waiting while another finishes up can be costly; delays because materials haven't arrived can be just as expensive. When a contractor is handling the job, such extra costs come out of his pocket, so he takes good care they don't happen.

Many home improvement projects involve serious problems of safety and health.

There are very few laymen, no matter how expert, who really have the knowledge to deal with these problems. The protection a skilled contractor automatically builds into his jobs can't be measured in terms of dollars and cents.

Every community has regulations covering the various phases of construction. Failure to comply with local ordinances can mean trouble, even costly fines.

And, many a well - intentioned amateur has unwittingly voided his valuable insurance coverage by violating the perinent codes. Turning the job over to a contractor bypasses these pitfalls, since he guarantees that all work will pass the most rigid inspection.

—:—

THE OLD joke about the man who painted himself into a corner is still a cartoonist's staple, but it's nothing to the troubles tyro home improvers really get into.

The complexity of modern life doesn't stop at the front door mat; the knowledge needed to select and install the right materials and equipment from the myriads available is, quite literally, a life study.

And acquiring this knowledge is how the contractor spends a good part of his days — and nights too.

Finding the variety of specialists needed on a home improvement project and then organizing them into a smooth-working team is a full - time job, and one that requires a lot of experience. Here, too, the expert contractor can achieve major savings in time, temper and money.

There's still another advantage to dealing with a contractor, and one of prime importance.

Many jobs around the house sound simple enough when they are in the talking stage, but turn out to be well-nigh impossible in the doing phase.

The contractor can spot these domestic quicksands before the ill-fated job is started. And in almost every case he can point out a practical way around the troubles.

Proper Painting Will Add To Value Of Your Property

There are two good reasons to paint: to protect the home and to beautify it.

Both are good business, for painting increases the value of the home.

If you plan to do the job yourself, here are some tips.

Your best friend is your paint dealer. He can tell you how much paint to buy, what kind of paint to apply to each surface, and acquaint you with the new paints which will make your job easier and longer lasting.

—:—

READ instructions on each can of paint carefully and follow them implicitly. The manufacturer knows best how his paint should be applied, whether it should be thinned and what type thinner to use.

The painting job will be easier with the right type brushes. For the outside of the house, a 3½-to 4-inch brush is recommended for large areas, a 2½-to 3-inch for trim, a 1-to-2-inch angular sash tool for around windows. Inside, a 4-inch brush or 7-inch roller is generally recommended.

Your dealer may mix the paint on a machine. If not, first pour the top liquid into another container. Stir the remainder until smooth.

Gradually add the liquid, stirring constantly until it has a uniform consistency. Finish by pouring back and forth from one container to another.

In applying the paint, dip about one-third the length of the bristles into the paint, tapping off the excess against the inside of the can. Use rhythmical back and forth strokes, lifting the brush gradually at the end of each stroke so you don't deposit a thick edge of paint.

—:—

ALWAYS apply paint to an unpainted area and work into the wet edge.

The professional will deposit several spots of paint and join them together. When a section has been covered, go over it with light, quick strokes to smooth brush and lap marks and to re-coat thin spots.

In using a roller, first paint a strip around the edge of ceiling, windows and woodwork with a brush.

Pour the mixed paint into the roller tray, covering about two-thirds of the bottom. Roll the applicator in the paint, covering it evenly. Start on a dry spot and roll toward the wet edges, first in one direction and then the other. Smooth out by cross-rolling lightly.

Try to finish each day's painting at a window or corner so lap marks will not show.

When painting windows be sure to move the sash before the paint has dried completely to prevent sticking.

Austria Expresses 'Thanks' For American Aid Program

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a word of thanks today for the American taxpayer. It comes from the Austrian government and is addressed straight to the taxpayer himself rather than to the U.S. government that forwarded the taxpayer's money to help Austria after the war.

This shines out in a world where Americans are more used to being criticized than thanked.

In several parts of the world, of late, there have been anti-Yankee rioting and some instances of mobs trying to attack American embassies and wrecking American information centers.

Most of these countries have been recipients of U.S. foreign aid and in at least one recent instance this American aid was a major factor in the nation's economy.

But Austria says it is pleased with our aid program. In a 368-page volume entitled, "Ten Years of European Recovery Program in Austria, 1948-1958," the first page reads:

"Dedicated to the unknown American taxpayers to whose tax contributions the Austrian economy owes the millions contributed in good will toward its reconstruction."

The Austrian gesture comes — unwittingly or not — while Congress is debating next year's foreign aid spending. This program has been criticized even more severely at home than abroad.

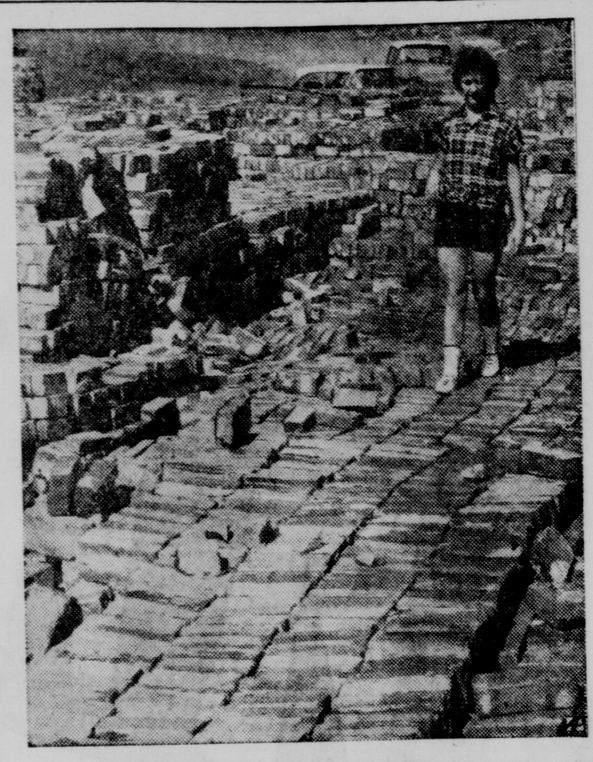
Economic aid takes several forms. A Development Loan Fund helps underdeveloped nations build dams, roads and harbor facilities.

Some countries that don't qualify for defense support come under a special assistance program. And there is a technical assistance program whereby we provide technicians and some supplies in helping other governments with their budgetary, farming and education problems.

Criticism of U.S. aid by foreigners has usually been that it wasn't big enough, although some don't like the strings that Congress has tied onto how American dollars are to be spent.

But Austrian Chancellor Julius Raab tells his citizens: "We should be mindful of the fact that the means for our reconstruction were contributed by the American taxpayer in pursuance of a broadly conceived generous plan of his government. To him, America's man in the street, Austria owes its thanks."

Although the watermelon is named for the large amount of water it contains — about 92 per cent —even more water is contained in tomatoes, cucumbers, squash and lettuce.



TONS OF USED BRICKS, stacked in a Kansas City yard awaiting shipment to customers by dealer Eugene D. Hadlock, are surveyed by Margie Thompson, 17, of Prairie du Rocher, Ill. Hadlock makes a business of salvaging used bricks for sale to people seeking special effects.

These Tips Will Be Of Value When Painting Interior Wall

By The Associated Press

You have a choice of two types of odorless paints for interior walls: the water - thinned latex paints and the solvent - thinned alkyd enamels.

The latex paints — also called emulsion, pastic or rubberized paints — dry in less than an hour, show no lap marks, can be touched up later without showing and are easily cleaned.

Alkyd paints are available in flat, semi-gloss or gloss and are made of tough synthetic resins which are dissolved in odorless solvents.

Flat paints are recommended for walls and ceilings of living areas, semi - gloss of woodwork, glossy enamel for kitchens and bathrooms.

BEFORE painting, dust the walls. Kitchen and bathroom walls and woodworks may have to be washed to remove grease.

Wax must be removed, loose or peeling paint scraped away, rough spots sanded and too - smooth surfaces slightly roughened.

Plaster cracks should be filled with spackling compound and sanded smooth when dry. Before painting is a good time to relocate picture hooks if you plan to move paintings or mirrors.

Remove the hardware in the room — light switch plates, plates around door knobs, lifts and catches about windows — and loosen lighting fixtures. Move light pieces of furniture from the room and the heavier pieces into the center. Cover them with drop cloths.

—:—

PAINT THE ceiling first, working across the width instead of the length. Let it dry completely before starting the walls.

On walls, start at the upper left-hand corner and work toward the floor. Protect the newly - painted ceiling by using a cardboard or paint guard or a special roller.

Don't begin woodwork until walls are dry, unless you are using the same paint for both surfaces.

Use a round one - inch brush or angular sash tool for the window sash. When painting windows, first coat the narrow pane dividers. Next paint the horizontal parts of the sash, then the verticals. Follow with the vertical portions of the frame and then the horizontal parts of the sill.

Most wallpaper can be painted, but it is wise to test a small hidden area to make sure there are no ingredients in the paper which will bleed through the paint. Before painting be sure any loose areas are pasted down.

Gloss enamel is applied differently from flat paints. Enamel—and varnish, too — should never be brushed out like paint.

When enameling, fill the brush and apply quickly and freely, "flowing" and enamel with the grain of the wood. Without refilling the brush, stroke across the grain. This will spread the enamel — or varnish — in an even film, covering any misses.

Hard To Escape

Contractor Saves Many Headaches

"Let George do it" is rapidly becoming the rallying cry of householders throughout the land. And when George is the local building contractor, it's a darn smart move.

Do-it-yourself is a fine old American tradition, and there's not a word against it — in its proper place.

There's plenty of room for self-help in home improvement, too. But for a good many jobs, the only smart thing is to whistle for the first team — the professional building contractor.

—:—

HE'S THE man who carries the ball from home owner's pipe-dream to smooth - running performance.

And he handles a lot of important details like permits and building code compliance on the way. Most important of all, however, his experience and knowledge can prevent costly mistakes.

It's his job to know local regulations, material availability and labor.

Keeping one trade waiting while another finishes up can be costly; delays because materials haven't arrived can be just as expensive. When a contractor is handling the job, such extra costs come out of his pocket, so he takes good care they don't happen.

Many home improvement projects involve serious problems of safety and health.

There are very few laymen, no matter how expert, who really have the knowledge to deal with these problems. The protection a skilled contractor automatically builds into his jobs can't be measured in terms of dollars and cents.

Every community has regulations covering the various phases of construction. Failure to comply with local ordinances can mean trouble, even costly fines.

And, many a well - intentioned amateur has unwittingly voided his valuable insurance coverage by violating the perinent codes. Turning the job over to a contractor bypasses these pitfalls, since he guarantees that all work will pass the most rigid inspection.

THE OLD joke about the man who painted himself into a corner is still a cartoonist's staple, but it's nothing to the troubles tyro home improvers really get into.

The complexity of modern life doesn't stop at the front door mat; the knowledge needed to select and install the right materials and equipment from the myriads available is, quite literally, a life study.

And acquiring this knowledge is how the contractor spends a good part of his days — and nights too.

Finding the variety of specialists needed on a home improvement project and then organizing them into a smooth-working team is a full - time job, and one that requires a lot of experience. Here, too, the expert contractor can achieve major savings in time, temper and money.

There's still another advantage to dealing with a contractor, and one of prime importance.

Many jobs around the house sound simple enough when they are in the talking stage, but turn out to be well-nigh impossible in the doing phase.

The contractor can spot these domestic quicksands before the ill-fated job is started. And in almost every case he can point out a practical way around the troubles.

TONS OF USED BRICKS, stacked in a Kansas City yard awaiting shipment to customers by dealer Eugene D. Hadlock, are surveyed by Margie Thompson, 17, of Prairie du Rocher, Ill. Hadlock makes a business of salvaging used bricks for sale to people seeking special effects.

Proper Painting Will Add To Value Of Your Property

There are two good reasons to paint: to protect the home and to beautify it.

Both are good business, for painting increases the value of the home.

If you plan to do the job yourself, here are some tips.

Your best friend is your paint dealer. He can tell you how much paint to buy, what kind of paint to apply to each surface, and acquaint you with the new paints which will make your job easier and longer lasting.

READ instructions on each can of paint carefully and follow them implicitly. The manufacturer knows best how his paint should be applied, whether it should be thinned and what type thinner to use.

The painting job will be easier with the right type brushes. For the outside of the house, a 3½-to 4-inch brush is recommended for large areas, a 2½-to 3-inch for trim, a 1-to-2-inch angular sash tool for around windows. Inside, a 4-inch brush or 7-inch roller is generally recommended.

Your dealer may mix the paint on a machine. If not, first pour the top liquid into another container. Stir the remainder until smooth.

Gradually add the liquid, stirring constantly until it has a uniform consistency. Finish by pouring back and forth from one container to another.

In applying the paint, dip about one-third the length of the bristles into the paint, tapping off the excess against the inside of the can. Use rhythmical back and forth strokes, lifting the brush gradually at the end of each stroke so you don't deposit a thick edge of paint.

ALWAYS apply paint to an unpainted area and work into the wet edge.

The professional will deposit several spots of paint and join them together. When a section has been covered, go over it with light, quick strokes to smooth brush and lap marks and to re-coat thin spots.

In using a roller, first paint a strip around the edge of ceiling, windows and woodwork with a brush.

Pour the mixed paint into the roller tray, covering about two-thirds of the bottom. Roll the applicator in the paint, covering it evenly. Start on a dry spot and roll toward the wet edges, first in one direction and then the other. Smooth out by cross-rolling lightly.

Try to finish each day's painting at a window or corner so lap marks will not show.

When painting windows be sure to move the sash before the paint has dried completely to prevent sticking.

These Tips Will Be Of Value When Painting Interior Wall

By The Associated Press

You have a choice of two types of odorless paints for interior walls: the water - thinned latex paints and the solvent - thinned alkyd enamels.

The latex paints — also called emulsion, pastic or rubberized paints — dry in less than an hour, show no lap marks, can be touched up later without showing and are easily cleaned.

Alkyd paints are available in flat, semi-gloss or gloss and are made of tough synthetic resins which are dissolved in odorless solvents.

Flat paints are recommended for walls and ceilings of living areas, semi - gloss of woodwork, glossy enamel for kitchens and bathrooms.

—:—

BEFORE painting, dust the walls. Kitchen and bathroom walls and woodworks may have to be washed to remove grease.

Wax must be removed, loose or peeling paint scraped away, rough spots sanded and too - smooth surfaces slightly roughened.

Plaster cracks should be filled with spackling compound and sanded smooth when dry. Before painting is a good time to relocate picture hooks if you plan to move paintings or mirrors.

Remove the hardware in the room — light switch plates, plates around door knobs, lifts and catches about windows — and loosen lighting fixtures. Move light pieces of furniture from the room and the heavier pieces into the center. Cover them with drop cloths.

—:—

PAINT THE ceiling first, working across the width instead of the length. Let it dry completely before starting the walls.

On walls, start at the upper left-hand corner and work toward the floor. Protect the newly - painted ceiling by using a cardboard or paint guard or a special roller.

Don't begin woodwork until walls are dry, unless you are using the same paint for both surfaces.

Use a round one - inch brush or angular sash tool for the window sash. When painting windows, first coat the narrow pane dividers. Next paint the horizontal parts of the sash, then the verticals. Follow with the vertical portions of the frame and then the horizontal parts of the sill.

Most wallpaper can be painted, but it is wise to test a small hidden area to make sure there are no ingredients in the paper which will bleed through the paint. Before painting be sure any loose areas are pasted down.

Gloss enamel is applied differently from flat paints. Enamel—and varnish, too — should never be brushed out like paint.

When enameling, fill the brush and apply quickly and freely, "flowing" and enamel with the grain of the wood. Without refilling the brush, stroke across the grain. This will spread the enamel — or varnish — in an even film, covering any misses.

Austria Expresses 'Thanks' For American Aid Program

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a word of thanks today for the American taxpayer. It comes from the Austrian government and is addressed straight to the taxpayer himself rather than to the U.S. government that forwarded the taxpayer's money to help Austria after the war.

This shines out in a world where Americans are more used to being criticized than thanked.

In several parts of the world, of late, there have been anti-Yankee rioting and some instances of mobs trying to attack American embassies and wrecking American information centers.

Most of these countries have been recipients of U.S. foreign aid and in at least one recent instance this American aid was a major factor in the nation's economy.

But Austria says it is pleased with our aid program. In a 368-page volume entitled, "Ten Years of European Recovery Program in Austria, 1948-1958," the first page reads:

"Dedicated to the unknown American taxpayers to whose tax contributions the Austrian economy owes the millions contributed in good will toward its reconstruction."

The Austrian gesture comes — unwittingly or not — while Congress is debating next year's foreign aid spending. This program has been criticized even more severely at home than abroad.

Economic aid takes several forms. A Development Loan Fund helps underdeveloped nations build dams, roads and harbor facilities.

Some countries that don't qualify for defense support come under a special assistance program. And there is a technical assistance program whereby we provide technicians and some supplies in helping other governments with their budgetary, farming and education problems.

Criticism of U.S. aid by foreigners has usually been that it wasn't big enough, although some don't like the strings that Congress has tied onto how American dollars are to be spent.

But Austrian Chancellor Julius Raab tells his citizens: "We should be mindful of the fact that the means for our reconstruction were contributed by the American taxpayer in pursuance of a broadly conceived generous plan of his government. To him, America's man in the street, Austria owes its thanks."

Although the watermelon is named for the large amount of water it contains — about 92 per cent —even more water is contained in tomatoes, cucumbers, squash and lettuce.
